Polish Compromise Stalin Victory.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—Further disclosures of what took place at the Big Three conference illuminated the magnitude of the diplomatic victory achieved by Russian Dictator Stalin and the extent of the concessions wrung from President Roosevelt.

It now appears that what the conference statement represented as a compromise on the voting procedure in the proposed new league of nations to enforce peace is no compromise at all but a surrender to Stalin's original demand for the power to veto the use of force against Russia.

It was proposed at Dumbarton Oaks by the American, British, and Chinese delegates that the employment of force by the league against a nation accused of aggression should be authorized by a unanimous vote only of the big powers but that the accused nation would have no vote. The Russians insisted that the accused nation should have a vote, thus being able to veto a proposal to use force against itself.

Stalin Stands Ground.

Such internationalists as John Foster Dulles admitted that such provision would make a farce of any scheme to preserve peace by mobilizing military force against an aggressor.

Apparently Stalin successfully stood his ground on this issue at the Crimean conference. It appears that under the terms of the so-called compromise the accused nation is to be permitted to vote and thereby veto the adoption of economic sanctions or the employment of military force against it.

Stalin agreed that on all questions not involving punitive action decision could be taken by a majority vote with the parties to the dispute not voting. But if economic or military sanctions were proposed Russia could vote and veto action.

F. D. R. Had the Idea.

According to the information put out by the administration concerning the conference, it was the President who thought up this "compromise," which Stalin found he could accept without yielding his original insistence on the power to veto the use of force against Russia.

Stalin also won acceptance of his proposal to force territorial and political concessions from Poland, Mr. Roosevelt backing down from the position he took two months ago when he said such concessions would be acceptable to the United States if agreed upon by both Poland and Russia. Mr. Roosevelt approved the concessions in the Big Three conference altho Poland did not agree. The Big Three decreed that Poland yield the eastern half of its territory to Russia.

Vandenberg on Spot.

These and other aspects of the Crimean conference are understood to account for the hesitation exhibited by Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] to accept appointment as a delegate to the San Francisco conference April 25 which was called by the Big Three to complete the Dumbarton Oaks peace league plan.

Vandenberg frequently has asserted that he would oppose any peace league in which the United States would be required to use its economic or military power to maintain an unjust peace settlement.

Close friends of the Michigan senator, however, are convinced he will accept the appointment ultimately.

INCOME TAX ADVICE.

The first of a series of nine articles on the individual income tax appears in today's Investors' Guide column on page 22. The articles will explain recent changes in tax regulations and tell how to prepare returns. Investors' Guide will answer specific questions of readers by mail.

S.I. Rosenman, Aid of F.D.R., Flies to Rome

PARIS, Feb. 14 (AP). — President Roosevelt is expected to visit Italy and call on Pope Pius, and perhaps, come to France during his current visit abroad, it was reported reliably today.

Samuel I. Rosenman, a special adviser to the President, left by a special plane today for Rome and was expected to confer with his chief there.

Correspondents Awaited.

Mr. Roosevelt was reported preparing to receive in Italy a group of White House correspondents flown from Washington, D. C., for a press conference on the Big Three meeting.

[This reference apparently was to certain White House reporters, including an Associated Press representative. There has been no Washington announcement of their trip pending formal clearance from abroad.]

The President is expected to inspect war ruins in Italy and return to various spots he visited in that country as a young man.

It is quite conceivable that the President will come to France, where arrangements to receive him have been made both by the French government and by allied supreme headquarters.

High ranking administration officials and army officers have been summoned to be prepared to meet the President. Judging from this, the President may intend to make inquiry into the problem of the relief of the French civilian population. It is reported that White House directives for more of this relief have not been fulfilled.

War Scandal Hinted.

One of the war's greatest scandals may come out in this connection if Mr. Roosevelt visits France.

[In Washington, Director Elmer Davis of the office of war information said he assumed that the scandal mentioned was the failure to ship as much civilian supplies into France as planned before the invasion. "This government made no promise that I know of," Davis said. "The estimates of shipments planned following D-day was our guess rather than any pledge of performance."]

All arrangements of the President's tour are subject to change. While there are no indications that the President is ill, there is no doubt that the Crimean conference has been a hard strain on him and that some of his aids are worried about his physical condition.

CHURCHILL VISITS ATHENS

ATHENS, Greece, Feb. 14 (AP).—British Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden arrived in Athens by plane late today and received an ovation from thousands of Athenians at a ceremony in Constitution square.

Churchill was reported greatly touched by the warmth of the welcome, and to have promised Premier Nicholas Plastiras of Greece that he would make every effort to assist Greece in her rehabilitation.

The crowd cheered as aircraft circled over the city in the cloudless spring sky, and broke into new roars later as an automobile procession brought the visitors to the square.

Churchill rode in an open car with Archbishop Damaskinos, the Greek

DROWNED OUT

11 INMATES FLEE STATE SCHOOL; 8 SOON CAPTURED

Eleven inmates of the Illinois State Training School for Boys near St. Charles pried up a pantry window in Cleveland cottage and escaped over a 13 foot, barbed wire topped fence last night. All were from 15 to 17. There were 38 inmates and a couple serving as substitute house parents in the cottage at the time of the break, about 7:30 p. m.

Two of the fugitives were captured within a few minutes, one on the school grounds, the other just outside, and six more were rounded up within two hours near Batavia. Speedy capture of the others was predicted.

School officials said that the 38 inmates were reading, playing cards, and entertaining themselves during a recreation period after dinner and that one assigned to clean the pantry had remained there. The others congregated in the pantry with him and apparently forced the window and pried off a screen.

DONALD NELSON WEDS FORMER COLLEGE BEAUTY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14 (AP).—Donald M. Nelson, 56, former war production board chairman, was married at 7 o'clock tonight to Marguerite S. Coulbourn, 26, by Justice Thurman Arnold.

Nelson, now special representative of President Roosevelt on international economic affairs, had applied for a marriage license several days ago.

Nelson was divorced Jan. 19 in Chicago. Miss Coulbourn's first husband, Paul Strashun of New York died several years ago.

Miss Coulbourn was the winner of a George Washington university beauty contest in 1939.

How Did He Do It on 'A' Card? Why, He Coasted!

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 14 (AP).—OPA inspectors, checking on out of state automobiles, reported one northern motorist said he made the trip as far as Brooksville, Fla., on an "A" card and "coasted" the 60 miles from Brooksville to St. Petersburg. Motorists who know the road said it was impossible.

Historian Charles Beard Reported Ill of Pneumonia

New York, Feb. 14 (AP).—Dr. Charles A. Beard, historian and author, entered Roosevelt hospital today. He was reported ill of pneumonia. Hospital officials said his condition was "fairly good." He is 70.

USES Job Applicants Lose 10,000 Work Days in Week

BY JUNE GESERICK.

Seventy-eight thousand man hours, or nearly 10,000 working days, were spent last week by men and women in the office of the United States employment service, 308 N. Michigan av., where they went for permission to take jobs in industry. That does not include time spent in traveling to and from the office.

The figures are based on the experiences of 39,000 persons who visited the office during the week ending Feb. 10 and on a report by Norman Nowak, chief of operations in the office, that the average time spent there yesterday by each visitor was two hours. A Tribune reporter followed the progress of four women, chosen at random, thru the necessary processes. The average time spent by the four was 5 hours and 45 minutes.

Waiting Eats Up Time.

The average time spent by each with interviewers was 15 minutes. The rest was spent waiting.

In a report to Charles P. Casey, state director of the war man power commission, Lester Brown, WMC Chicago area director, stated that last week's figures showed a 50 per cent increase over the 26,400 persons who were "reception contacts" the preceding week.

Many visitors yesterday awaited only the permission of the USES to take positions which were being held for them, and many feared that their prospective employers would not understand why it had taken them most of one day, or in some cases two days, to get a referral card.

Some Depart in Anger.

Some, when refused permission to start a certain job, departed in anger with declarations that they would rather not work at all than be "forced to take a job I don't want."

A recent WMC ruling prohibits women from taking jobs in industry without the permission of the USES.

Miss Rosemary Mertes, 18, of 5315 Magnet av., first visited the office on Tuesday to take a job as clerk for the National Safety council. She spent four and a half hours at the USES, and finally was told by an interviewer that the council's priority rating was not high enough. Miss Mertes was refused a referral card and was sent to the Douglas Aircraft plant, Mannheim and Higgins rds., where she was told a stock clerk's job awaited her.

Waits for Four Hours.

Upon her arrival at the plant, she learned that no stock clerk job was available, but that she could be put on the pay roll as an assembly worker on a night shift. Because of her physical condition, she was unable to accept the job, and so reported again yesterday to the USES office. After waiting four hours, Miss Mertes was given a referral card and permission to take the original job with the safety council.

Miss Dolores Wolniak, 21, of 2216 N. Melvina av., sought permission to accept a position as secretary to a loop lawyer. She explained that she wished to make use of her college education and do work for which she had been trained. She called at the USES office on Tuesday, but was informed no more applications for referral cards could be received that day.

Takes Job at Less Pay.

Yesterday she reported again, waited more than four hours, and then was refused permission to accept the position. Several other jobs, all of them in war industries offering lower wages than the job which she sought permission to accept, were offered to her. Miss Wolniak, rather than lose the 10 days or two weeks necessary to appeal the decision of the interviewer, agreed to take a job as secretary to the president of a war plant.

Miss Patricia Murphy, 32, of 620 N. State st., sought permission to accept a job with the Anchor Storage company. She first reported to the USES office at 308 N. Michigan av. on Tuesday, but after waiting nearly two hours was referred to a north side local office of the agency, where she waited for more than half an hour.

Finally Receives Permission.

Miss Murphy then was told that she should return to 308 N. Michigan av. She returned there yesterday, waited four hours, and received permission to accept the storage company position.

Miss Lorraine Goyke, 23, of 7344 Emerald av., was denied permission to take a job with a mortgage company. She, too, had waited four hours. Because she had been trained for mortgage company work, Miss Goyke refused to accept the other jobs offered to her and said she will appeal the case.

NEW DEAL ASKS LAW FOR RULE OF EVERY JOB

Aims at Both Men and Women.

BY PHILIP DODD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—Balked in its attempts to force its "work or jail" bill thru the senate military affairs committee the New Deal administration tomorrow will introduce substitute legislation which would mobilize the entire man power and woman power of the United States under the war man power commission, it was announced tonight.

The new bill reportedly was drafted by the CIO political action committee and given to Sen. Kilgore [D., W. Va.] for introduction in the senate. Kilgore and Sen. Wagner [D., N. Y.], who will sponsor the measure jointly, in a statement tonight described it as a "comprehensive man power measure to supersede the present man power system operating under executive order."

The Kilgore-Wagner bill authorizes the WMC to [1] set employment ceilings fixing the maximum number of workers, by age, sex, or occupational qualifications, who may be employed in any area, activity or place of employment, and [2] prohibit or regulate the hiring, rehiring, or recruiting of new workers by employers.

Gives McNutt Vast Power.

A member of the senate military affairs committee, who would not permit his name to be used, said the bill would give War Man Power Commissioner McNutt "tremendous power, the exercise of which could suppress civilian activity to the detriment of the country as a whole."

Evidence that the CIO had prior knowledge of the proposed Kilgore-Wagner bill was given at today's session of the military affairs committee by Clinton Golden, assistant to CIO President Philip Murray, in Murray's capacity as president of the CIO steelworkers. Golden urged adoption of the proposed bill and described its contents in detail, altho only a handful of senators had seen copies of it.

Golden, representing Murray, had been called by the committee to give his views on the May-Bailey "work or jail" bill.

Backed By AFL Too.

Frank Hines, legislative representative of the American Federation of Labor, appeared before the committee this afternoon in support of the proposed Kilgore-Wagner bill. He said the May-Bailey bill was "a long step down the path that leads to complete totalitarianism," but insisted the Kilgore proposal was acceptable because it "merely strengthens the existing machinery of the WMC."

Kilgore was regarded as a United Mine Workers candidate when he came to congress in 1940. Since organization of the fourth term campaign, however, he has become recognized as a senate mouthpiece for Sidney Hillman's CIO political action committee.

Committee Fight Seen.

Kilgore had told reporters earlier in the week he was preparing amendments to the May-Bailey bill, which would place the administration of man power mobilization in the WMC and strengthen the powers of the man power agency, but had given no hint of the drastic controls proposed in his bill. Sen. Revercomb [R., W. Va.], who has been an outspoken opponent of labor draft legislation in the senate military committee, predicted in an interview tonight there would be "quite a fight" when the Kilgore-Wagner bill comes before the committee officially.

Revercomb and Sen. Taft [R., O.] are sponsors of a substitute for the May-Bailey bill which would authorize draft boards to survey war industries for hoarded labor pools and draft such workers for military service.

Court Convicts Pair Sent to U.S. in U-Boat

New York, Feb. 14 (AP).—William Curtis Colepaugh, an American whom the prosecution called "a double-crossing traitor," and Erich Gimpel, his German accomplice, were convicted today as Nazi spies and sentenced to die by hanging. The military court took three hours to reach its verdict.

Without displaying emotion, Gimpel—and then Colepaugh—stood before a seven man military commission and heard Col. Clinton J. Harrold, its president, say:

"This commission, by a secret written ballot, finds you guilty upon all three counts, and you are hereby sentenced to be hanged by the neck until dead."

Outline of Charges.

The charges against them were: They violated the law of war by secretly landing behind American defense lines from a submarine; they acted as spies in violation of the 82d article of war, and they conspired to commit espionage and sabotage.

The verdict meant that Colepaugh, 26, a native of Niantic, Conn., had tried in vain to throw off the traitor label. He testified he went to Berlin a year ago to join the German army and was made an agent against his wishes. He said he became disillusioned with conditions in the reich and saw in the assignment an opportunity to get away.

The closely censored bulletins of the closed trial indicated he finally got in touch with the FBI—nearly a month after their landing Nov. 29 off Hancock, Me.—and "turned in" Gimpel. Gimpel, 35, was described by Colepaugh as an important person in army security headquarters in Berlin.

Subject to Review.

Before the sentences can be carried out they will be subject to review, first by Maj. Gen. Thomas A. Terry, commanding general of the 2d service command, and then by the board of review of the judge advocate general's office at Washington. If the board of review upholds the verdict, the finding will be sent automatically to President Roosevelt as a final court of appeal.

The trial was the second of its kind in this war. In the summer of 1942 a commission sitting in Washington convicted eight Nazi saboteurs who landed by submarine on the coasts of Long Island and Florida. Six were electrocuted, one was sentenced to life imprisonment at hard labor, and one to 30 years' imprisonment.

Maneuvered for $60,000.

Unlike Colepaugh, Gimpel did not take the stand during the eight day trial.

Colepaugh had testified he was ordered to come to the United States as a "front man" for Gimpel and had decided to turn in Gimpel because "I wanted to help my native country."

The evidence showed that Colepaugh and Gimpel distrusted each other and maneuvered to get control of the $60,000 given them in Germany for their two year mission. FBI agents found $44,095 in Gimpel's briefcase and $10,574 and 99 diamonds in his pockets.

4 NAZI BLOWS SMASHED BACK BY CANADIANS

U. S. 3d Army Gains Near Pruem.

PARIS, Feb. 14 (AP).—British and Canadian forces lunged nearer Hitler's industrially vital Ruhr valley against resistance that began to slacken today after a week of steady pressure. The Canadians advanced all along the front of their wedge which is turning the flank of German divisions holding the northern end of the Siegfried line and the Rhine plain.

They pushed to points northeast of Kleve, four miles southeast of Kleve, cleared the Kleve forest three miles north of Goch and established a second bridgehead over the Niers river, west of Kessel.

The German command hurled at least four counter-attacks against the Canadian units driving eastward, but they were officially described as generally lighter than previous counter-thrusts and all were repulsed, some with the aid of allied planes.

3d Army Moves Ahead.

Lt. Gen. Patton's United States 3d army—the only other major unit of Gen. Eisenhower's massive forces now participating in the attack on Germany from the west—scored gains up to a mile in expanding its Wallendorf-Echternach bridgehead south of captured Pruem.

Doughboys of the 5th infantry division pushed halfway thru the village of Ernzen, two miles north of Echternach, and reached a point beyond Ferschweiler, three-quarters of a mile from the Pruem river. A field dispatch said German artillery fire had decreased markedly in that sector, indicating that the enemy was pulling back to new positions.

On the 1st army front, just to the north, Lt. Gen. Hodges' forces used mortars and artillery to break up German preparations for a strong attack in the Hellenrath sector. The Nazis were observed hurriedly digging defenses on the east side of the flooded Roer river three miles east of Hurtgen.

Roer Flood Falls Slowly.

Allied headquarters reported that the Roer, along which the American 1st and 9th and the British 2d armies are standing, had receded four inches from its highest point by late Tuesday, but still was five to six feet above normal as a result of the enemy's opening of dams at its headwaters. The river's present average depth is between 11 and 12 feet.

Taking advantage of bright sunshiny weather, the American 9th tactical airforce flew more than 200 sorties and blasted targets from Duesseldorf to Coblenz, including Nazi headquarters at Bad Ems, five miles east of Coblenz, which was set ablaze. Some 2,000 allied planes flew in direct support of the British and Canadian drive in the north. The tactical air forces lost 23 planes, mostly to anti-aircraft fire.

Air activity alone enlivened the 7th army front, with allied planes renewing their attacks on German held towns. Drusenheim, in the path of the 36th infantry division, was heavily bombed.

Nazis Use Elite Troops.

Attempting to stem the British and Canadian flanking threat to the vital Ruhr basin, the Nazi high command threw in elite parachute troops and self-propelled guns in an effort to check the drive eastward from Kleve and to wipe out the newly won allied bridgehead across the Niers river west of Kessel.

One allied column was fighting forward within a mile and a half of the heavily fortified road center of Goch, eight miles south of Kleve. Goch already was outflanked by the capture of Bedburg and Hasselt, twin towns east of Kleve.

Another road center, Calcar, was the objective of other British troops who neared Moyland, three miles to the northwest. Moyland is 18 miles from the important Ruhr valley city of Wesel.

On the southern flank of the offensive front. Scottish troops rushed steadily down a road toward Afferden on the east bank of the Maas. A field dispatch said that both bridgeheads over the Niers river in the vicinity of Gennep and Viller had been expanded in heavy fighting. One was more than a half mile deep.

Allied troops were within a few hundred yards of Kessel, road hub at the southern edge of the Reichswald.

Despite flooded fields and roads which forced them to use amphibious "buffaloes," Canadian troops pushing northeastward from Kleve captured the town of Warbeyen, less than two and a half miles from the German industrial city of Emmerich on the east bank of the Rhine. Much of the terrain east of Kleve was inundated, and the Nazis continued to open dikes and flood gates to hamper the allied advance.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Wednesday's official German war report of fighting on the western front said:

"Between the lower Rhine and Maas [Meuse], southeast of Gennep, our troops achieved a big defensive success yesterday [Tuesday]. They smashed most of the British attacks or threw the enemy back again in counter-attack.

"Floods on the Roer have forced the Americans to make regroupings which are being strongly attacked by our artillery. Fierce fighting is going on in the streets of Pruem, into which the enemy again has penetrated.

"On the Sure [river] our formations again yesterday were involved in fierce defensive fighting against the enemy attacking from his bridgehead between Wallendorf and Echternach. On the rest of the western front, mutual shock troop actions at Saarlautern and increasing artillery fire on fronts in Alsace-Lorraine have been reported. In the Haguenau sector several enemy attacks failed.

"Retaliatory fire on London is continued. The Antwerp area, too, is constantly subjected to our long

CHICAGOAN WINS DEBATE; BRITON ASKS ANOTHER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 14.—Emanuel Shinwell, Laborite member of parliament and a Labor party executive, has challenged Capt. G. R. Cermak of Chicago, Ill., a lawyer, to a debate on socialism, it was reported tonight.

Shinwell objected to Cermak's attack on the Labor party at the Cambridge Union debate Monday. As a member of a team of American airmen opposing a motion that labor organize as a political party in the United States, Cermak contended that the Labor party would never achieve socialism in Britain because the party was "sick and full of internal conflict." America, he said, did not want "such a party dominated by the big trade unions with only sectional interests at heart." The Americans won the Cambridge Union debate.

Shinwell suggested that a British visitor to America expressing similar views about the Democrats or Republicans would get a bad press. He said he was prepared to nominate a debating team to renew the discussion with Cermak.

2 CHICAGOANS OF 83D DIVISION WIN PROMOTION

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SPA, Belgium, Feb. 14.—Headquarters of the 83d division has just announced the promotion of Sgt. William Oliver, 6429 Aberdeen av., Chicago, to staff sergeant and Pvt. Robert Baker, 7752 Monroe st., Chicago, to sergeant.

Staff Sgt. Leslie Black, Madison, Ill., won a bronze star for taking charge of a platoon mortar section and repulsing all attacks while surrounded for three days.

Pvt. Harold Eubank, Willow Hill, Ill., received a similar decoration for bringing ammunition to a machine gun section under fire from tanks thereby enabling the capture of a strong point enfilading his comrades.

Red Cross to Distribute First Clothing in France

PARIS, Feb. 14 (AP).—The Red Cross announced today that the first supplies of clothing for Paris civilians will be distributed tomorrow to bombed out families of the suburb of St. Cyr l'Ecole by the civil affairs section of supreme allied headquarters. The four tons of clothing to be handed out are a part of the more than 1,500 tons the Red Cross collected in the United States.

THIEF TAKES $1,200 IN BONDS.

A burglar took $1,200 in war bonds, 13 mufflers, five ties, five handkerchiefs, an alarm clock, and a wristwatch, from the apartment of Sam Stoyas, 3450 Southport av., early yesterday, he reported to police.

How Allied Armies Might Split Germany

10 NAZI CENTERS OF INDUSTRY HIT BY 8,000 PLANES

Strike Major Blow at Dresden, Near Reds.

LONDON, Feb. 14 (AP).—Approximately 8,000 allied planes, more than 3,000 of them heavy bombers, spread destruction thruout Germany during the last 24 hours, blasting at least 10 industrial centers and delivering a tremendous blow to Dresden, eastern gateway to the heart of the reich.

This around the clock bombardment, one of the greatest of the war, was aimed at the vital fuel and communications targets of Dresden, Chemnitz, Magdeburg, and Bohlen—all south of Berlin and within 120 miles of the capital—and at Nuernberg, Bohn, Dortmund, and Vienna and Maribor in Yugoslavia.

Tonight more than 1,300 roval air force bombers swarmed over Germany, smashing at Chemnitz and delivering secondary blows at Berlin and a synthetic oil plant at Rositz in Saxony south of Leipzig.

The Dresden attack was in direct and coördinated support of Russian troops advancing westward thru Silesia.

Packed with Refugees.

Dresden was caught in a tornado of explosives as a force of 2,250 United States heavy bombers and fighters delivered their main attack on the refugee-packed capital of Saxony.

The American air strikes came in the wake of blows by 1,400 R. A. F. bombers Tuesda ynight. Of these 800 bombed Dresden twice in attacks three hours apart. The British dumped perhaps 2,200 tons of bombs on the city, and it still was burning when 450 American Flying Fortresses arrived later in the day.

Another 450 Fortresses attacked transportation and industrial targets at Chemnitz, 35 miles southwest of Dresden, and 400 Liberators hit targets at Magdeburg, 70 miles west of Berlin.

Chemnitz, a machine-tool center about 30 miles from the border of Czechoslovakia, has four railway yards capable of handling 3,500 cars daily and repair shops employing 6,000 men.

Hit Bridge Across Rhine.

Some 50 Liberators flew to Wesel, 19 miles ahead of the Canadian 1st army on the western front, and made direct hits on a six span bridge across the Rhine.

Italy-based Flying Fortresses and Liberators of the United States 15th air force escorted by Mustangs and Lightnings blasted oil and rail targets in Vienna and freight yards at Maribor, Yugoslavia, for the second day.

Liberators also bombed the rail yards at Klagenfurt, Austria. Mitchells and Thunderbolts of the United States 12th air force flew thru bad weather and hammered bridges and other targets along the Brenner pass rail line. Thunderbolts attacked the important Travisio route in northeastern Italy.

FRENCH INQUIRY CLEARS CLERGY OF PRO-NAZIISM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 14.—Secluded trials of French priests, bishops, and archbishops accused of collaborating with the Nazis, have been concluded, it was announced today.

"After complete investigations of the facts none of the accused was found guilty of the charges," said Cardinal Eugene Tisserant, who flew to France from the Vatican to help conduct the examinations. "The pope has asked all Catholics to obey and honor the clergy regardless of accusations and political differences. If the French government insists on the recall of Catholic dignitaries it should notify the ambassador to the Vatican who alone may present a petition."

Cardinal Suhard, archbishop of Paris, charged with giving aid to the enemy by protesting Anglo-American bombardments and officiating at German ceremonies, was acquitted when it was disclosed that he had been made a prisoner by the Gestapo during the occupation of Paris.

NEW RED DRIVES SWEEP TOWARD BERLIN, DRESDEN

Gain 13 Miles in Silesia; Seize 7 Strongholds.

LONDON, Feb. 15 [Thursday] (AP).—The Russian 1st Ukraine army, lunging across Silesia 13 miles in a day, seized seven German city strongholds yesterday in a two pronged drive toward Berlin and Dresden. These drives were aided by American and R. A. F. bombers that smashed Dresden, Chemnitz, and other centers in the path of the advance.

Dresden was 68 miles or less ahead of the Russian forces which could clearly see the sky reddening fires set by their western allies in that imperiled capital of Saxony province.

Premier Stalin hailed the onslaught by Marshal Konev's troops in an order of the day and 20 salvos from 24 guns saluted the drive.

A second order announced capture by Marshal Zhukov's 1st White Russian army of Schneidemuehl, holdout bastion in Pomerania which had been encircled since Feb. 1. The town is some 15 miles behind the lines.

Reds Cross Queis River.

Konev's men held the spotlight, however. Moscow news dispatches said they had crossed the Queis river defense line in their drive toward Dresden. The Swiss radio quoted German accounts as saying the northern wing had reached Sommerfeld, 71 miles southeast of Berlin. The German DNB news agency broadcast that Konev had broken into Sorau, 84 miles southeast of Berlin.

By Russian official account Konev's nearest approach to Berlin was 84 miles, with capture of Freystadt, 75 miles northwest of besieged Breslau. The German radio said Breslau was surrounded, with the battle approaching a climax.

Other cities taken in this northwestward sweep included Neusalz, six miles northeast of Freystadt; Neustadtel, seven miles southeast, and Sprottau, 13 miles south.

The southwestern wing swept over Goldberg, Jauer, and Striegau, from 45 to 28 miles southwest of Breslau and a score of miles from the Czechoslovak border.

Nazis Admit Setback.

The German radio conceded that Konev's forces were "inevitably tearing gaps in our lines" and said the people's army and "alarm units" had been thrown into the struggle to keep lines of retreat open.

A Moscow news analyst, Nikolai Akimov, declared that Konev's drive was of such great importance that "it is difficult as yet to foresee all its consequences." He predicted the Germans would have to throw in "several dozen" more divisions to fill Konev's 100 mile gap in their defenses.

On the other eastern front sectors obscure battles raged.

A delayed dispatch to Moscow from the central front east of Berlin said that a big battle was in progress as the Germans steadily buttressed their Kuestrin and Frankfurt-on-Oder defenses against Marshal Zhukov's blows. This dispatch said three days of snow had turned roads into a mess and that soviet troops were mud-caked from head to foot.

Nazis Using New Plane.

It told of successive German counter-attacks which the Russians met by pulling back their tanks and sending infantry and artillery ahead thru the mud. It said the Germans on that front were using a new fighter plane, the Focke-Wulfe 190A-8.

German radio commentators said that fighting around Frankfurt and Kuestrin was "only of a local character," and that the Russians were slugging away at the approaches to Stettin, Berlin's Baltic port, against strong German defenses.

The German commentators also said fighting in East Prussia had died down somewhat, altho Russian dispatches said Koenigsberg's defenses appeared to be cracking.

The Russians confirmed German accounts of a continuing soviet drive northward in the Polish Corridor and just inside the German border some 60 miles southwest of Danzig in an apparent outflanking movement. Fifty towns fell to the Russians there yesterday, including one only 12 miles south of the communications center of Chojnice.

German radio commentators said that fighting around Frankfurt and Kuestrin was "only of a local character," and that the Russians were slugging away at the approaches to Stettin, Berlin's Baltic

OFFICIAL GERMAN REPORT OF ACTION ON EASTERN FRONT

The German war bulletin as broadcast yesterday by Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press said:

"In Slovakia, major enemy attacks were beaten off in hard mountain fighting and some penetrations were sealed off.

"In the area southwest of Breslau the enemy sent new forces into battle. In spite of tough resistance by our troops, in whose ranks Volkssturm and alarm units are fighting, the enemy succeeded in gaining ground in lower Silesia toward the west and northwest.

"Fighting is in progress in Sorau. Numerous enemy attacks against the fortress of Glogau were beaten back by the garrison.

"In southern Pomerania the soviets launched abortive attacks. The hard fighting defenders of Arnswalde, Schneidemuehl and Poznan withstood fierce enemy attacks.

"In the southern part of West Prussia the soviets, after bringing up new forces, continued their break-thru attempts in the Chojnice and Tuchola areas. Heavy fighting is in progress there.

"Enemy attempts to crush our front on both sides of the Elbing-Koenigsberg highway from the west and at Zinten from the east were foiled, as were enemy attacks between Wormditt and Landsberg.

"On the Courland front numerous soviet attacks in company to battalion strength likewise remained unsuccessful."

CHIEF OF ROME'S RABBIS JOINS CATHOLIC FAITH

ROME, Feb. 13 (AP).—Israele Zolli, chief rabbi of Rome, and his wife were baptized into the Catholic church today at the church of St. Mary of the Angels after he had resigned his post and declined the presidency of the rabbinical college.

He is taking the name Eugenio Maria in honor of Pope Pius XII [Eugenio Pacelli] for the aid he gave Jews in Rome during the German occupation. His wife is taking the name Emme Maria.

The two announced that they would be confirmed and take communion within a few days, along with a daughter who is betrothed to a Catholic.

11,600 Wounded Left in Budapest, Nazis Say

LONDON, Feb. 14 [Reuters].—The Germans left 11,600 wounded soldiers—9,600 Germans and 2,000 Hungarians—in Budapest in the care of the Holy See, the German Transocean news agency said today.

FRENCH ASK FOR GUNS TO MOP UP NAZIS IN 5 PORTS

Confident They Can Clean Out 80,000 of Foe.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

FRENCH WESTERN FORCE HDQ., Feb. 12 [Delayed].—With a few additional units of heavy artillery, several thousand pairs of heavy shoes or boots, and a few dive bombers, the French forces of the west—mostly former French Forces of the Interior [FFI] troops now converted into regular army regiments—are confident they could easily mop up the 80,000 Germans who still cling to five pockets on the so-called Atlantic front.

This Atlantic front, stretching from Lorient to the mouth of the Gironde, which this correspondent has inspected in the last few days from one end to the other, has developed one of the most unusual military sectors. It is 100 to 140 miles in length if the lines around the five pockets—Lorient, St. Nazaire, La Rochelle, Royan, and Pointe de Grave—were stretched out end on end.

Nazis Control Coast Line.

The Germans control practically the whole coast along the Atlantic and each one of the pockets is in communication by ship with the others. Vessels carrying materials of war and food go back and forth along the coast unstopped by allied patrols. The French also despair that much shipping comes into the ports from Spain.

German submarines also operate from pens in Lorient and St. Nazaire and make raids into the Atlantic. These pens are enormous concrete shelters capable of protecting from 20 to 60 submarines under 10 to 20 feet of reinforced concrete roofing. One submarine pen at Brest, now in the hands of the French, was a formidable structure, but despite its strength three American bombs had pierced its roof. Submarine pens in St. Nazaire and Lorient are said to be intact.

St. Nazaire and Lorient are virtually leveled. German soldiers live in neighboring villages and in dugouts. It is estimated that about half of the civilian population of the German held pockets has been moved, but more and more civilians are refusing to leave because they think the war soon will be over.

Swap Prisoners During Truce.

Along a section of the lines about La Rochelle, all firing ceased for a few hours today to permit the transfer of a contingent of civilians and an exchange of prisoners. Tomorrow in Nantes there will also be an exchange of civilians and prisoners between the Germans and American forces of the 66th division which has been assisting the French in the defense of the Atlantic front.

The French forces on this sector have won the admiration of the Americans for the tenacity with which they held back the Germans despite the fact they have only a small amount of equipment.

French soldiers I have seen this week were armed with guns and ammunition they captured from the Germans. Some had British machine guns and a few had Russian equipment. They have little or no artillery and no tanks or armored cars. Worst of all, they are also lacking in clothing, particularly shoes, and at present the whole front is covered with mud. In many areas the ground is so soggy that trenches and fortified positions fill up with water almost as soon as they are dug.

Yanks Cheerful Despite Mud.

I spent several hours this week in command posts of the 66th division and waded thru ankle-deep mud. The American troops are cheerful, however.

During this week there have been several clashes with the Germans in the St. Nazaire sector. Last Wednesday the Germans, on a raid for food, attacked in force and captured two villages which were later taken back in a counter-attack.

In no man's land—an area a quarter of a mile to a mile wide between the allied and German lines—there are constant patrol clashes both day and night.

Inside the German held sector life of civilians is becoming more and more insupportable, but the French refuse to leave for fear the Germans will pillage their homes.

In the zone just outside the Germans' lines there is a curious mixture of civilians and military personnel almost up to the front lines. Occupants of farmhouses refuse to leave, altho they are in the line of fire.

Nazis Pillage Chateau.

A few days ago I visited a chateau in the Lorient sector where Adm. Doenitz, commander of the German navy, lived during the height of submarine warfare. The chateau was damaged and had been pillaged, the French said.

The French want to push the Germans out of Royan and the Gironde pocket particularly. The pockets block access to the port of Bordeaux, which is the only French port still intact.

Maj. Gen. Herman F. Kramer commands the American forces operating with the French along the Atlantic front. Gen. Larminat, collaborator of Gen. De Gaulle and former governor of Chad and Congo, is directing operations along the Atlantic coast and commands the French forces of the west.

FURLOUGH'S ON; OFF, ON AGAIN; ALL IN 48 HOURS

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. IST ARMY IN GERMANY, Feb. 14.—Within 48 hours Tech. Sgt. James L. Thompson, Benson, Ill., experienced the widest range in a soldier's emotions.

One day his boss, the headquarters commandant in the 1st army, told him he had been selected to go home on a 10 day furlough. The next day the commandant said his place had been filled. But at the end of 48 hours Thompson was informed again that this time his trip was definitely set.

Altho half convinced his good fortune wouldn't last, the sergeant, chief clerk in his headquarters section, scurried about collecting as much pay as possible because when he gets home he hopes to get married. Sgt. Thompson has been overseas 34 months, serving in England, Africa, Sicily, France, and Belgium. He was one of the few noncombat soldiers who got a crack at rotation leaves. His furlough begins when he arrives at Fort Sheridan, Ill.

German Police Trained to Assist Allies in Reich

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

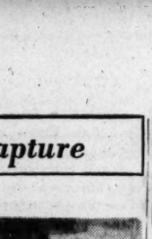
LONDON, Feb. 14.—Captured German policemen are being trained to carry out police functions in occupied German territory, War Minister James Grigg said in the house of commons today. He assured the house, however, that no Germans were chosen for such training until their background and record had been carefully investigated.

PRINCE SO DIRTY HE FOILS NAZIS SEARCHING BATH

Tell 'Robin Hood' Life of Belgium's Charles.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SPA, Belgium, Feb. 14.—During four years of Nazi occupation of Belgium, Prince Charles, the king's brother and now regent, remained in hiding in the Ardennes forest like Robin Hood, with a band of young nobles and officers.



Prince Charles.

Several times he visited therapeutic baths to be massaged for rheumatism contracted while living in caves, huts, tents, and in the open, an informant disclosed.

"The Germans once learned that Charles was in Spa and the Gestapo searched every house and bath," said the informant. "The secret police agents burst into the massaging room where the prince lay naked on the table for a rub. But he was so dirty from months of dwelling in the forest that they thought him a charcoal burner and went away."

The informant said King Leopold never left Laeken chateau, in a suburb of Brussels.

Nazi Spies Surround King.

"His majesty summoned me to the chateau several times," he added. "But Gestapo agents were always behind a screen listening to anything his majesty might say and so he remained silent."

A few days before the Americans captured Spa, the Gestapo seized the king's entourage and took it and Leopold across the frontier to a fortress in Germany.

"The townspeople pulled down their window shades and people on the streets turned their backs as the Gestapo drove the king away in a closed car, desiring not to witness his majesty's humiliation," the informant said.

Precious Jewels Saved.

PARIS, Feb. 14 [Reuters].—Unsuspected by the Germans, precious jewels of the Belgian royal house for four years lay in the vaults of a French bank. They have just been sent back to Belgium.

The treasure consisted of cases of gold, precious stones, and a jewel encrusted crown presented to the Belgian royal house by the king of England, the pope, and other heads of state. It lay in the vaults of a branch of the Bank of France at Bezieres, near Narbonnee.

The treasure was in charge of two employes of the Belgian railways when the German armies marched into Belgium. The two men deposited it in the bank.

The will of Miss Agnes Harter, 58, of 6544 Newgard av., who died Jan. 19, leaving the bulk of her $65,000 estate to two sisters, both nuns, was filed yesterday in Probate court.

NAZIS CALL ON PEOPLE TO CAST SCRUPLES ASIDE

LONDON, Feb. 14 (AP).—Charging that the Yalta declaration expressed the allies' aim "not only to cut off Germany's head and limbs, but to exterminate us," Nazi Radio Commentator Joseph Saal told the German people today that "our last scruples must be cast overboard and all-out fanatical resistance must be the laconic reply to the pact of our enemies."

Paul Schmidt, German foreign office spokesman, as quoted by the Stockholm newspaper, Svenska Dagbladet in a dispatch from its Berlin correspondent, said at a press conference that the Big Three declaration released Germany "from all moral scruples."

"Every enemy," he said, "no matter when or how he penetrates into Germany, will be met by fanatical men, women, and children who know what treatment is in store for them and, therefore, wish to kill, murder and poison all who attempt to suppress them."

Report New Reich Troubles.

There also were additional reports of new troubles within the reich.

The Nazi government acknowledged the food situation had deteriorated, and issued an order declaring that vegetable production this year "must be raised at any price."

Manufacture of civilian goods in Germany "has now completely ceased," the German D. N. B. news agency reported in a broadcast. "Even everyday necessities cannot be produced any more," the radio report stated. "Everybody should use old reserves, and materials available now must last until the war is over."

Der Angriff, Propaganda Minister Goebbels' own newspaper, will publish its last edition next Saturday, the Berlin radio announced, leaving the Berliner Nachtausgabe the only afternoon paper in the Nazi capital. Growing restrictions on the German press, the broadcast said, have cut publication of the Berlin Illustrierte and Illustrierter Beobachter to a very limited number of copies.

Claim Three Officials Sentenced.

The Paris radio said three high Nazi officials in Baden have been sentenced to death by a special German court, reportedly for saying that "The war is lost."

The Moscow radio reported food riots in Berlin with "armed patrols guarding food stores." The same source, in a German language broadcast, quoted German prisoners as saying SS [elite guard] troops dispersed peace rioters in Leipzig.

Moscow also claimed information that the Nazis were transforming Bavaria in southern Germany for a last-ditch defense, "constructing subterranean hangars and hiding stocks of arms and food."

TRANSPORT, NOT FOOD, EUROPE'S BIG PROBLEM

LONDON, Feb. 14 (AP).—Minister of State Richard Law told the house of commons today that France was now producing as much food as during the German occupation, but that a shortage of transportation caused "almost insoluble difficulties."

Since D-day 7,500 trucks have been sent to France, Belgium, and the liberated portion of Holland for civilian purposes, he said. The problem in these countries, he said, will not be solved "merely by pumping quantities of foodstuffs into ports already strained to capacity."

DES PLAINES G. I. SLAYS 70 NAZIS; KILLED IN ACTION

Wilber Miller Repels Foe's Attack.

WITH UNITED STATES 83D INFANTRY DIVISION, Feb. 14 (AP).—The Germans finally killed Bill Miller, but not until the Illinois doughboy had killed at least 70 of them and stopped an enemy counter-attacked singlehanded.

Pvt. 1st Class Wilber C. Miller of 1520 Algonquin rd., Des Plaines, Ill., didn't have to be in the front lines, but he wanted to make the war a personal affair.

In Normandy's hedgerows his Browning automatic cut down many a German until a slug in the hip put him in the hospital.

Back Into Line for Him.

His pals will tell you that while he was convalescing from that wound Bill Miller used to pray for recovery so that he could get back into the line. When he left the hospital, Miller had a limp. Three times he was offered rear echelon assignments, but turned them down.

His division laid siege to the German town of Birgel, west of Dueren. The Germans opened a counter-attack the morning of Dec. 15 and fanned out into a muddy communication trench in front of Bill Miller's position.

Fifing steadily to keep them down, Miller moved across the frozen ground to the edge of the trench. Then he sprayed the trench from one end to the other, killing every German in it.

Second Wave Attacks.

Another wave of Germans was attacking, and Miller dropped in among the enemy dead and waited, reloading and squinting out over the top of the trench.

Then they came for him—40 to 50 Germans. Miller squeezed his trigger. He wiped out the whole attack, and forced another eight men to surrender rather than face his devastating fire.

That was Bill Miller's greatest moment.

But just then an enemy potato masher grenade whistled into his trench from a hidden position and it killed him.

[Wilber's father, Charles, of the Des Plaines address, an asbestos worker, said that letters from his son received after he was wounded shortly after D-day in Normandy, indicated that Wilber was seeking revenge for the deaths of buddies killed during the invasion.]

PARIS HUNTS U. S. RACKETEER AS NAZI MIDDLEMAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 14.—An American "racketeer" married to a French beauty well known in Paris is being sought by French police on collaboration charges, it was learned today.

Questioned on Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau's statement yesterday that the French government had requested and received the United States treasury's approval for the arrest of alleged American collaborators who remained in France during the occupation and for the seizure of their French assets, judiciary police in Paris admitted their investigation still is proceeding.

It was reported that the racketeer became rich during the occupation by acting as middleman between French black marketeers and German buyers. It was not understood there are any charges against his wife.

204 DAYS IN LINE, RECORD SET BY U. S. 2D ARMORED

WITH U. S. 3D ARMY, Feb. 14 (AP).—Tomorrow the 6th armored division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Robert W. Grow, will have completed 204 consecutive days in the line, possibly an all time high among American armored divisions. Since July 27, 1944, when the 6th became operational in the Normandy breakthru, some one of its units has been facing the enemy every day. The 6th has captured more Germans than the division has members and has traveled approximately 2,500 miles. It has 10 men holding distinguished service crosses. Three of these died in action, Lieutenants Daniel L. Nutter, Waukesha, Wis., Vernon L. Edwards, Collinsville, Ill., and James L. Durden, Mount Vernon, Ga.

JAP ATROCITIES IN MANILA TOLD BY WITNESSES

Called Worse Than Rape of Nanking.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 14.—Japanese atrocities in Manila "undoubtedly will go down in history as a darker chapter than the rape of Nanking," CBS Correspondent John Adams reported from Luzon today.

Adams, who interviewed Maj. Gen. Beightler, commander of the 37th infantry division, said the general "was bitter in his denunciation of the Japs' ruthless destruction of the Philippine capital and the atrocities committed against the Filipino and Chinese civilians who have been trapped in south Manila."

Army photographers are documenting some of the atrocity incidents, Adams said. He related:

"At one intersection in south Manila they found the bodies of 26 civilians, of which nine were babies. It appeared that all had been bayoneted, and many of them had their hands tied behind their backs."

Tells of Murders.

MANILA, Feb. 14 (AP).—Tony Streegan, an American resident of Manila, said today that Japanese troops went up and down streets, opening doors and firing machine gun bursts in each house.

"I saw several civilians running from a burning house. They were shot down by Japanese machine guns," he said.

Streegan spent two years in Santo Tomas before he was given a medical discharge. He and his family were living in the Paco district south of the Pasig river when the Americans arrived.

Revenge by Japs.

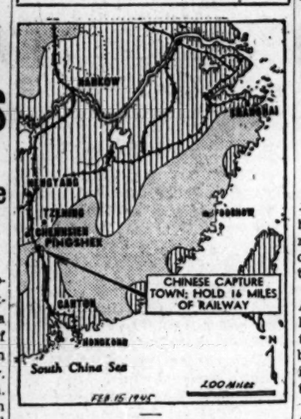
[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

MANILA, P. I., Feb. 13 [Delayed].—A defeated enemy is wreaking his vengeance on Manila and its people, giving a glimpse of the same wanton cruelty and pillage that the Japanese military visited upon other oriental cities.

The evidence is not pretty to see. Yesterday, American infantry men picking their way along Marque de Camilles st. in the Ermita district came across a horrible sight—approximately 20 Filipino women, hands tied behind their back, lying dead in pools of their own blood. They had been bayoneted. A few minutes later they came across two Chinese with severe saber wounds in the neck. And there were bodies of dead children.

That is typical of Manila ablaze as the enemy wields fire and sword against helpless civilians as he did in Nanking, Hong Kong, and Singapore.

Chinese Advance



CHUNGKING, Feb. 14 (AP).—The Japanese hold on the vital Canton-Hankow railroad has been broken with the recapture by Chinese forces of the town of Pingshek, 165 miles north of Canton, the Chinese high command announced today.

The Chinese now are in possession of a 16 mile section of the rail line extending north from Pingshek, the announcement said.

The high command also claimed that the Chinese achieved control of a 10 mile stretch of the highway running northwest from Lockhong, a railroad town 150 miles north of Canton.

Fighting continued west and northwest of Tzehing, 25 miles northeast of the railroad town of Chenhsien, 80 miles south of Hengyang, as well as at a point north of Yungyun, the immediate objective of the Japanese column moving southeastward from Kukong, 125 miles north of Canton, the Chinese reported.

U. S. ENVOY FAILS TO END QUARREL AMONG CHINESE

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 14 (AP).—China's Communists and the Chungking government, whose differences have been called a hindrance to China's war effort, have been negotiating for two weeks, with the assistance of the United States ambassador, Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, Wang Shih-chieh, information minister, disclosed today.

The Communists, after the two weeks of discussion, rejected a four point settlement offered by the Chungking government, whereupon the government made new proposals which the Communist delegate, Gen. Chou En-lai, has taken back to Yenan, the Chinese Reds' capital, Wang said.

The government made a number of "important concessions" in the negotiations, according to Wang, who was one of the negotiators.

KIN OF CAPTIVES IN JAP PRISONS GIVEN NEW HOPE

BY P. E. BRIQUET.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Switzerland, Feb. 14.—Hope that many Americans, unheard from for several years, still may be alive in Japanese prison camps was given today by International Red Cross headquarters.

This reassuring news to anxious American families, some of whom have not heard from relatives captured by the Japs since Pearl Harbor, was contained in reports arriving here from Red Cross agents in the far east.

No news does not mean that an American prisoner is dead, reports said. Japanese authorities are extremely slow or reluctant to send lists of American war prisoners to Geneva, it was said. Some times there may be a two year delay and thus quite a number of happy surprises may be in store for American relatives, who gave up all hope long ago.

One Message a Year.

The International Red Cross has succeeded in obtaining Japanese permission to allow prisoners to send a 10 word message at least once a year. Japanese prison camp commanders have been instructed to inform all internees of this new privilege. Until now the only telegrams from prisoners have come from camps in the Japanese homeland, altho messages from the Philippines, Formosa, and Manchuria have been received.

The Red Cross explained that all messages must go to Tokyo, where they are censored and transmitted to Geneva headquarters. The delays occur on the way to Tokyo from camps scattered thru occupied countries. Camps in Sumatra, Java, the Straits Settlements, and Borneo send prisoner of war messages via ordinary mail, which usually is slow, taking sometimes as long as six months. Often the messages never get to Tokyo, especially since the American offensive in the South Pacific and submarine forays have made communications between Japan and her conquered empire precarious.

Remove Prisoners.

No figures are available yet on the number of American prisoners evacuated from the Philippines. It was learned that about 50 per cent of prisoners in the Philippines were shipped northward at the time of Gen. McArthur's invasion. The Japanese were handicapped in this job by a lack of tonnage and American harassing attack. However, a majority of prisoners removed reached their destinations safely.

The Japanese system of making Tokyo the focal point for all "mercy" supplies to be distributed to the various prison camps is working a hardship on internees, whose morale has been reported to be low because of inadequate food and long separation from home. Shipments of Red Cross supplies for prison camps in China first must go to Japan thru soviet Russia.

One such China-bound shipment contained 10,997 packages. Out of the same shipment 69,364 parcels were distributed to camps in Japan proper, including Hakodate, 1,100; Tokyo, 7,100; Osaka, 8,815; Zentsuji, 3,300; and Fukuoka, 9,950. Equal amounts came from the United States, Britain, and Canada, and were distributed to prisoners of all nationalities. The contents of the packages consisted 80 per cent of food, vitamin preparations, clothing, drugs, and dressings.

Agents Supervise Shipments.

Arrivals of all relief shipments are supervised by a Red Cross agent. The arrival of Hakusan Maru, food supply ship, last November at Kobe was supervised by a Red Cross delegate.

Reports indicated that conditions among American and allied prisoners are improving slightly, altho still precarious. A prisoner's worst period is the time between his capture and arrival at a prison camp. Many are injured, ill or so weak that they are unable to work and so cannot get extra rations. The ordinary diet at camps is insufficient for speedy recovery for these men. Dysentery, typhoid, small pox, beri beri are especially prevalent.

It is at this time that Red Cross agents make spot purchases of food and medicines to avoid long delays of Red Cross supply ships and distribution. During the last six weeks about $200,000 was spent in purchases in Hong Kong for military and civilian prisoners. This included wheat, bran, animal fat, eggs, tinned meats, fish, soap, soya beans, medicines, writing paper, and seeds for prisoners' truck gardens.

Exchange Rates Drop.

Fluctuating money exchange rates are subjecting Swiss francs to a decreasing purchasing power, agents reported. The cost of rice in Hong Kong increased 80 times, they said. The transfer of funds for relief purposes was criticized by the agents as not being a satisfactory method since the purchasing power of money is continually fluctuating. They said food shipments were safer altho slower to distribute.

Conditions are much better for high ranking prisoners in Jap camps, including the former British governors of Hong Kong and Malaya and Lt. Gen. Wainwright, American commanding general in the Philippines at the time of the fall of Corregidor.

Air-Mast U-Boats Sink Eight Ships, Germans Say

LONDON, Feb. 14 [Reuters].—The German high command today claimed that U-boats fitted with a new device, air masts, have sunk eight ships totalling 51,000 tons off Britain and on the high seas.

YANKS GAINING IN BATTLE TO CLEAR MANILA

Jap Toehold Narrowed in South Part of City.

MANILA, Feb. 15 [Thursday] (AP).—Fighting for each street intersection American infantry men pushed forward, cautiously but inexorably, yesterday toward the south Manila bay front while enraged Japanese killed civilians in cold blood and dynamited and fired sections of the city.

The enemy demolition fires blackened the skies as the Yanks tightened a circle on doomed Nipponese, weakened but still fighting in an area between the Pasig river mouth and the bay front.

Explosions and flames swept over the bayside stretch from the port area south to the Pasay residential sector.

The devastation threatens to match that wrought on Manila's ravaged Escolta business district on the north side of the Pasig.

Jap Fire Falls Off.

There was a marked falling off of Japanese artillery fire, due in large part to the fact that American guns thruout Tuesday and Wednesday bore down with concentrated deadliness upon a system of connecting fortresses in the old walled city, Intramuros, and the adjacent dock area. There a tiring enemy has been battling day and night for well over a week.

Thirty-seventh division infantry men fought Wednesday thru to the University of Philippines campus a half mile from the high commissioner's residence on the bay front.

Until Japanese are destroyed in the General hospital, which they have converted into one of their strongest positions, the Yanks cannot safely hold the university area. At nightfall yesterday, the Japanese in the hospital were still fighting back altho the Americans were pouring fire into the building from three sides.

Describes Battle Area.

Fred Hampson, Associated Press correspondent with Maj. Gen. Griswold's 14th army corps, said:

"Generally speaking, the Japanese in south Manila now are crowded into a sector about 5,000 yards long from the Pasig river south to Harrison field and 2,000 yards inland from the bay front.

"It is not a large area and the Japanese there have taken a terrific beating, but it still is a dirty house-to-house fight with American tanks being called in for point blank fire in every block."

The Japanese, committed to die and destroy tactics, were fighting stubbornly from entrenchments along once magnificent Taft av., which parallels the Manila bay shore, dimming earlier hopes of a speedy purge of the enemy.

Yanks on Bataan peninsula won 11 miles of the bay's eastern arm by driving down the peninsula shore to Abucay.

Out in the bay, Corregidor, barring entry of American warships, was battered by 107 more tons of explosives aimed by bombardiers of Liberators at its batteries.

The Japanese, who have wantonly shot down civilians in the streets and even fired into their houses in south Manila, are still believed to have many Filipinos and other nationals with them inside the Intramuros, thus forcing caution on the attacking American.

["We do not hold the lives of civilians in low esteem," Arthur Feldman, Blue network correspondent said, in a broadcast from Manila, saying the Nipponese would make their last stand in the walled city. Feldman pointed out the walls are 40 feet thick at the base and wide enough at the top to serve as a road for a jeep.]

Capture Abucay.

On Bataan, the 11th corps has cleaned the last Japanese from the base of the peninsula and has advanced 11 miles southward to capture Abucay, the eastern anchor of MacArthur's first defense line during the futile holding fight of 1942.

To the north, 40th division Yanks captured a "great quantity of supplies in the Zambales mountains after inflicting heavy casualties on enemy pockets.

On the eastern side of the central Luzon plain the 6th, 25th, and 32d divisions were probing deep into the southern Caraballo mountains. There additional large stores of enemy equipment, including four tanks, were found abandoned.

American warplanes closely supported all ground operations. They bombed widespread targets on Luzon, including artillery positions at Fort William McKinley south of Manila.

BATAAN JAPS TOUGH

WITH THE 11TH U. S. ARMY CORPS ON BATAAN, Feb. 11 [Delayed] (AP).—American tanks went into action effectively for the first time today in the battle of Zigzag pass on Bataan peninsula, as 38th division troops continued to blast Japanese cave, pillbox, and trench positions on jungle covered hills.

To the east across the pass, a 149th regiment unit moved without opposition to Orani on Manila bay, 10 miles from Dinalupihan, which the former Kentucky national guard unit reached by an arduous mountain flanking march.

Brig. Gen. Roy W. Easley, Louisville, Ky., assistant division commander, described the Zigzag pass defenses on Bataan as representing two years of preparation by the Japanese.

Dynamite crews destroyed Japanese emplacements as rapidly as they were taken. Ammunition and supplies were blown up and many Japanese were blasted or smothered to death in caves as five tons of dynamite were used in 24 hours.

One ridge has been labeled by the medics "Purple Heart hill."

Brig. Gen. William C. Chase visited the front and decorated men for courageous action.

Silver stars were awarded Pvt. Byron Swinford, Anderson, Ind., and Pvt. Emerson Tripp, Indianapolis, Ind.

YANKS STILL DIG OUT JAPANESE ON GUAM, BASE FOR ADM. NIMITZ

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Guam, Feb. 14 (AP).—Marine and army patrols, sometimes armed with guns and sometimes with loud speakers, are clearing out the last few hundred Japanese from this island which Fleet Adm. Nimitz announced today as his advance headquarters. This also is the base of Maj. Gen. Le May's 21st bomber command, whose Super Fortresses raid Japan.

At this headquarters "you can get a sniper bullet from almost any area of the island," said Col. Shelton C. Zern, operations officer for the island commandant, Marine Maj. Gen. Henry Larsen. Such fire, however, usually comes during darkness or in unpopulated jungle areas.

Many of the Japanese soldiers respond to the loud speaker appeals b surrendering. They've had enough hiding and watching Americans speed the development of this massive artillery and naval base while they get no aid.

HOW 4 RED CROSS GIRLS LANDED IN INVASION TOLD

Four Red Cross girls established a beachhead all by themselves on Jap held New Britain Island during the invasion, Marine Tech. Sgt. Ward Walker, a Tribune reporter on leave, related yesterday at a luncheon meeting of the electric division of the Red Cross war fund in the Civic Opera building. The division has a $325,000 goal in the Red Cross fund drive which opens March 1.

Sgt. Walker said that marines, naked in the surf unloading supplies from ships, got a blinker message to put their clothes on when the girls' landing ship [tank] came in. "Then the LST moved in, let down the ramp, and four Red Cross girls waded ashore," he said. "The Japs were holding out only a few hundred feet away, and the girls' arrival was an error. They were ordered back to their base immediately."

Sgt. Walker said Red Cross aid was invaluable to marines in the Guam campaign. "So many men lost their packs and personal belongings because of the rugged Jap defense that they really needed the help the Red Cross gave in replacing these things," he said.

JAPS SAY B-29S RAID YOKOHAMA, TOKYO REGION

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Lone Super Fortresses bombed Japan's Tokyo-Yokohama metropolitan area and the Nagano district Tuesday night and early yesterday and returned later Wednesday morning in reconnaissance flights, the Japanese Domei news agency reported, without allied confirmation.

"Some 60" fighter escorted American Liberator and Mitchell bombers strafed and bombed military installations and communications on Formosa Tuesday, Domei said yesterday.

Gen. MacArthur's bulletins have reported daily attacks on Formosa, but have not indicated the size of the attacking forces.

The Domei dispatch said the bombers struck at Takoa and Tainan on southern Formosa, hit by "some 35" fighter planes striking in two waves the previous day.

Iwo Bombed by Yanks for 69th Straight Day

U. S. PACIFIC ADVANCED HDQ., Guam, Feb. 15 [Thursday]—(AP).—Daily bombing of Iwo in the Volcano Islands, 750 miles south of Tokyo went into the 69th day Tuesday as army Liberators hit the tiny island with unobserved results, Adm. Nimitz announced today.

YANKS ON LUZON GET FORETASTE OF JAPAN BATTLE

BY WALTER SIMMONS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

FORT STOTSENBURG, P. I., Feb. 13 [Delayed].—The multiplicity of Jap fortified positions in the foothills of the Zambales mountains north of Clark field is receiving close study as an indication of what troops may expect eventually when Japan's rugged terrain is invaded.

Almost everything in the ordnance book—bazookas, flame throwers, grenades, demolition charges, artillery—has been used in the bitter but little publicized struggle for cave positions. But artillery has registered most satisfactory results.

The Jap cave networks become more complicated as troops advance farther into the mountains. There is every indication that the original fortifications began in the distant hills and were pressed forward hurriedly after the American landings.

U-Shaped Caves Used.

The caves are of various types but the most common is the U-shaped shaft with two entrances many yards apart. When artillery fire is directed into one opening the Japs retreat to the shaft where they are safe. Ventilation protects them from smoke shells and special outlets from concussion effects.

Triple header tunnels are being found more frequently deep in the hills. Troops who have sealed two entrances with demolition charges have been unexpectedly attacked from the third entrance.

The tunnel entrances are unnoticed until the artillery plastering sets them afire or knocks the camouflage down. The Japs have made extensive use of opposite slopes for cave positions which are mutually supporting. These fortifications contain sufficient room and ammunition to last for months and are shored with timbers like coal mines.

Strip Planes for Guns.

Ordnance officers found no machine guns on the wrecked Jap planes which littered Clark field. But the cave recesses have solved the mystery. Equipped with crude scrap iron bipods, the guns have been lugged into the hills to greet Yank troops with the greatest concentrations of automatic fire they have encountered in the Pacific.

Enemy troops who man these positions fight to the last and are hard to kill. A typical instance was related today by Lt. James Kim, Los Angeles, Cal.

Lt. Kim, who is of Chinese ancestry, commanded a demolition squad including Staff Sergeants John Riemersma, Spring Lake, Mich., and George Repinski, Milwaukee, Wis. Their assignment was to capture a cave in which attacking Japs had been driven by riflemen the night before.

Begin with Grenades.

They began by tossing in a few grenades as an invitation for the Japs to come out and fight. The enemy replied with rifle fire. The squad then tossed in a heavy charge of T. N. T. After the dust cleared the rifle fire continued from the cave. Two more charges of increasing strength were necessary before one Jap staggered out to surrender. The cave was then sealed.

Sgt. Riemersma told of another instance in which tanks poured seven rounds of heavy artillery into a single opening. This treatment was followed up with grenades. The Japs inside tossed them out. Impatient, the sergeant dumped a huge delayed action charge into the cave. The entire mountain trembled and no more grenades came out.

Tunnels Connect Foxholes.

Numerous tunnel connected foxholes have been found. One atop a conical ridge consisted of three holes connected by tunnels cleverly angled so that the Jap was safe from anything but a direct bomb hit.

Engineers of the 40th division have built roads thru the wilderness so Sherman tanks, tank destroyers, and M-7s, self-propelled 105 mm. howitzers, could clank up steep mountain grades and attack the caves. The M-7 has been used like a sharpshooter's rifle at ranges up to 3,000 yards.

Ace and Souvenir

Lt. Alexander Vraciu (right) shows an automatic pistol, "a little thing I picked up" to Lt. Robert Deering on joining American ground forces on Luzon following his guerrilla life on the island after he bailed out of his plane. The picture was sent by the navy ace to his wife, Mrs. Kathryn Horn Vraciu, in East Chicago, Ind.

NAVY'S NO. 1 ACE IN CHICAGO; HAS BAG OF 34 JAPS

Comdr. David McCampbell, 34, the navy's No. 1 fighter plane ace, with a record of 34 Japanese planes destroyed in the air, was in Chicago yesterday for a radio appearance. He will return tomorrow to Washington, D. C., where he is to be married Sunday to his childhood sweetheart, Sara Jane Kahn of New York City. His home is in Los Angeles, Cal.

Comdr. McCampbell.

Comdr. McCampbell is on leave after a seven months tour of duty in the Pacific as the commander of air group 15, based aboard the carrier Essex. The group, known as the "Fabled Fifteen" destroyed 314 enemy planes in the air, 348 on the ground, and probably destroyed or damaged an additional 388 in the air and on the ground.

His own greatest exploit was on Oct. 24, 1944, during the second battle of the Philippines, when he and his wingman, Lt. [j. g.] Roy W. Rushing of McGehee, Ark., chased a formation of 40 Jap planes 100 miles until they reached Manila, and brought down 15 of them. Two others were destroyed by another member of their group who took part in part of the running battle. McCampbell was credited with destroying nine. For this feat, with his destruction of seven Jap planes June 19, during the second battle of the Philippines, he was awarded the congressional medal of honor.

PYGMY FILIPINOS AID YANKS WITH BOWS, ARROWS

BY GUY RICHARDS.

[Staff Correspondent of the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

FORT STOTSENBURG, Luzon, Feb. 14.—New York's 108th infantry regiment is advancing near here with the aid of one of this war's strangest auxiliary forces, more than 3,000 Philippine Negritos, seminaked pygmy warriors armed with bows and arrows and carbines. The Negritos are credited with several hundred of the regiment's total score of almost 1,000 Japs killed.

Barefooted and barechested, the dark midget fighters are led by 2d Lt. Henry Clay Conner Jr., 26, of East Orange, N. J., who fled to the mountains when the Japs invaded Luzon three years ago. There he lived with the Negritos until they could emerge again to help liberate the islands.

Years ago the Negritos were given a reservation near Fort Stotsenburg, an old United States army encampment 40 miles north of Manila. Gratitude for their treatment is the only motive for their present assistance. They accept no pay.

JAP SPOKESMAN DENOUNCES NEW BIG 3 AGREEMENT

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

An official Japanese spokesman was quoted by the Domei agency yesterday as denouncing the Big Three Yalta agreement and declaring that world peace is possible only by acting on the principle of the Nippon foreign minister "not to reject any hand that offers peace."

The broadcast, recorded by the FCC, quoted Sadao Iguchi, spokesman for the Japanese information board. He termed the Big Three agreement "international power politics."

Hints at Peace Feelers.

Stating that Japan alone had sought true world peace by inviting the collaboration of all nations, Iguchi said: "Future world peace and security cannot be found by driving hard bargains for personal gains at a cost to others but by just and honest statesmanship that is guided by the principles adhered to by Japan, which Foreign Minister Shigemitsu has explained as excluding none but inviting the collaboration of all."

Less than 24 hours before Iguchi made his statements the Chinese Chungking Central Daily News said that the recent reshuffle of the Japanese Koiso cabinet was the forerunner of a possible Nippon "political offensive" to obtain a negotiated peace.

Fails to Mention Russia.

Iguchi carefully avoided mention of Russia. He said "for all their professions of noble idealism and fair play the United States and Britain have at least definitely exposed their true and faithless nature.

"They sold Poland down the river in one of the most shameful acts in the game of power politics the modern world has known."

In an earlier broadcast Domei said America, Britain, and Russia "are indulging in preposterous assumptions" that the European war will terminate before April 25, date set for the world security conference in San Francisco.

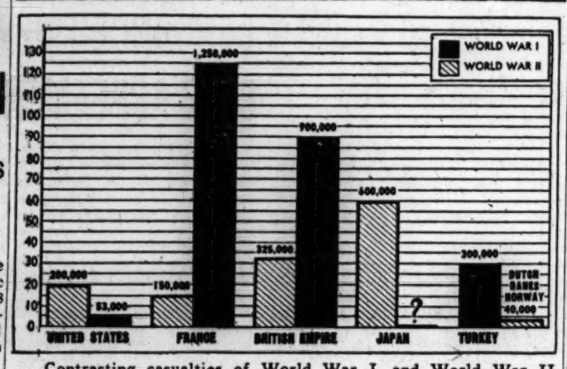
Casualties in Two Wars Compared



Contrasting casualties of World War I. and World War II. among nations involved in them. Each unit of 10 represents 10,000 men.

Losses Compared

New York, Feb. 14 [Special].—From its beginning in September, 1939, down to the end of 1944, the second World war has cost the lives of about 8 million men in battle and from battle wounds, according to an estimate of the statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. The greater part of these huge losses have been borne by Germany and Russia. Each of these two nations has lost upwards of 2½ million fighting men thus far in the war.

"The United States is among the countries whose losses in this war greatly exceed those suffered a generation ago," the report stated. "To the end of 1944, our battle toll approached or exceeded 200,000, almost four times the total of 53,000 recorded in World War I.

"Japan's losses in this war show, by far, the greatest contrast with World War I., in which her great territorial gains as a nominal partner of the allies cost her the lives of but a few hundred fighting men. Her losses in the present war are more than a thousandfold as great. By the end of 1944, they had passed the 600,000 mark and they are steadily mounting.

"Largely as a result of the differences in the type and scale of military operations in western Europe during this war as compared with the last, British, French, and Belgian losses still are well below those of 1914-'18," the statisticians say. "France, with a total of approximately 150,000 battle deaths, has lost less than one eighth as many men as in 1914-'18, when more than a million and a quarter Frenchmen were killed. British empire forces have lost about 325,000 men in action, or little more than one-third the total of about 900,000 during the First World war. Italy's losses have likewise been much lower than in the First World war, perhaps by as much as two-thirds."

MARINES PROUD OF TOUGH YANK HELD BY JAPS

Marines on Luzon, in the Philippine Islands, are proud of tough Corp. Neil Iovino, of 4201 Van Buren st., who lived thru three years in Japanese prison camps and four critical operations for leg wounds.

Corp. Neil Iovino.

He was wounded in the defense of the Bataan peninsula in the spring of 1942, and was one of the prisoners freed on Jan. 30 by the American army Rangers and Filipino guerrillas.

Iovino was in a field hospital deep in the jungle of Bataan when captured by the Japs, the marine corps disclosed yesterday. Fragments of a Jap aerial bomb were in one leg and hip. Four operations were performed while he was held in prisoner of war camps.

MISSING PILOT'S PARENTS TO GET BRITISH CROSS

Flight Lt. Wyndham Webber, representing the British government, will present the memorial cross to Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Komaiko, 1627 Touhy av., at services to be held tomorrow at 8:15 p. m. in Temple Mizpah, 1615 Morse av.

The decoration is being conferred in memory of the couple's son, Flying Officer William Kadison Komaiko, who was 25 and a member of the Royal Canadian air force when reported missing in action over German, Feb. 20, 1943.

During the same ceremony a plaque will be dedicated to 100 of the congregation's members serving with the army and navy.

FIVE AMERICANS RESCUED BY REDS SAFE IN LUBLIN

LONDON, Feb. 14 (AP).—Five American soldiers freed from German prison camps by the Red army today broadcast messages to their relatives at home that they were safe and well in Lubin, Poland.

The broadcast over the Lublin radio did not spell out the names and did not name the camp where the men had been held, but gave the phonetic pronunciations of the names and addresses as follows:

Julian Lindéman, father, F. Lindeman, Little Rock, Ia.: "I have been liberated from a German camp and am now in Poland. Greetings to the whole family and all friends."

Lt. Charles W. Moore, Middletown, O.

John R. Fatherland, Bolivar, Pa.

Lt. John M. Hannon Jr., Charlotte, N. C.

Sgt. Michael Yogg, Newark, N. J.

FEWER THAN 100 CASUALTIES ON ESCORT CARRIER

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14 (AP).—Casualties aboard the Ommaney Bay, escort carrier whose loss was announced yesterday by the navy, totaled fewer than 100, Capt. Howard L. Young, her skipper, said today.

The Ommaney Bay was sunk by torpedo fire from accompanying United States naval vessels after she was wrecked by two bombs from an attacking Japanese plane.

Capt. Young, a native of Brooklyn, N. Y., whose wife now lives in Coronado, Cal., said his vessel was hit in the Philippine area while en route to the Lingayen gulf landings.

CHECK-CREDIT

plus AUTOMATIC EMERGENCY CREDIT (When You Need a Loan, Write a Check)

$25.00 is not a lot of money, but sometimes it can be vitally important.

Small sums such as this are borrowed daily by millions of people from friends, relatives, employers. Such borrowings are troublesome not because they are difficult to repay, but because they are embarrassing to ask for. And because they are small, we know they are sometimes overlooked and personal friendships jeopardized.

That is why a person opening a 5c per check (no minimum balance) account here, has the privilege of arranging for Automatic Credit—which allows him to write a check for as much as $25 more than he has in the bank—whenever he needs a loan.

Because the charge for this service is small ($1) and the method of repaying so convenient and automatic, some depositors, we realize, might form the habit of using the borrowing privilege unwisely. We therefore respectfully urge each Check-Credit client to use his or her borrowing privilege only to perform the friendly, useful and real service for which it is designed to conveniently meet the occasional small emergencies that arise in these modern times.

Check-Credit is just another expression of this bank's policy—providing financial services designed to our customers' needs. Call personally, write, or phone Whitehall 4500 for full particulars.

U.S. AND BRITAIN TO PLEDGE MORE HELP TO ITALY

England Rejects Proposal to Scrap Armistice.

ROME, Feb. 14 (AP).—Britain and the United States were reliably reported today to be preparing to issue another joint declaration regarding Italy—a statement which, informants said, will promise greater economic aid and lift some of the control of administrative affairs without granting Italy full allied status.

The declaration, expected to be announced soon in Washington, D. C., and London, was reported to have been agreed upon after the British steadfastly refused the suggestion of some American officials that the present armistice be scrapped for a new accord in which the allies would retain military rights necessary for prosecution of the war in Italy.

Armistice to Be Eased.

The new pronouncement, it was reported, will hold Italy to its "armistice" status, altho some of the terms of the armistice will be relaxed. The secret clauses of the surrender document signed by Marshal Pietro Badoglio in September, 1943, however, will remain known to only a few men.

Why these clauses never were made public is a mystery to most observers. Last summer President Roosevelt said there was no objection to their publication and both governments of Premier Ivanoe Bonomi have said that for their part they were willing to have them known.

Primier Bonomi said recently that objections to publication were made by other allied nations, which he did not identify.

Britain Barred Sforza.

Formation of Italian cabinets has shown, however, that before an Italian government can take office it must be approved by the allied control commission—now the allied commission—the body created to inforce the armistice. Thus, last December, Britain vetoed the appointment of Count Carlo Sforza as foreign minister.

Constant appeals by Italians for a revision of allied financial policy and for a lessening of controls in administrative affairs have shown that some of the terms are concerned with Italy's economic life as well as with legislation.

There also have been statements that the armistice does not deal with territorial or colonial matters.

Treated as Conquered State.

In practice the armistice is the only real relationship between the allies and Italy—a relationship which in effect treats Italy as a conquered nation rather than as a co-belligerent whose troops and ships are fighting the Germans.

Scrapping of the armistice, some officials feel, would remove a psychological impediment to full collaboration from Italy in fighting the Nazis and a new agreement could still preserve all the rights over ports and communication lines essential to the allied forces.

These officials say that with exception of the economic clauses the armistice terms are not as severe as their secrecy would indicate and that many of them only give the allies the same military rights as they hold in liberated countries on the western front.

RECRUITING FOR NAVY RESUMED BY AUSTRALIA

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 14 [Reuters].—Australia has resumed normal recruiting for the navy, Norman Makin, navy minister, announced today. Recruiting was curtailed last year pending examination of Australian man power.

Makin said that in spite of losses in fighting the tonnage and personnel of the Australian navy were more than 600 per cent greater than in Sept., 1939.

The regent, first to speak, said "This is a great day for Greece. Mr. Churchill's presence proves the interest of his mighty country for Greece. It is a happy event because it coincides with the signing of peace in Greece and the three power conference in the Black Sea. Greeks remember warmly Mr. Churchill's first visit to bring peace to this country and therefore receive him with much joy."

"On behalf of the Greek people I want to thank him," the regent concluded. "I thank him and wish success in all his efforts. Long live Churchill. Love live Britain. Long live the united nations."

Churchill then spoke, after prolonged cheering and cries of "Zito Churchill."

"Darkness Rolls Away."

"These are great days," he said. "These are days when darkness rolls away and the future lies before your country. There has been much misunderstanding and ignorance of our common cause and misrepresentation of the issues fought out here in Athens.

"Speaking as an Englishman, I am very proud of the part the British army played in protecting this immortal city from violence and anarchy.

"Our two countries long have marched along the dusty road together in friendship and loyalty. The freedom, prosperity, and happiness of the Greek people are dear to all nations of the British commonwealth and empire. We who have been associated with you in every struggle for Greek victory will march with you until the end of the dark valleys. We will march with you until we reach the broad highlands of justice and peace."

GEN. MARSHALL TOURS 5TH ARMY FRONT IN ITALY

WITH U. S. 5TH ARMY IN ITALY, Feb. 14 (AP).—Gen. Marshall told 5th army soldiers during a tour of the Italian front today that by holding a large German army in Italy they had prevented the Nazis from bolstering German forces on the eastern and western fronts. It is estimated the Nazis have 27 divisions in Italy.

In a surprise visit en route home from the Crimean conference, the United States army chief of staff made a three day tour of the 5th army sector.

He made one stop at the place the G. I.s have been calling "Death valley" since the Germans threw some 1,500 rounds of ammunition into it last December.

Iowan Decorated.

Later the same afternoon he climbed a muddy trail to a forward observation post from which he could see virtually the entire eastern sector of the 5th army front.

At various places he took part in decoration ceremonies. At one he pinned the distinguished service cross on Corp. Morris P. Nelson of Belmond, Ia., of the veteran 34th infantry division.

Marshall was accompanied by Lt. Gen. McNarney, commander of United States army forces of the Mediterranean theater; Lt. Gen. Clark, commander of the allied 15th army group, and Lt. Gen. Truscott, commander of the 5th army.

Marshall started his tour at Florence, where he was met by an honor guard, as well as a unit of the women's army corps, army nurses, and Red Cross girls. Next he went to a 5th army command post, where he was introduced to the men by Gen. Truscott and made a speech to the troops.

Visits Many Outfits.

Marshall then went to the front, stopping briefly with almost every outfit. The longest huddle was with Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond, commander of the Negro 92d infantry division which was forced to fall back with relatively high casualties after a short lived attack last weekend.

Before leaving by air today, the general shook hands at the air field with Col. Earl E. Bates Jr., of Winnetka, Ill., of the 86th fighter group.

At some front line points, having had no advance notice, troops failed to recognize the general. For instance, one lieutenant, who has been wounded twice and won his commission on the battlefield, talked with the chief of staff for 10 minutes about his platoon of K company, 363d regiment, and wasn't sure of the general's identity until he asked some one afterward.

ARABS INVITE PALESTINE AID TO JOIN IN TALK

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 10 [Reuters].—The political committee of the Arab union, meeting under the presidency of Egyptian Foreign Minister Nokrashy Pasha, today formally invited Mussa El Alamy to take part in talks as Palestine's delegate. He accepted. Hitherto Alamy had followed the talks as observer since it was originally decided that only delegates of "independent Arab states" could take part.

Nokrashy Pasha said the Arab union would not be an instrument for destroying or governing nations and that "we want all peoples of the world to believe this. We have great hopes. We will do our best to serve the Arab cause and help maintain peace not only in the Near East but thruout the world."

The Arab union wants to be an instrument for coöperation between Arabs on the basis of justice and liberty for all, Nokrashy Pasha said. The meeting was adjourned until Saturday.

CHARGES BIG 3 TREAT POLAND WORSE THAN AXIS

On the basis of the declaration regarding Poland made by the Big Three at the close of the Crimean conference Monday, Poland has lost the war, has been partitioned anew, and is being treated worse than the defeated axis satellites, the Daily Zgoda, Chicago Polish language newspaper, declared in an editorial yesterday.

[President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill agreed with Marshal Stalin at the parley held near Yalta, in the Russian Crimea, that Poland's eastern frontier should roughly follow the Curzon line. This strips from Poland and awards to Russia a large area which includes the cities of Vilna and Lwow and the oil and natural gas fields of the southeast.]

Not a Gypsy Wagon.

"The American press says that Poland has moved westward," the Zgoda editorial continued. "Poland is not a gypsy wagon to camp here today and there tomorrow." The reference was to the prospect that Poland would receive German lands in the west and north to compensate her for her losses to Russia in the east.

The Zgoda declared that Polish-Americans are discontented with the decision because they are accustomed to the fairness of America.

References also were made to the belief that, according to the terms of the Big Three announcement, the Polish people themselves are not assured of a voice in the formation of the new government [whose nucleus will be the Russian recognized Lublin group]. This omission was characterized as "directly contrary to all principles of freedom and sovereignty."

Leads to Other Wars.

The Crimean declaration is not a basis for permanent peace, the editorial concluded, explaining that new dissatisfaction, intrigue, and strife might lead toward still other wars. The Polish Daily News also blasted the plans. Under the heading, "Poland Sold Out," the Polish Courier of Milwaukee, Wis., strongly protested the Big Three decision.

Polish-American newspaper men representing nine dailies and about 20 weeklies will meet Sunday in the Polish Women's alliance auditorium, 1309 N. Ashland av., on invitation of the Polish-American congress, to decide what coördinated action their publications should take in protest against the Big Three decision.

BRAZILIAN TROOPS ATTACK NAZI HILL SOUTH OF BOLOGNA

ROME, Feb. 14 (AP).—Brazilian troops in platoon strength and supported by artillery today attacked a German held hill near Gaggio, 29 miles southwest of Bologna, allied headquarters announced without giving details of the engagement.

Otherwise the Italian front had subsided to minor patrol clashes and artillery duels. South of Bologna, an enemy patrol was driven from Monte Calderaro. Another small Nazi group was ambushed and captured near Frassinet.

Near the west coast, where an attack by the United States 92d division failed to gain ground last week-end, American tanks attacked in the vicinity of Gallicano and drew heavy enemy fire. Similar small actions were reported from the mud bound 8th army front along the Senio river in the Po valley.

LONDON'S POLES TELL SOLDIERS TO STAY IN WAR

LONDON, Feb. 14 (AP).—Premier Tomasz Arciszewski, having denounced the Big Three's Polish decision, will meet American and British newspaper correspondents tomorrow to explain his government's cause. London Poles called on Polish military units under their command to continue the fight along side soldiers of the United States, Britain, Canada, and France.

Reds Ignore London Poles.

MOSCOW, Feb. 14 (AP).—The Russian press, describing post-war international security as the main objective of soviet foreign policy, looked forward today to the allied nations conference in San Francisco on April 25 as an important step toward that goal.

Soviet newspapers did not publish the declaration of the London Poles against the Polish settlement reached by the Big Three.

Venezuela Declares She Is Ready to Go to War

The bulletin said the government was taking the necessary steps.

RAILWAY TO PAY WORKER $30,000 FOR HIS INJURIES

Federal Judge Elwyn R. Shaw yesterday approved a settlement of $30,000 to Charles W. Ridenour, 52, of Goshen, Ind., by the New York Central railroad, which Ridenour had sued for $100,000. Ridenour's attorney, Royal W. Irwin, told the court that his client, a track worker for the railroad, had been injured Jan. 27, 1944, when part of a brake apparatus on a passenger train that passed Ridenour had broken loose and struck him. Ridenour suffered fractures of both legs and internal injuries, Irwin said.

CARLSON, RAIDER HERO, OUTRANKED BY COL. JIMMY

F.D.R. Son Passes His Former Commander.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14 [Special].—Senate approval of Elliott Roosevelt's promotion to brigadier general focused attention today on the fact that another of President Roosevelt's highly commissioned sons, Col. James Roosevelt, for months has outranked his former veteran commander, Lt. Col. Evans F. Carlson, who made military history as leader of the famed Carlson's Raiders.

Lt. Col. Carlson [top] and Col. Roosevelt.

James, the President's eldest son, has been a full colonel since April, 1944, only one step below a general's star. Meantime Carlson, the famous soldier under whom James served in the assault on Makin Island in 1942, has remained a lieutenant colonel despite 22 years' service in the marines.

Lt. Col. Carlson is one of the most decorated officers in the marine corps. Among his numerous citations are three navy crosses and the Presidential unit citation with two stars. On one occasion his entire battalion was given a blanket citation for offensive operations, the second time such an honor has been bestowed on a unit in marine history.

Led Noted Unit.

A veteran of World War I, the slim, gray haired fighter developed and led one of the marines' hardest hitting units. His Raiders, noted for their skill, training, stamina, and fortitude, were shock troops for many of America's island invasions in the Pacific.

Scenes of the heroic exploits of Carlson's Raiders, who fought courageously in jungles and on beaches in the face of overwhelming odds, comprised the battle line of the Yanks' victory road in the Pacific. Some of their heaviest fighting was at Tarawa, Guadalcanal, Saipan, Wake Island, Makin, and the Marshall and Gilbert Islands.

Carlson, who made heroes of his men by leading the way, was wounded twice on Saipan. He was struck in the arm and leg by Jap machine gun bullets while carrying a wounded enlisted man to safety.

Promotion Delayed.

The Raider chief was ordered promoted to a full colonel six months ago, but because of his wounds, which are still under treatment by navy medical authorities, he hasn't been able to pass his physical examination. A navy dispatch said when he does pass the examination the rank of colonel will be retroactive to Nov. 25, 1942.

In contrast to Carlson's rise thru many years of marine service James Roosevelt began his military career as a lieutenant colonel in the marine corps at 29. He was commissioned in 1936, so he could act as his father's aide on the latter's visit to South America. Later he voluntarily reduced his rank to captain to silence criticism and held this rank in the marine reserve at the outbreak of war. He held three medals before he had seen battle service.

Jimmy Rose Fast.

Within the first five months of the war James was advanced to major, the rank he held under Lt. Col. Carlson in the 1942 Commando-like foray on Makin. He was a lieutenant colonel when he returned to Makin with forces that captured the island.

Medals were bestowed upon the President's son for each of his Makin experiences.

He was also with American forces that regained Kiska Island in the Aleutians, but when James and his companions landed they discovered the Japanese had gone.

$550 REWARD SET FOR ARREST OF DOG POISONER

Reward of $550 awaits the person able to apprehend the dog poisoner operating in the Glenview countrysides area, one mile south of the Glenview naval air station.

At least nine dogs and five cats have been poisoned with strychnine since Dec. 15. A shepherd collie, owned by L. J. Auth, 807 Greenwood st., is the latest victim. It was poisoned Tuesday morning, but was still alive yesterday. County highway police of Morton Grove station are investigating, but have few clews.

R. E. Douglas Jr., 3503 Meadow Lane, owner of one of the poisoned dogs, has offered $500 reward for information leading to the arrest of the offender. Dr. W. A. Young of the Chicago Anti-Cruelty society yesterday announced that his group is adding $50.

EMPLOYERS GET 5 EXTRA DAYS TO TRIM PAY ROLLS

Extend Unclassified Deadline to Feb. 20.

The war man power commission yesterday relaxed its worker release requirements for unclassified businesses by allowing an additional five days, until Feb. 20, for the discharge of employes to bring pay rolls down to 95 per cent of their March, 1944, worker totals. Such businesses have until March 1 to cut them another five per cent.

Lester Brown, area director, told members of the Association of Commerce at a luncheon in Hotel Sherman that current estimates indicate 70,400 new men and women workers will be needed by March 15, but William H. Spencer, regional director, in an interview indicated reports now being compiled may reduce this figure somewhat.

In Answer to Complaints.

Brown's talk, which explained in detail the ceiling reduction program and the new priority referral program which now includes both men and women, followed complaints among job applicants and employers of divided authority within WMC ranks and confusion created by contradictory press releases.

He told the employers that unclassified businesses for which the WMC has not set employment ceilings are to take their March, 1944, pay roll figures as a base for the 5 per cent reduction, but warned them not to remove any worker from their pay rolls until instructed to do so by the United States employment service. This, he said, will protect workers' seniority and other rights until they find new jobs.

Referral Procedure Changed.

He said the order in which workers are being sent to war plants has been changed to provide for the offer of a job in a 1, 2, or 3 priority opening, first at the worker's highest skill; second, at a closely related skill, and then to any job for which the worker is qualified. Formerly, he said, the referral was only to a job utilizing his highest skill.

"But if the worker has no justifiable reason for refusing a high priority job to which he or she is referred, that person will be refused further referral until he comes in to a USES office again looking for a job," Brown said.

Workers may refuse job offers if acceptance would require them to join or refrain from joining a union, if the new jobs are vacant because of labor disputes, if wages or working conditions are below legal standards, or for reasons of "undue personal hardship," Brown pointed out.

USES Rush 80% Higher.

Spencer said the number of persons going thru USES offices has increased more than the WMC "had any reason to expect," and that it is running 80 per cent above any preceding month. He said discussion of the work or jail bills in Washington "is keeping the pot boiling," and the WMC has had to change many procedures to meet the unexpected demand for jobs. New labor demand figures probably will be summarized within a few days, he said, and may call for further revision in regulations.

10 FLYERS BRING TIDINGS TO KIN FROM NAZI JAILS

News of Chicagoans in enemy prison camps will be brought home tonight when 10 army flyers released from German camps and two escaped prisoners of the Japanese appear at a meeting of the Prisoner of War Next of Kin society at 8 o'clock in the armory at 234 E. Chicago av.

This is the ex-prisoners' seventh stop on a tour of 30 cities arranged by Gen. Arnold, commander of the army air forces, in coöperation with the American Red Cross. The tour is the first of its kind. The men will describe the camps and give relatives news of imprisoned men.

The plan developed from the inspiration of the leader of the group, Chicago born Capt. Ragnar Barhaug, 28, now of Casper, Wyo. Pilot of a B-17, Capt. Barhaug spent eight and one-half months at Dulag Luft and Stalag Luft III. camps in Germany after bailing out over Hamburg. He suffered fractures of the pelvis and back.

8,000 at New York Meeting.

"In New York we were almost mobbed," Capt. Barhaug said yesterday. "Nearly 8,000 people crowded into the hall. Every meeting ends the same way—people get out of their seats and push forward to ask questions."

Their Chicago visit was a home coming for Sgt. Harold Sheahan, 35, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Sheahan, 103 Oakwood av., West Chicago. He was a radio operator on a B-24, when he was blown out of his plane over Vienna. He dropped 5,000 feet before he regained consciousness and pulled the ripcord of his parachute.

He was hospitalized in suburban Vienna, where he said medical care was very good. But life in camp Dulag Luft, near Wetzler, and camp 17-B for 11 months was not so good. Meals consisted of hot water for breakfast, wormy cabbage soup for lunch, and three potatoes for dinner, he said, but Red Cross parcels that came thru each week supplemented this meager diet.

Sgt. Sheahan's wife, Lillian, lives at 721 Spring st., Aurora.

Saved from Death Sentence.

Sgt. Azzan McKagan, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. McKagan, 5815 N. 37th st., Milwaukee, Wis., still pinches himself in relief when he recalls that on Christmas eve, 1943, he was condemned to death. He explained it was because he'd left his identification tags hanging over his bunk in England and had no proof of his identity when he bailed out of a B-17 over Cologne. Sgt. McKagan never learned why the sentence was commuted. He was an armament gunner, and has been awarded the distinguished flying cross and air medal with three clusters.

Henry F. Tenney, chairman of the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross, will preside at tonight's meeting. Lt. Col. Joseph B. Kavanaugh, assistant director, American prisoner of war information bureau, office of the provost marshal general, Washington, D. C., will speak.

DRAFT DODGER SOUGHT 4 YEARS CAUGHT BY FBI

Orial P. Castle, 37, who has been delinquent with his draft board in Berwyn since January, 1941, was arrested late yesterday on the north side, Spencer J. Drayton, special agent in charge of the office of the federal bureau of investigation, announced.

Orial P. Castle.

Castle, also wanted for parole violation in Los Angeles, Cal., was working as a porter in a hospital. He will be arraigned this morning.

Drayton said that under the names of Capt. Harry B. Carter, Maj. O. P. Castle, and Lt. Harry B. Carter, Castle had been teaching in several military academies, posing as a reserve officer in the California national guard. He was operating his own school in Los Angeles when arrested in 1937 for crimes against children. He served one year of a 25 year sentence, but was then paroled on his pledge to leave the country for 25 years.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Evelyn Green, 2026 Wilson av.]

THE QUESTION.

What dare did you take as a child that makes you shudder when you think of it today?

WHERE ASKED.

Railway Exchange building, Jackson blvd. and Michigan av.

THE ANSWERS.

Fannie Whitwam, cashier, 845 Sheridan rd.—When I was visiting in the country my friend dared me to jump from the hayloft to a hayrack full of hay. Without a second thought or look I jumped. I landed right beside a pitch fork that was stuck in the hay. The accident I might have had terrifies me now.

Paul Kahn, musician, 158 N. Central av.—You know now brave boys are when they're too young to know better. I boasted that I wasn't afraid of any one when my friends challenged me to a fight with the school bully. I emerged from the fight with two black eyes, a bloody nose, and beaten black and blue. He nearly killed me.

Erma Dietz, comptometer operator, 10027 Ewing av.—At a lake one afternoon some boys dared me to dive into 10 feet of water. I couldn't swim but jumped in. My sister saw me struggling and threw an inner tube out to me. It floated away. A group of the boys saved me. I've been afraid of water ever since.

Florence Reed, secretary, 641 Aldine av.—There was a high shed in the yard. The boys were jumping off it and dared me to do it, too. I got to the edge of the roof. They were all egging me on. I was afraid. One of them said he'd kiss me if I didn't jump. Without a moment's hesitation I jumped. I'd take the alternative now.

Mary McInerney, bookkeeper, 1331 Fargo av.—Three of us girls were walking home from the beach. We passed the school yard where a boy's bicycle was parked. One of my friends said, "I dare you to steal it." So the other girl and I got on and rode away. I hate to think what the consequences could have been.

Virginia Patrick, secretary, Round Lake—In Oklahoma, where I grew up, there was a lot of quick sand. Some of the children found it great sport running across it fast enough so they wouldn't go down. I did it on a dare. Had I stumbled and fallen in the sand I wouldn't be here today to tell about it.

CITY TRACTION PROBLEM VIEWS GIVEN BY GREEN

Gov. Green said at Springfield yesterday that he was interested in a Chicago traction problem solution that would be "interesting to investors," and added that any acceptable plan would have to depend on its ability to raise tremendous sums of money.

He also said that while he was opposed to any scheme that might put additional tax burdens on the people of the city, he did not "preclude any form of municipal ownership."

The municipal ownership plan now being supported by the city would be financed by the sale of revenue certificates backed solely by the earnings of a consolidated traction system. Some 85 million dollars would have to be raised to purchase the elevated and surface lines, and another 100 millions for improvements in a few years.

VICTIM HOUNDED HER WITH LOVE, WIFE TESTIFIES

BY PAUL HOLMES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Princeton, Ill., Feb. 14.—It was a one sided love affair which she had last spring with Charles Neufcour, for whose murder she and her husband are on trial, Lucille Dhamer, 27, testified in Circuit court today.

Neufcour, 32, a hired man on the Dhamer farm, told her repeatedly he loved her and begged her to run away with him, but she successfully repulsed most of his advances, she said. Three times, she admitted in a scarcely audible tone and with an appealing glance at her husband, Harry, 42, she wasn't successful.

She insisted that when she shot and killed her former lover in a bean field last October, however, she was not trying to right any "wrong" she had done her husband. She said she simply was trying to protect her husband against an attack by three farm workers who had threatened to kill him and were advancing with arms swinging.

Wasn't Aiming Weapon.

She wasn't aiming at any one person, she said, and wasn't intending to shoot, but "I was terribly scared and then the gun went off." Neufcour, one of the group, chanced to be the person who got hit.

She denied she heard Harry call to her to "let 'em have it," a remark he has admitted making, and further denied he pointed to Neufcour and said, "You're the man I am after," which others say happened but which he denies.

Rulings on the admissibility of testimony by Judge L. A. Zearing saved Lucille going into detail about the three times she had been unable to resist Neufcour's love making.

"You were rather intimate with Neufcour?" asked State's Attorney Joseph Peterson. She answered, "Yes," and when pressed for a further statement added, "the night he doped me." This was a reference to testimony that she became ill one night in January, 1944, after drinking brandy in the Dhamer farm home with Neufcour while her husband was on a trip to the west coast.

Once He Choked Her.

"Were there other occasions?" Peterson persisted.

"Yes, twice, but once he choked me," Lucille said. Judge Zearing ruled that she need not describe these occasions.

"Didn't you visit the farm often last March while your husband was in a hospital at Peoria?" asked the state's attorney.

"About three times a week," she said, "but on farm business and not to see Chuck" [Neufcour's nickname].

Q.—But you did see him. A.—Some times.

Q.—You saw him in the cow barn once and embraced him. A.—I didn't embrace him.

Q.—You got into a car with him and hugged and kissed him. A.—I did not.

Confessed to Husband.

Lucille said she told her husband when he got out of the hospital about her affair with Neufcour. The confession was voluntary, she said, denying that Dhamer forced it from her by beating her or threatening her with a gun.

After the confession Dhamer offered to divorce her so she could marry Neufcour, she said, promising to set them up on an 80 acre farm with new furniture, machinery, and $1,000 in cash, Lucille said.

The offer, she said, was made while she and Neufcour sat in the front seat of the Dhamer automobile at the farm and Dhamer, just out of the hospital and with his leg in a cast, sat in the back seat with a loaded rifle pointed at Chuck.

"Chuck said he loved me, but I said I wouldn't marry him if he were the last man in the world," she said.

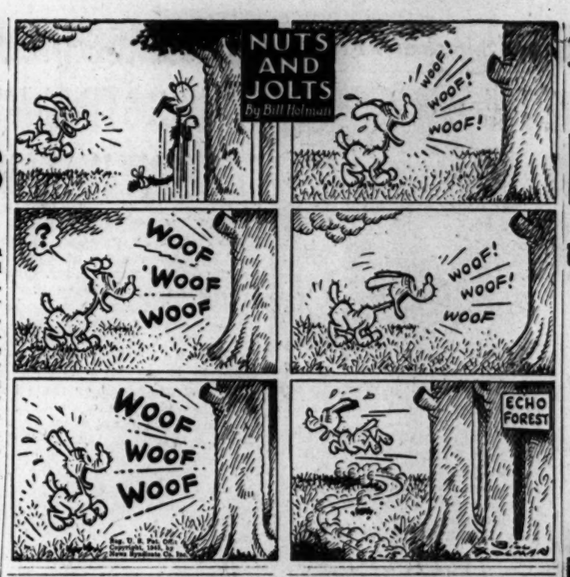
Tore Front of Dress.

A few days before this, she testified, Chuck got in to her automobile against her wishes and pleaded with her to desert her husband. When she refused he tore the front off her dress and hit her in the mouth, she said.

"I ran into the house, leaving my purse behind," she said. "When I saw Chuck leave I went back for my purse and it was empty. There had been $50 in it."

Boy Injured by Rocket on His Model Airplane

Robert Zahn, 15, of 2651 Winona av., suffered cuts on his face, legs, and hands last night when a small rocket exploded as he was about to set it off on a model airplane in the Budlong school yard at Foster and Washtenaw avs. At the Swedish Covenant hospital it was said he may lose one or two fingers of his left hand. Police said the rocket is a manufactured product sold to school boys, and that they will make an investigation.



GIRL, 20, JOINS WAC, 6TH OF HER FAMILY IN WAR

Miss Marilyn Bossinas, 20, of 1302 Carmen av., yesterday became the sixth member of her immediate family to serve in this war. She left Chicago for WAC basic training at Fort Des Moines, Ia. Two of her brothers are casualties, James, killed in action that sank a Japanese transport carrying prisoners of war from the Philippines to Japan, and Arthur, listed as missing for many months.

Marilyn Bossinas.

Two other brothers also are in uniform, Nick with the marines and Alexander with the navy. Her sister, Katherine, is a navy nurse.

"Every woman who has lost a relative in this war should enlist in some branch of service," Marilyn said yesterday. "It is her duty."

DEATH CAUSE UNDETERMINED.

A corner's jury yesterday returned an undetermined verdict in the death of Miss Rebecca Piper, 41, of 5520 Shouth Shore dr., who died Jan. 28 of the effects of an overdose of sleeping tablets.

SEEK PAY RAISE FOR SUPERIOR, CIRCUIT JUDGES

Bills Call for Increase of $2,000 a Year.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 14.—A strong movement to increase salaries of Circuit and Superior court judges $2,000 a year was disclosed today when two bills for this purpose were introduced by Sen. Barr [R., Joliet]. The judges' lobby proved its effectiveness in 1943 when the legislature enacted a law liberalizing the judges' pension system.

At the same time it was reported Gov. Green favors Elmer J. Schnackenberg and Leonard C. Reid for the two Republican slatings under the coalition judicial ticket plan. Schnackenberg was speaker of the Illinois house the last two sessions. Reid has been active in G. O. P. circles, mostly in the interests of Gov. Dewey, a cousin of his by marriage.

Would Be Raised to $17,000.

One of the Barr bills would raise from $15,000 to $17,000 the salaries of Circuit and Superior court judges in Cook county who are elected this year or thereafter. On June 4 all 20 Circuit judges will be elected, including two to fill vacancies. The Superior court bench has three vacancies to be filled then, but the other judges would have to wait for reelection in 1946 or 1947 to get the higher pay.

A second Barr bill would increase from $8,000 to $10,000 the annual pay of downstate Circuit judges. Terms of all 51 of them expire this year, so that the boost would apply to the entire court after June.

High Court Needs Funds.

Appellate court clerks are reported to be about to start a drive to have the state foot the expenses of their offices which are now supported by fees. The fees have been dwindling and would be turned over to the state treasury. Sheldon Govier, Appellate court clerk in Chicago, was here recently on this matter and Schnackenberg followed up this week as Govier's representative.

Supreme Court Clerk Searcy reports business at the high tribunal has increased, but since his office operates on state appropriation this means his funds are running low. Searcy will have to take his place in the long line of officials looking for more state money.

GUINNESS CASE TRIAL OF JEWS TERMED UNFAIR

Morris J. Mendelsohn of New York City, national president of the New Zionist organization, asserted last night that the recent trial of two young Jewish nationalists on a charge of murdering W. E. Guinness [Lord Moyne], British resident-minister in the middle east, was neither fair nor unbiased. The two, tried in Cairo, Egypt, were sentenced to death.

Mendelsohn further accused the British government of suppressing facts in the case and evidence submitted by the defense. He spoke before the Chicago branch of the New Zionist organization in the Morrison hotel.

"England," Mendelsohn said, "was determined at all costs to keep the world at large ignorant of shocking incidents of the ruthlessness and lawlessness which characterized the colonial office's misrule in that British mandated area." He said that pressure will be applied to the national administration and the Democratic and Republican parties which promised support of a Jewish commonwealth in Palestine.

DEFIES ORDER TO LEAVE HOME; JAILED 90 DAYS

Emery H. Ladewig, 30, of 117 Lake st., Waukegan, chose 90 days in Lake county jail yesterday rather than comply with Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady's order directing him to leave his home.

Ladewig's wife had filed suit for divorce Jan. 4, charging cruelty and seeking an injunction to prevent Ladewig from molesting her or their three children, Emery, 4; Philip, 2, and Victorie, 1. Yesterday Ladewig was brought into court, where it was charged he had scorned the court injunction barring him from his home.

Judge Dady told Ladewig he would be punished if he did not obey the court's orders. When the judge said, "I'll have to give you 30 days in jail if you don't leave the house," Ladewig replied, "You can give me two years but I won't move."

"Ninety days," rapped the court, and Bailiff Edward Dunne led Ladewig to the Lake county jail to begin his sentence.

TRANSPORT LACK ON HIGHWAY 14 TOLD AT HEARING

Allegations that residents of the northern end of Illinois, along highway 14, have inadequate transportation to Chicago were made yesterday at an Illinois commerce commission hearing.

Examiner William J. Walsh was told by witnesses living on the route that they were getting along with only one train a day in each direction, and that bus service was essential. Among the communities affected are Harvard, Woodstock, Crystal Lake, Cary, Barrington, Des Plaines, and Park Ridge.

Two companies, Cardinal Bus Lines and the Peoria & Rockford Bus company, have asked for certificates to operate, and each promised four trips daily in each direction. The line would extend from Big Foot Prairie, near the Wisconsin boundary, to the loop.

DIES AFTER TRAIN SEVERS LEGS.

Miss Lucille Wingert, 28, of 7136 Lafayette av., whose legs were severed Tuesday when she was struck by an Illinois Central train at 79th st. and Exchange av., died yesterday in South Chicago hospital.

YOICKS! FOXES LOSE A CHASE IN LEGISLATURE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 14.—The sporting blood of Illinois legislators today was running cold, and if foxes are as foxy as they're said to be, they'll be running too.

A double defeat was given by the house to the tradition of fox hunting, hound dog style, and to the foxes themselves. The argument was on a bill to make it open season on foxes all year around, instead of for about six weeks in winter, and when the talleyho, beg pardon, the tally, was sounded, the open season bill got 74 votes to 8 opposed and was advanced to passage stage.

This vote came despite the pleas of one representative who said the raising of fox hounds is a major industry in his district and despite much talk that even tho foxes eat chickens and quail, it's still unsportsmanlike to hunt them down with clubs and steel traps.

Looks like it'll be the foxes, not the hunters, who'll be yelling yoicks!

KELLY FAVORS PAY BOOST FOR CLERKS, BAILIFFS

Mayor Kelly yesterday expressed approval of a bill pending in the state legislature that would provide pay increases for the clerks and bailiffs of the Chicago Municipal court, altho he indicated that some amendments probably would be made before it becomes law.

"Our clerks and bailiffs are entitled to raises in salary," the mayor said. "When their salaries were fixed by statute years ago, they were considered handsome wages, but now the men are regarded as underpaid."

The bill is sponsored by both Albert J. Horan, chief bailiff of the court, and Joseph L. Gill, court clerk, and was introduced by Sen. Connors [D., Chicago]. The most likely amendment, it was indicated, will be a provision that will call for a raise from $2,500 to $3,000 instead of the $3,500 called for in the Connors bill. This will put the court employes' salaries on a par with that of Chicago police and firemen.

ESTRANGED PAIR GIVE DAUGHTER $1,000 VALENTINE

Judith Hull, 7, who lives with her mother, Eleanore, 35, at 6947 Peoria st., was given a $1,000 war bond as a Valentine yesterday because her estranged parents could not agree on which of them should get the money, received from the sale of real estate.

Atty. Victor Frohlich, representing Mrs. Hull, and Atty. Sol R. Friedman, representing her husband, Clifford, 40, of 7314 Stewart av., a postoffice employe, told Judge John F. Haas in Superior court that the couple had agreed on temporary alimony, but not on the division of the $1,000.

They suggested that it be given to Judith, and Judge Haas approved. He will hear Mrs. Hull's suit for divorce Monday.

SUBURB TO TALK OVER NAZI CAMP PLAN TONIGHT

Residents of Western Springs and representatives of nearby Catholic schools for girls and boys will meet tonight in McClure school, on Wolf road, with Maj. E. R. Schuelke, commander of the German prisoner of war camp at Fort Sheridan, for further consideration of an army proposal to house 200 Germans in an old Civilian Conservation corps camp at Howard st. and Ogden av. The prisoners are needed for work in a nearby food processing plant. Approval of the Cook county board is necessary before the army will place the prisoners in the camp. Some residents of Western Springs gave approval to the plan recently, but others objected.

DISMISS REPAIR FAILURE CHARGE.

Judge Erwin J. Haasen in License court yesterday dismissed a city suit against J. Fay Cusick, 60, for alleged failure to repair his home at 4218 Montrose av. in compliance with the sanitary code, when Cusick said he had moved.

THE BLUE LIKES 'EM THAT WAY.

Edward J. Noble who was assistant secretary of commerce under Harry Hopkins and now is chief owner of the Blue Network is at last under the necessity of telling, for a court record how he came into possession of Station WMCA. The sale was the subject of an extended investigation by a congressional committee. It was charged that the former owner, Donald Flamm, wouldn't sell until he was told that if he didn't the federal communications commission, which has the power to refuse the renewal of station licenses, would make him wish he had.

The majority of the house committee couldn't find anything wrong in the transaction. The minority characterized the report as a whitewash. Which view was correct should be determined before long, because Mr. Flamm has sued Mr. Noble for $2,925,000 in damages and the Appellate division in New York has just authorized Flamm's counsel to examine Noble under oath.

At any rate, there is no doubt that Mr. Noble, the one time assistant secretary of commerce, bought WMCA and neither is there any doubt that not long afterward he sold it to Nathan Straus at a reported profit of $405,000. When the National Broadcasting company was required by the communications commission to divest itself of the Blue Network, Mr. Noble was the buyer.

Nobody can accuse the Blue Network, under his direction, of leaning backward to show its independence of the administration. The network's facilities have been placed at the service of some of the most venomous tongues in the New Deal's service. The Blue is doing its full share of the hatchet work.

The network carries, for example, the back stairs gossip and comment of Winchell, Pearson, and Gallmor. The first two are well enough known to require no introduction or characterization. Gallmor is not so well known. He is a self-confessed thief who is presently at liberty on parole, but that may not be his special qualification for appointment as commentator on the Blue Network. More pertinent is the fact that he has been exposed as an unconscionable liar.

Mr. John T. Flynn did the exposing in his usual thoro style. As a student of political science Mr. Flynn has observed the recently perfected technique of the smearers. Gallmor provided a case for study.

As Mr. Flynn tells the story, the Blue Network's man showed up at Swan Lake in the Catskills on July 27 to make an appeal for support of a magazine known as The Protestant. This magazine has been notably hospitable to communist writers and writings. Its editor has contributed to the Daily Worker. The magazine has been distinguished also for the virulence of its attacks on the Catholic church and likewise for the crocodile tears it has shed over anti-Semitic outrages. The Protestant has been denounced as unworthy of support by the four leading Jewish organizations of the country.

Gallmor, the Blue Network's man, was whooping up the virtues of this miserable hate-breeding publication before an audience composed of Jews who had been specially invited to hear him. He digressed from his main theme long enough to talk about Mr. Merwin K. Hart of the National Economic council. Mr. Hart, so Gallmor asserted, was a notorious Fascist who only a few days before had addressed the platform committee of the Republican national convention for an hour in opposition to a proposal to punish promoters of racial and religious hate. Hart's remarks, Gallmor said, had been warmly applauded. He had referred repeatedly to "President Rosenfield." His talk had bristled with invectives against Jews. Sen. Taft, presiding at the committee hearing, while denying the floor to speakers who had different views, had let Hart talk on and on. "I am not saying that the Republican resolutions committee or its chairman, Mr. Taft, are anti-Semitic," Mr. Gallmor of the Blue Network asserted, "but definitely, when people in high office applaud a speech of that type by this notorious man, Hart, then we have a situation before us such as Germany had in 1932."

In all of this there was not one syllable of truth. Mr. Hart is not a notorious Fascist or any other kind of a Fascist. He appeared for no more than 10 minutes before the resolutions committee here in Chicago, and in that time discussed his organization's economic and political program. There was no reference to race or religion in his remarks. There were no bursts of applause, and if there had been they could not have reflected approval of anti-Jewish remarks because none had been made.

Gallmor's lie was detected in all its viciousness because some of the members of his audience knew he couldn't be telling the truth, and took the trouble to prove it. To any one who is acquainted with communist strategy, Gallmor's speech will not appear unusual. To any one who knows the Blue Network the continuing employment of such a man as Gallmor will not appear unusual either.

FIFTY BILLIONS WASTED?

Controler General Lindsay C. Warren, testifying before a congressional committee which is considering a bill to end certain forms of bribery in connection with war contracts, charged that excessive costs on war contracts have cost the government a "staggering" sum. He was willing to estimate the loss at 50 billion dollars.

The total of war contracts awarded up to last November was about 207 billions, including work done in the government's own arsenals and other war plants. If Mr. Warren is right, the Roosevelt administration has frittered away 24 cents of every dollar it has spent on war contracts. The waste and graft he estimates would exceed by more than 8 billions the total sales in the last two war bond drives. It is more than twice the amount of all of the series E war bonds outstanding.

As the official watchdog of the treasury, Mr. Warren is engaged in auditing 35 billions in cost-plus-fixed-fee war contracts. Tho they are legal, these contracts are "so wide open you can drive a team of horses thru them," he told the committee. He also told the committee that recent contract legislation omitted precautions against grafting that had been on the statute books since the Grant administration, nearly three-quarters of a century ago.

The particular evil with which the committee which heard Mr. Warren is concerned is kickbacks on cost-plus-fixed-fee contracts. Rep. Manasco, sponsor of the bill, asserts that holders of such contracts have given subcontracts at excessive figures, all of which are charged to the government, and then got kickbacks from the subcontractors, giving them an illegal profit beyond their fixed fee.

This is outright graft, and should be stopped and punished. But it obviously hasn't cost the government 50 billions, or any large proportion of that sum. Mr. Warren is no doubt willing to amplify his charges. Congress should see that he does so, and likewise see that something is done about the matter when the evidence is in. Most of the exposures of graft and inefficiency in prosecution of the war, including those by the Truman committee, have ended in newspaper headlines. The wasters and malefactors have gone unpunished.

Mr. Warren is a Roosevelt appointee. The contracts he questions were all let by other Roosevelt appointees. If the scandal that he says exists is real, it rests in Mr. Roosevelt's lap.

FRANCE STEPS OUT.

The De Gaulle government has voted to establish a huge naval and air base at Dakar in the Senegalese bulge of West Africa. This is the closest point in Africa to the Americas. The crossing to Natal in Brazil from there is 1,626 miles. When France was under German control Dakar was regarded as a menace to this country. Mr. Roosevelt was in the habit of hinting that the Nazi invasion would come from there.

Since French Africa was brought over to the allies in November, 1942, by Adm. Darlan, the United States has established a large American naval base in the Dakar region. We took over Dakar thru arrangements with Darlan 16 days before he was assassinated. The French navy, largely scuttled at Toulon, was unable to use Dakar or any other of its bases with effect, but our navy, which had a vast job on its hands, made good use of the base.

The De Gaulle government's action is obviously intended to inform us that we are no longer welcome. We are being nudged out. The timing is significant, for the French decision to fortify Dakar comes just after Gen. de Gaulle was denied a seat at the Yalta conference. His attitude has been one of injury and he has implied that France's rightful claims as a great power have been slighted. There is a certain defiance in returning to Dakar now and establishing a French air and sea watch over the approaches to the Americas. We have been reminded that we must consider France in our future reckonings.

It hardly seems subject to question that France, by stepping out now and going imperialistic in a big way, is seeking to repair the damages to her self-esteem caused by defeat in war. Her psychological hurt demands satisfaction. Not only is her leadership reasserting France's claims as a colonial power and giving notice that even the Americas must reckon with France, but it is becoming clamorous in its demands for expansion in continental Europe.

The French press has taken to referring to the Rhine as a "great French river" and to the chief of state as "De Gaulle of the Rhine." Assiduous efforts are being made to erase the memory of defeat and, by minimizing the fact that France was liberated by Americans, to create a legend of an unaided nation rising like the phoenix from its own ashes. The French censorship succeeded in suppressing Gen. Eisenhower's congratulatory message to the French 1st army upon the capture of Colmar, because the message would have served to emphasize that the French forces are under an American supreme commander and are part of an army group under American command. The propaganda line is to make the Alsatian liberation an exclusively French affair.

It is part of the confused motives of a nation which has known the degradation of utter defeat to harbor something like resentment toward those who have restored freedom. De Gaulle and his France seem more than ordinarily touchy on this score. We are blamed for failing to rearm the French army, to feed the people, and to rebuild the national economy, altho we would have to stop the war to do it with the dispatch which France seems to require. Our contributions are forgotten and our omissions are remembered.

It would be useful in view of these circumstances if Gen. de Gaulle and those around him would remind themselves that it was Germany, and not this country, which is responsible for France's condition, and that it was the incapacity of Frenchmen to defend their country which brought about its defeat, and the valor and resolution of the United States which reversed the decision of 1940.

If France is able to spare the finances to build a great war base where it cannot possibly do any good in this war and can only point at the Americas in the future, there would appear to be ample grounds for concluding that she doesn't need any of our money. International coöperation is not a one way street, altho Mr. Roosevelt and all of our allies seem to feel that it is. The De Gaullists ought to start doing something on their own account to restore the position of their country, instead of boondoggling their money away on unnecessary bases for future wars and acting as sulky as chastised schoolboys. As our great President has remarked, there is no place in this era of good feeling for dogs in the manger.

DRAMA AT YALTA.

When the Big Three signed their names to the report of the Yalta conference, could one of them have answered the question: "What other drama of international fame was written in this city of the Crimea?" We doubt it, even if the quizzer had tossed them the clew, "It also has a Three in the title." As Russian chief of state, Stalin should know, but as a Georgian who was educated mainly by the works of Karl Marx and who has shown no taste for the literary lore of the czarist period, such knowledge isn't likely.

* * *

Well then, in Yalta, Anton Chekhov, eminent in Russian literature and drama, wrote the play called "The Three Sisters." This work, which has a military tinge, is famous among drama critics, intellectual playgoers with pro-Russian leanings, and subscribers to the Theater Guild seasons. It was acted in Chicago, but not for the first time, as recently as year before last, with Katharine Cornell and Judith Anderson in the most prominent roles of an excellent cast. This city also heard it in its native language about 20 years ago, when the Moscow Art Theater company held forth in full splendor of its European renown and Morris Gest's press agentry, at the Great Northern.

* * *

Yalta has a mild climate, suitable for invalids in search of a health resort, and Chekhov, who had a serious case of tuberculosis, bought a house there in 1897. His illness prevented him from going to Moscow to see Stanislavsky's productions of "The Sea Gull" and "Uncle Vanya" at the Art theater; therefore the company moved down to the Crimea, bag and baggage, to act for him, in the spring of 1900. Incidentally, Stanislavsky and his associates hoped to stimulate the invalid into writing another play, with roles specially suited to the company's personnel.

* * *

Thus it came about that in Yalta, in the summer of 1900, "The Three Sisters" was born. Chekhov went to Moscow to attend rehearsals, but became discouraged and fled to Nice. After his play's success he returned and married the company's leading actress, Olga Knipper. The première [Feb. 13, 1901] marked the 25th anniversary of his literary career. Three years later he died at a German spa in the Black Forest.

What shivers thru the guardian humus mold.
He loves each tendril and He holds no brief
For those who like Spring's pageantry unrolled
With the first robin. The insensitive
Approach of ruthless hands uncovering
March bulbs for Him is grief that will outlive
A grief more personal, in any spring.

For He has known life's chill; and prying eyes,
And cruel hands that tear and desecrate,
Impatient to uncover or surprise.
His touch is reverent; His hand can wait;
His heart recalls a lasting infamy:
A springtime garden in Gethsemane.

Elderberry Vintage Time.

A Christmas gift of a bottle of homemade elderberry wine brings back memories. We, too, used to have the elderberry, both in spirit and in jelly form.

The second Saturday in September was the day Pa always took off from the brass factory and hired a buggy for elderberry picking. Yes, it was a surrey with the fringe all around the top! Ma and Pa sat in the front seat and we kids were piled in the back with an all-day lunch-basket of chicken, cold cuts, and potato salad, plus enough bushel baskets to put a commercial cannery to shame.

Somehow the sun always managed to shine. We soon discarded our sweaters and outer wraps as we worked among the bushes. The baskets were filled, but only after we had our fill of the berries first.

As soon as we arrived home, Pa claimed his rightful share of the berries for wine making. Ma, too, glanced over them to pick the nicest for jelly making. Long after we tiredly tumbled into bed we could hear them downstairs. Pa argued he should have more of the berries because company, especially the menfolks, liked his wine so much. Ma finally compromised by tossing a flat button. If it turned right side up, Ma could have most of the berries. She always seemed to come out winner!

Many years after Pa was buried, she told us that both sides of the button were alike.

W. H. writes: "My husband is a private in the army overseas, and I'm expecting a baby in June. Our family doctor doesn't want to take care of me under the government plan, but indicates he is willing to care for me and put his bill on the shelf until my husband returns. If I decide to have him handle the case under such circumstances, would I be able to get the hospital bill paid under the government plan and then pay the doctor later?"

We have had several instances such as yours where doctors have indicated a willingness to postpone payment of their bills rather than enter into the emergency maternity and infant care program, presumably because they did not feel the payment provided is adequate. The regulations, however, say:

"State health department pay for services rendered by physicians, nurses, and hospitals, who agree to accept a rate of payment set in accordance with the state plans. Additional payments to the physician or hospital may not be made by or on behalf of the wife. An enlisted man or his family may not pay for one part of the care [such as the physician's bill] and the health department for the rest. More expensive doctor or hospital accommodations than those provided under the state plan may not be obtained by paying the difference in cost." Service men's wives who are finding their doctors "reluctant" to help them out are advised to call or write the nearest medical society office [in Chicago and vicinity, the Chicago Medical society, 30 N. Michigan av., Central 3026] and the medical society will try to put them in touch with doctors who will coöperate.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Dr. Irving S. Cutter

The following article was prepared in advance by Dr. Irving S. Cutter before the illness which resulted in his death Feb. 2.

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.]

FIND AND REMOVE CAUSE OF HALITOSIS.

BAD breath, in the majority of instances, is due to poor hygiene of the nose, mouth, and teeth. Nevertheless, millions of dollars a year are spent for correctives. We all shrink, naturally, from the victim of halitosis and there is no quicker way to break up a small, intimate group than to have it joined by a sufferer.

By and large, we may assume that the cause is putrefaction somewhere. It may lie in a chronic ozena [atrophic rhinitis], with the basic trouble within some one of the sinuses. Not infrequently, however, careful X-ray studies and critical examinations show nothing wrong within these mucous lined, bony rooms. At most, infection will be so slight as to be negligible.

On the other hand, such common factors as dental caries, old root stumps, fragments of decomposing food within the oral cavity, constipation, kidney disease, or even the use of certain drugs may be responsible.

How much mouth breathing has to do with the situation is considerable, particularly with children. Large adenoid growths, which prevent the proper use of the nasal airways, may become the seat of obstruction to the natural flow of air. In consequence, bits of edibles will be held until they decay.

If the search is thoro enough there may be little difficulty in spotting the culprit but the whole gamut of systemic diseases will need to be checked, including the state of the circulation. Furthermore, the manifestation may appear in jittery individuals. A disturbed nervous system may affect digestion. But it is safe to say that 75 per cent of all cases will vanish by putting the teeth in good repair and freeing the tonsils from pus.

Can ozena be improved? Within recent years excellent results have been reported subsequent to the use of female hormones. The stench which accompanies the condition is out of all proportion to the amount of putrefaction which is present. The chances are that we do not know the exact chemistry of the vile, odoriferous compounds formed by the germs which are present. This is what makes the disorder so discouraging to handle.

Now and then surgery is helpful but it means extensive removal of all necrotic tissue, plus drainage of the involved sinuses. Then follows a long program of antiseptic treatments, perhaps repeated several times a day.

Certain authorities have noted that the sulfa remedies may be sprayed into the nasal cavity with marked benefit. The suggested procedures vary from a 5 per cent solution to the actual powder in finely divided form. In the meantime, nutrition is raised to a high level and elimination is attended to.

The least we can do is to have some kind friend remind us when our expired air is fetid. If cleanliness of the nose and throat and routing out of foci of infection do not influence the condition, dietary changes may be of value. Sometimes so simple a plan as drinking buttermilk daily will do the trick.

IRRITATED EYELIDS.

G. I. writes: My eyelids are irritated and scaly. I seem to be in good health and cannot understand why this condition persists. What causes it?

REPLY.

Granulated eyelids [blepharitis] may accompany a drop in resistance, especially following an acute infection. Other factors include poor hygiene, exposure to irritants [smoke, dust, etc.], and vision defects. Do not neglect the disorder.

DESTROYING FUNGI.

J. D. writes: Can molds attack the ear canals?

REPLY.

They can and do. If routine measures are not successful in eradicating the invader, the careful physician will test the secretion microscopically, in order to determine the exact species. Various types of drugs may then be employed until one is found that will kill the "bug."

FICTION.

G. B. writes: Is fish a brain food?

REPLY.

Yes. So are potatoes, meat, rutabagas, cereals, etc. In other words, the body, including the brain, cannot function without the nourishment supplied by all foods. Fish is as valuable as any, but no more so.

MANY NAMES.

I. A. writes: What is the name of the disorder which may afflict tunnel workers?

REPLY.

Caisson disease, diver's paralysis, tunnel disease, etc. Popularly, it is known as "the bends."

THE BIG TREE

Front Views & Profiles

By MARCIA WINN

Art in 24 Volumes.

It may be news to you, too, that the Encyclopedia Britannica, of all things, has gathered up and owns the most representative and complete collection of contemporary American paintings ever assembled. [The preceding line-up of superlatives is theirs.] The mere thought had us gasping, so we paid a social call on the E. B. the other day. After having been served a very nice lunch on a paper doilie that said, "Follow the war as you eat," an impossible feat as the map on the doilie depicted only the Mediterranean area in the days of Tobruk, we were taken to the E. B.'s extremely modern offices below. The publication's hallmark, embossed on its front doors, is still a spray of Scotch thistle, reminder that it first was published 177 years ago in Edinburgh, and over the inside portals is Tennyson's "Utility ought to be the principal intention of every publication. Let knowledge grow from more to more and thus be human life enriched." Hanging right beneath this is the first of the modern art, a painting "Night Haul-Maine" which Georges Schreiber did to illustrate an article on fishing in the Encyclopedia's small child, the Junior E. B.

From here on you will see more paintings than persons, as every corridor, every office, is filled with them. They hang over file cabinets, desks, and water coolers, for the E. B., having no place else to put them, has hung them all around itself on the theory that enjoyment should begin at home. The collection now includes 116 paintings by as many artists, ranging from an impression of the play "Harriet" made by Robert Philipp to go with an article on the theater to a Salvador Dali that no one knows what to do with because it makes sense and a painting of the stormy North Atlantic by Frederick Waugh. The staff voted the latter the picture it would most like to own. It hangs in the same room with a George Bellows lithograph of Firpo knocking Dempsey thru the ropes and a pretty blue card that says: "Did you get your man today?"

Glenn Price, the art director, is having a field day. Every casual he can get hold of he takes thru the corridors, asking wistfully, "Now, which one do you prefer?" or "Now, here is an abstract painting that any one can understand." His own favorite is Grant Wood's portrait of his sister, Nan. This shows that gaunt lady in a violently polka dot blouse holding a plum in one hand and a yellow oaby chicken in another. She was the lady in Wood's glacial "American Gothic" as well, and Wood painted this in atonement. "It will be your nest egg," he promised her. It apparently was, altho the E. B. will not reveal the price it paid her. When she sold it to Mr. Price, she told him its genesis. The day her brother wanted to paint it, she wandered in nibbling on a plum and holding a baby chicken she had just bought. He was fascinated, and had her eating plums and holding the chicken for weeks. In the interim, the chicken became thoroly spoiled, for wherever they went, it went. It became used to keeping late hours and refused to eat breakfast before 11 a. m. Then it would not eat bread unless toasted or toast unless buttered. Wood achieved the polka dot blouse, by the way, by cutting a round of raw potato with a cookie cutter, dipping the potato into dark paint, and blotting it on the blouse. When it was all over, the chicken had grown into a pullet, and the blouse was a wreck.

Many of the paintings will be used in Junior to illustrate articles on everything from rodeo to erosion. Some will appear in the full size edition, all in color. The originals will be shown at the Art institute for a month beginning in mid-April, many of them being shown publicly for the first time. After that the collection will be sent over the country wherever it is wanted. "All Britannica hopes," E. B. Powell, president, said, "is that America will really look at her own art."

WAGE AND HOUR APPEALS.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—The wage and hour division at Merchandise Mart is supposed to be the guardian of the worker's interests as against illegal exploitation by the employer. Here is my experience with this federal agency: In January last year, I filed a report with the department regarding flagrant violations of the wage and hour law by my then employer. In August, upon several complaints from me, the firm was finally investigated, and the facts stated in my report were found to be true.

The acting inspector ignoring the detailed documentary proof of my claim for overtime pay, fixed the amount, arbitrarily, 40 per cent below my actual claim. A complaint to the local administrator was rejected on the grounds that after payment by the employer of the sum fixed, the case was closed. My appeal to the federal administrator in Washington was found justified and, on account of errors not only in plain arithmetic but also in the method of computation applied by the local inspector, the local division was directed to review the case and rectify the mistakes. This was in October. Despite two reminders, I have heard nothing from the local division to this day.

This throws a significant light on the attitude and efficiency of our federal service. The case is over one year old. It seems an employer can get away with paying a small part of his obligation under the interpretation by the local officials. Because a petty inspector, ignorant of the law and of plain arithmetics, inadvertently or intentionally, makes mistakes, the supposedly protected employe suffers the consequences by losing 40 per cent of his rightful claim. DISGUSTED.

INTOLERANCE IN AMERICA.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—A while back I read of a loyal Japanese-American soldier being denied service in a barber shop out west.

Next I read of a Japanese-American girl who had relatives in the United States army, and who had donated her blood to the Red Cross, being denied a room in a south side hospital.

Now I read in Marcia Winn's column of a Japanese-American author whose loyalty to America is beyond question, but whose literary efforts find no market because of his ancestry. I hate the Japs as much as anybody for their cruel and brutal treatment of our boys in the Pacific, but find no more reason to criticize or condemn these loyal Japanese-Americans than I do the German-Americans with whom I work.

One of the aims of the present war is supposed to be to bring about a better understanding between the peoples of this earth, but here in our own country we find intolerance at its worst.

CHURCHILL ON COMMUNISM.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—I am one who enjoys very much your superbly ironic editorials treating with the realities of world politics and I would like to offer a quotation from Winston Churchill which should furnish adequate inspiration for comment at the present time. You can verify this quotation from the collection of speeches titled "Blood, Sweat, and Tears." [Page 215]:

"Only Finland—superb, nay, sublime in the jaws of peril—Finland shows what free men can do. The service rendered by Finland to mankind is magnificent. They have exposed, for all the world to see, the military incapacity of the Red army and of the Red air force. Many illusions about soviet Russia have been dispelled, in these few fierce weeks of fighting in the arctic circle. Every one can see how communism rots the soul of a nation: how it makes it abject and hungry in peace, and proves it base and abominable in war. We cannot tell what the fate of Finland may be, but no more mournful spectacle could be presented to what is left of civilized mankind than that this splendid northern race should be at last worn down and reduced to servitude worse than death by the dull brutish force of overwhelming numbers. If the light of freedom which still burns so brightly in the frozen north should be finally quenched, it might well herald a return to the Dark Ages, when every vestige of human progress during 2,000 years would be engulfed."

Since Churchill's recent action in Greece he feels quite holy over the claim that it is Trotskyite communism he scorns, but it is quite obvious he was not thinking of Trotskyism in his speech of Jan. 20, 1940.

ILLINOIS LEGAL HOLIDAYS.

We have several letters questioning our answer that Good Friday is not a legal holiday. Evidently we should have elaborated.

What we meant was that in the practical sense affecting the lay public, it is not a holiday whose observance is controlled by law.

It is true that Illinois Revised Statutes, chapter 98, section 18, has for many years said certain days "are declared to be legal holidays . . . and shall . . . as regards the presenting for payment [etc.] . . . of . . . commercial paper . . . be treated . . . as is the first day of the week." It has been held that provisions of this section have no application to time for filing records or pleadings in court. Cornell vs. North Town Motor Co., 297 App. 247.

It has also been held that this section did not make such days legal holidays for the performance of judicial functions. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. vs. Shattas, 298 App. 336.

We see no important distinction between this old section and the separate Good Friday statute adopted in 1941. Illinois Revised Statutes, chapter 132, section 211, includes Good Friday in a list of school holidays.

Perhaps our answer to the question whether Good Friday is a legal holiday should have been "yes," in the sense that there is a statute affixing that tag. No, as to most of the contexts in which our readers would apply the answer. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

OFFICER BURIES 'VANISHED' WIFE, TRIES SUICIDE

Breaks Under Questions, Leads Police to Body.

Columbia, S. C., Feb. 14 [Special].—A young army lieutenant who had helped authorities conduct a two week search for his missing wife late today led them to the shallow "fox-hole" grave at a lonely spot where he admitted he buried her before reporting her disappearance.

Mrs. Mary Lee Epes.

The officer is Lt. S. C. Epes, 27, a former civil engineer and the son of a Richmond, Va., industrialist. He is being held under guard in the military hospital of his post at near-by Fort Jackson where he is recovering from an attempt to commit suicide by slashing his wrists and throat with a razor blade last Monday.

Riding in a hospital ambulance, he led officers to the place near the military reservation where they unearthed the body of his wife, Mrs. Mary Lee Epes, 26, an attractive, auburn haired school teacher who had come here three weeks ago to be with her husband.

Mystery Still Covers Case.

The manner of her death or whether she had been slain was not disclosed. Sheriff T. Alex Heise said the lieutenant had made a statement, but that it would not be opened until an inquest is convened later this week.

Heise said Mrs. Epes may have been "drugged before her death," while officials of the identification bureau of the state highway department said she apparently was killed by a blow on the head.

Mrs. Epes came here late last month from Jacksonville, Fla., where she had been teaching school. The couple, who have been married four years, took an apartment in a Columbia residential district and were together several days before the tragedy.

Lt. Epes reported her disappearance the night of Jan. 29. He told city police he had driven her downtown that morning, a Monday, that she left him at 7:45 a. m. to get her breakfast in a restaurant and with the intention of spending the day shopping; and that he drove on to the reservation to report for duty. When he returned to their apartment that night, he said, he discovered she had not been there.

Breaks Under Questioning.

During the ensuing search, in which military and civilian authorities participated, Lt. Epes aided officers and gave evidence of great distress. While engaged in the hunt, which produced no clews to his wife's absence, the lieutenant was bitten by a rabid dog.

It was for this bite that he went to the military hospital last Monday for treatment and observation. After his suicide attempt, which necessitated blood transfusions to save his life, the officer was subjected to close questioning by both Sheriff Heise and military police.

The sheriff said Lt. Epes broke under questioning this afternoon and wearily announced: "All right, I'll take you to the grave where I buried her."

Sheriff Heise said Epes had removed his wife's body from their apartment about midnight Sunday night, 24 hours before he reported her missing.

DETECTIVE SHOT AS HE HAPPENS UPON HOLDUP

Detective Joseph Talbot of Pekin Inn station was shot in the left arm last night by one of two Negro bandits whom he interrupted in a holdup of a drug store at 132 E. 26th st. A thick packet of papers in his coat pocket stopped a second bullet, which otherwise might have pierced his body.

Talbot, who is 35 and lives at 7114 Sangamon st., stopped at the drug store for cigarets, while his partners, Michael McMann and Thomas Rodden, waited near-by. The two Negroes were at the far end of the store, apparently talking to the owner, Ben Rosen. Six Negro customers also were in the store.

Rosen recognizing Talbot, yelled, "They're sticking me up!" Talbot reached for his gun. The Negroes opened fire. Then they fled, with $58 they had taken from Rosen.

MOTHER OF TWO CHARGED WITH THEIR MURDER

Henderson, Ky., Feb. 14 [Special].—A charge of willful murder was filed today against Mrs. Mary Wallis, 32, of Mount Vernon, Ind., who confessed she pushed her two children to their death in the Ohio river Monday as they waited for a ferry.

Mrs. Mary Wallis.

"I didn't mean to hurt them," she sobbed. "I don't know why I did it. It was just that I was having a lot of family trouble. Another woman was breaking up my home and trying to take my husband. I felt sorry for them as they bobbed up twice and then sank. They couldn't swim." She said she leaped in the water, too, but was unable to save them.

The victims were Arthur Lee, 6, and Marjorie Louise, 4, only children of Mrs. Wallis and her husband, Arthur, who works in the Norris City, Ill., oil fields. The couple, married 12 years, lived in Mount Vernon, Ind.

Mrs. Wallis first reported the children were pushed into the river by the family dog, a collie, as the children were petting it.

REPORT TRUE BILL VOTED ON $1,859 FRAUD

Col. Charles J. Kraft, 55, head of the Kraft Appraisal and Engineering company, 10 S. La Salle st., was reported named in a true bill returned by the grand jury yesterday on a charge of embezzlement.

He is reported charged specifically with accepting $1,859.57 from Mrs. Grace Maynard of Glencoe to be used in paying taxes on property owned by Mrs. Maynard, which have not been paid. James A. Brown, assistant state's attorney, said his office has received complaints against Kraft from seven other persons, which also will be submitted to the grand jury.

Kraft, former commander of the 202d coast artillery, Illinois national guard, was acquitted in 1931 after a trial on a federal indictment accusing him of pay roll padding and other irregularities while commander of the unit.

BOY BANDITS' CHIEF IS FOUND GUILTY ON DELINQUENCY CHARGE

William H. Babcock, 21, of 955 N. Ashland av., leader of a gang of boy Judo bandits, was found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of minors yesterday by Judge George B. Weiss in Domestic Relations court.

William H. Babcock.

The judge set Feb. 28 as the date for hearing an application for probation. Dr. David Rotman, Municipal court psychiatrist, had recommended that Babcock be placed under supervision, preferably at the Dixon State hospital. When Babcock's parents refused to sign commitment papers, Judge Weiss fixed his bond at $2,500.

A disorderly conduct charge against Babcock was dismissed when no complainants appeared to prosecute.

U. S. O. CENTERS GIVE VALENTINE TREATS TO G.I.S

The eight north shore centers of the United Service organizations had parties in the Valentine's day motif last night, while at the U. S. O. at 203 N. Wabash av., it was "Mom's Cooking Night" and visitors collected valentine treats for themselves. At that center, a silhouette cutter also provided service men with their profiles to send home, while at the U. S. O. at 131 S. Wabash av. voice recordings continued, as they have been all week, to be made as valentine remembrances.

In the craft shop at 131 S. Wabash av. talented service men fashioned plastic hearts for the day, but at the center at 1122 Wabash av. the hearts were made of cake. There were big parties at Chicago Service Men's centers 1 and 2, 176 Washington st. and 430 S. Michigan av., with such valuable prizes as long distance phone calls to best girls.

There was a dance and musical show in Gardiner General hospital. There was no party in Vaughan General hospital, near Maywood, but 500 valentines received by W-G-N were distributed.

INFANTS UNDER 3 MONTHS GIVEN 'WHOOP' VACCINE

Early immunization against whooping cough is said to prove practicable in infants at the age of 3 months and under, it was reported yesterday in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical association.

Contrary to popular belief, babies at that age can be vaccinated to develop antibodies which help fight the disease, four medical investigators said. Their studies covered 3,793 such infants over a 27 month period. The physicians related they were able to induce successful antibody response in 75 per cent of the babies with an alum precipitated vaccine.

Their findings, the physicians said, are important in the fight against whooping cough, which caused 10,730 deaths in the United States from 1938 thru 1940. In those years, 67 per cent of the victims who died of the disease were under one and 47 per cent of the latter group were less than 7 months old. The same publication also reports that recent experiments have produced evidence that penicillin will shorten the acute symptoms of "strep" sore throat and tonsillitis.

U. S. DOCTOR GETS ANTI-TOXIN FOR JAP PRISON CAMP

SANTO TOMAS, MANILA, Feb. 14 (AP).—When a dyphtheria epidemic threatened to sweep thru prisoners in the Cabanatuan camp the Japanese said there was no anti-toxin on Luzon Island.

But Maj. W. H. Waterous, Northampton, Mass., talked the Japanese into letting him go to Manila to find some.

The doctor, who formerly practiced in Manila, located a fairly large supply. The Japanese sent the anti-toxin back to Cabanatuan—"and the prisoners actually got it"—but they kept Dr. Waterous in the Manila prison camps where he worked in internee hospitals.

FIRE AND BLASTS DESTROY PLANT; DAMAGE $100,000

A series of explosions which hurled flaming drums of naphtha high into the air and set off 50 barrels of guncotton followed a fire which yesterday razed the two story plant of the Sager Chemical Products company, 20th av. and Puscheck rd., Broadview.

Edward Sager, Lemont, owner, who estimated the loss at $100,000, said the blaze started shortly after noon when the contents of a broken bottle of lacquer were ignited by a gas heater. Two employees, Mrs. Jennie Woldman, 3429 S. 61st ct., Cicero, Mrs. Elsie Mautone, 3433 S. 61st ct., with Arnold Larsen, foreman of 4818 N. Spaulding av., escaped uninjured.

The Maywood fire department was unable to turn its hoses on the blaze because Chief E. D. Humphreville said there was no water in the hydrants across the street in the suburb of Westchester. Only a fortunate change in the wind, Humphreville said, prevented flames from reaching an outside tank containing 20,000 gallons of naphtha.

HELD WITH PAL, ADMITS THEFT OF 200 AUTOS

Jack Madaus, 19, of 7454 Paxton av., son of the late Policeman Elmer Madaus of Irving Park station, and James Williamson, 15, of 7452 Paxton av., were arrested by Shakespeare av. police at Kimball and Milwaukee avs. yesterday in what police said was a stolen automobile.

Jack Madaus.

Capt. John T. O'Malley said Madaus boasted to him that he had stolen 200 automobiles since 1939 and that he could steal any type or make of car.

Madaus was discharged from the army six months ago. His wife, Georgia Lee, and 14 month old son, Mickey, live in California, he said.

PIANIST FINED $100 ON CHARGE MADE BY GIRL

John Hynda, 31, of 6930 South Shore dr., piano player in a cocktail lounge, was fined $100 and costs by Judge George B. Weiss in Domestic Relations court yesterday on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Dolores Maurer, 16, of 7113 Euclid av., complained that he molested her as she was walking to Aquinas High school. Hynda denied her charge.

Valentines Broadcast by 1st Division Marines.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Fighters of the 1st marine division sent talking valentines to mothers, wives and girl friends in Chicago yesterday by way of W-G-N. Corp. Alvin G. Flanagan, combat correspondent and a former Mutual announcer, in introducing the men said that they were speaking from a point 7,000 miles from the California coast.

The marines pledged their love in many ways. Some were straightforward. Others fashioned triolets and limericks of limping meter.

Sends Greetings and Love.

Pvt. William T. Sheehan, 20, sent greetings to his mother, Mrs. James Sheehan, 7140 S. Hermitage av., told her he liked the service better than he expected, and sent his love to Miss Eileen Harrison, 19, of 3331 Warren blvd.

Pvt. Robert W. Hascek, 3029 Maple av., Berwyn, told his wife, "You are always in my heart," and recalled that their daughter had her second birthday yesterday, Valentine's day.

Pvt. Stanley Bryant of West Frankfort, Ill., called for more letters from Miss Verla Tripp, 4438 Malden st.

Says Hello to Frieda.

Pvt. Anthony J. DeMuccie, 900 Loomis st., sent his valentine to Miss Vivian Doucet, 5808 Lake st. Pvt. Robert W. Dohner, 22, of 846 Barry av., sent his love to his mother, Mrs. Frances Dohner, and had a hello for Frieda. He didn't give Frieda's last name, but suggested "Be good."

Pvt. Lee R. Anderson, 22, of 10700 Wabash av., after sending his love to his mother, expressed the hope that his father's bowling would improve, and wished his sister, Anita May, 19, who has just become engaged, happiness.

Pvt. Eric Gustafsen, 4011 N. Kostner av., framed his valentine for Miss Nora Johnson, 540 Wellington av., who works in a war plant.

Other Messages Sent.

Pvt. George Chanak, 9955 Avenue M, sent his love to his mother, Mrs. Mary Chanak, and his girl friend, Jeannette Warren, of Los Angeles, Cal.

Pvt. John Georgeades directed his greetings to his mother, Mrs. Bessie Georgeades, 225 Englewood av. And Pvt. William Swain, 19, sent love to his mother, Mrs. Ann Swain, and sister Roseanne, 16, at 1346 W. 77th st. They reported they were too excited to get all of what he said.

W-G-N will send recordings to them and the others to whom greetings were sent.

GETS PROBATION ON GUILTY PLEA IN $3,300 THEFT

Mrs. Marjorie Smith, 22, of 1734 Sedgwick st., was placed on a year's probation yesterday when she pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny before Judge Charles S. Dougherty in Felony court. Mrs. Smith admitted taking $3,300 from the North av.-Sedgwick Currency Exchange, 407 W. North av., where she was employed, so she could have a nicely furnished home. Judge Dougherty, who ordered her to make restitution, dismissed charges of being an accessory after the fact against her husband, Larry, 23, a truck driver. Mrs. Smith's attorney, Harry Busch, told the court that his client already had repaid $1,200 of the money.

SLAYER OF NIECE CALM AS STATE ASKS 199 YEARS

Dixon, Ill., Feb. 14 (AP).—Norman Burton, 15, who pleaded guilty of murdering his niece, Sara Tyne, 5, showed little interest in the courtroom proceedings today as State's Atty. M. C. Pires demanded he be sentenced to 199 years in prison.

Defense counsel, in final arguments before Circuit Judge George C. Dixon, asked that the judge show "charity, mercy, and good judgment." Judge Dixon, who has heard witnesses in the case during a two day hearing, said he would pronounce sentence at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Burton is accused of hammering and slashing the girl to death Dec. 20 at the Tyne home near Ohio, Ill., while her parents were at work in a war plant.

BUS FIRE ROUTS PASSENGERS.

Passengers of a Chicago Motor Coach company bus were forced into the street at Michigan av. and Randolph st. yesterday when fire started in the rear of the coach. Firemen said it was caused by a short circuit.

SIX WHO MANAGE HOMES FINED ON FIRE CODE COUNT

Six operators of convalescent or old people's homes were each fined $50 and costs by Judge Erwin J. Hasten in License court yesterday for violations of the fire prevention code. Their motions to vacate the fines were continued to March 21.

The defendants were: Miss Elizabeth Evans, 3932 Lake Park av.; Roy Fuller, 4507 Wabash av.; Mrs. Anna Durnel McKay, 3952 Ellis av.; Mrs. Anna Miller, 4049 Lake Park av.; Robert H. Turner, 4241 Drexel blvd., and Miss Pansy Wilson, 4133 Drexel blvd.

Alexander Baim, owner of the Madison Athletic club, 4711-23 Madison st.; Lewis J. Isaacs, agent for the building at 1111 Roosevelt rd., and Aloysius Hohmann, owner of the Melody club, 1611-13 N. Western av., were fined $100 and costs each and their motions to vacate the fines were continued. Judge Hasten continued 30 other cases and discharged eight.

Reds' Deputy Air Chief and Four Others Killed

MOSCOW, Feb. 14 (AP).—The Soviet commissariat for the aviation industry announced today the death on duty of Major Generals Vasily Dubov and Piotr Feodorov, Colonels Alexander Komarov and Dmitri Timofeiev, and the assistant department chief of the commissariat, Yakov Girich. It was assumed the five were killed in an airplane crash.

PUPILS DOUBLE PAPER SALVAGE; YANKS CREDITED

Pupils of Chicago elementary schools collected during the last week 1,275,632 pounds of waste paper, a total representing an increase of 600,000 pounds over the previous seven day period, Don C. Rogers, assistant superintendent heading elementary schools, said yesterday. He attributed the sharp rise in collections to pep talks made last week in all grade schools by teams of speakers from the paper salvage committee of the war production board. Veterans returned from fighting fronts accompanied the teams and explained to children the various roles which waste paper plays in winning the war.

MRS. SKIDMORE SUES IN 3D BID TO GET $25,000

Mrs. Ethel Skidmore filed suit in Circuit court yesterday against Joseph M. Johnson of 4224 Hazel st. in a third attempt to recover $25,000 put up in 1939 as bond for her late husband, William R. Skidmore, Chicago gambling boss, who died Feb. 18, 1944, in the federal penitentiary at Terre Haute, Ind., where he was serving a term for income tax evasion. Mrs. Skidmore charged in the petition that Johnson used the $25,000 given by Skidmore to buy securities to post for his bond and that the federal court returned the securities to Johnson in May, 1942.

TRAILED.

"Gallagher didn't need to follow me, sergeant," Maclain said. "Larry heard me tell him last night that it might be a good thing if we worked together. All he needed to do was ring the bell. I'd have been glad to let him in."

Davis said, "Maybe that's what he was trying to do. Get in touch with you, I mean. Of all the rotten cold-blooded—"

"If you're trying to get to the bottom of this second killing, Larry, getting yourself all het up about it isn't the best way to begin."

"We're not trying to get to the bottom of anything," Davis said. "Archer and I like to ride up and down in elevators full of bodies."

"I object to your terming this a cold-blooded killing," said Maclain.

Archer asked, "What do you call disembowelment?"

"I think it was self-defense," said Duncan Maclain.

Davis squinted at the captain. "I'm a little sick of being pushed around, Maclain. This Jordan affair was open and shut until you stepped in. I've already admitted the case has angles we didn't see at first. But Gallagher's killing isn't one of them. Somebody was out to get him, followed him up there, and did him in."

"I think you have it backwards," said Maclain. "The late Mr. Gallagher was a dangerous man. We returned his gun to him last night. It's just an opinion, of course, but I think Gallagher followed his own killer here with murder in his heart."

"What was the killer doing here?" asked Davis.

"Following me," said Duncan Maclain.

"And how did he get in? Nobody came up in the elevator to the 24th floor."

"Would you?" the captain inquired mildly. "There are stairs, you know, and a servants' entrance in an alley in the back of the building. I think that's how they both got in. Was Gallagher's gun in his pocket?"

"No. It was under him, on the floor."

"Do you like my self-defense idea any better, Larry?"

"No. I don't like it at all, but go ahead, and I'll listen."

"We'll go back to last night. Gallagher said he was going to handle this thing in his own way. Somehow or other, he made up his mind that he'd discovered the person who killed Troy. Whoever he was trailing was waiting for him on the 24th floor, probably standing in back of the door to the exit stairs."

"Are you dreaming this up?" Davis demanded.

The captain shook his head. "I'm trying to reconstruct a picture from very faint noises I heard in the penthouse hall."

"Well, go on and reconstruct," said Davis.

"Gallagher followed his man upstairs, opened the exit door cautiously, and gun in hand, stepped out into the hall. The man in back of the exit door got him from behind, pinned his arms to his sides before he could shoot, and knifed him at the same time. The rush probably carried them close to the lift. The killer pushed the button, opened the door and shoved Mr. Gallagher in. By the time the lift door closed again, he was three or four flights down the stairs."

"And what brought the lift up to your floor?" Mr. Davis.

"Gallagher," said Maclain. "He wasn't quite gone. To my mind that's about all. I telephoned the desk clerk to have some one watch the stairs as soon as I got in here—before I called you—but the man had gone."

The inspector kept his eyes fixed on some books and asked Maclain, "Why was this killer trailing you?"

The captain countered with, "Why were you?"

"Over a long period of years I've discovered you're a nuisance," said Davis.

"This man's discovered the same thing in a few days. I worry people, Larry. It gets on their nerves trying to predict what a blind man will do. Gallagher was predictable. So are you."

"Okay," said Davis, "tell me what I'm going to do."

"You're going to catch this murderer eventually."

"What do you mean eventually?" Archer put in.

"By the time he's killed somebody else," said Duncan Maclain.

"You have a certain amount of fixed routine to go thru."

"Huh!" said Davis. "And what are you going to do?"

"I'm going to catch him or kill him before he kills anybody else," said Maclain.

The inspector turned around, his gray eyes troubled. "I hope it's not you."

"I'm going to Sarah Hanley's at the St. Regis for a cocktail, Larry. If you and Archer want to meet me at 8 o'clock tonight at Brownie Mitchell's gun shop, you can watch an experiment."

"We're sick of experiments," said Davis. "We've more important things to do."

He nodded to Archer and they moved out in a disapproving parade of two.

The captain waited a few minutes before he called Schnucke. He walked down to the 24th floor and caught a house elevator the rest of the way.

Under the canopy he spoke to Mike, the doorman. "Get me a taxi, will you, Mike, and keep your eyes open. I have an idea another cab may follow me."

"If he does, captain, I'll know."

It was still drizzling.

He stayed alert and on edge during the ride to the St. Regis, but nothing seemed to be following.

Lucia and Paul were in Sarah Hanley's suite and greeted him with brief expressions of sympathy about Sybella. Settled with a cocktail in his hand, the captain asked idly, "Have you been waiting long?"

Paul said, "I just got here a few minutes ago."

"Martin Gallagher's dead," said Duncan Maclain.

He listened to Lucia's quick gasp of astonishment and Paul Hirst's disbelieving "No!" then told them briefly what had happened.

Lucia asked in a strained voice, "Do you think any of the rest of us are in danger?"

The captain said, "The police already have a guard on Sybella. If she ever recovers consciousness—"

Lucia said, "She will."

"If she does, she may be able to tell us lots of things we'd like to know." He turned to Sarah Hanley. "You can tell me a few right now, if you will."

"What?" the agent seemed slightly flustered.

"I'd like to know what agents do with their clients' money," said Duncan Maclain.

"We deposit it in a special account, Captain Maclain."

"And you get a commission on everything a client of yours sells whether or not it's sold by you?"

"Yes," said Sarah Hanley, "that's true."

"Ten per cent, isn't it?"

"Yes."

"If the client sells something himself, he's supposed to remit the commission to you?"

"Yes."

LINK WILLIAMS TO HIGH JINKS IN SWIMMIN' HOLE

Senators Hear of Doings at FERA College.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—Co-eds and men of the campus swam together in the old swimming hole [and in nothing much else at all] according to a report on the days of lush romance at Commonwealth college, excerpts from which were submitted today to the senate agriculture committee.

Commonwealth college, at Mena, Ark., since closed, was under discussion in the committee's hearing on the confirmation of Aubrey Williams for rural electrification administration chief. Members of the committee assert the college was a communist institution, and that Williams gave it tax payers' money while assistant administrator of the federal emergency administration under Harry Hopkins.

The story of romance on the campus came from farmers and officials of the neighborhood who admittedly were unfriendly to the college because students and faculty members came from other states, among them Illinois.

Testimony Is Spicy.

Below is some of the testimony taken in 1935 by an Arkansas state investigating committee:

Q.—Have you seen any improper activities? A.—I saw hugging, squeezing, kissing, and other things by students.

Q.—Did you see anything else unusual? A.—They were in the swimming hole naked.

Q.—Were they boys or girls. A.—Boys and girls.

Q.—What do you know about their general dress? A.—Their shorts are very short and just a small apron or bib protects their breasts, very small and very thin.

Testimony of another witness was:

Q.—Have you ever seen men and women at Commonwealth bathing together without clothes? A.—Sure.

Q.—How many? A.—Creek full of them.

Saw Them in Woods, Too.

Q.—Did you see anything else improper in the swimming hole? A.—No, in the woods.

Q.—Naked? A.—Just the same as naked.

Q.—What were they doing? A.—You can guess the balance of it.

[But the witness didn't leave the committee to guess. He told.]

He told also of a college play in which a Russian girl got a divorce by saying "he don't suit me."

Then a girl and boy came in to be married in the stage show, according to the report of testimony, a marriage ceremony at the college went this way:

"We want to get married."

"Do you think this man will suit you?"

Willis Stops in Time.

"Yes. We have been living together for a month and we have tried each other out and we think we suit each other."

Senators didn't get red faces because Sen. Willis [R., Ind.], who produced their copy of the report, stopped just in time. And he didn't make the rest of the text available.

Willis concentrated on the supposed communistic views of faculty members. He quoted a man he identified as director of the college in 1934 as telling investigators, when asked if he believed in the American flag:

"I refuse to answer without advice of counsel."

Willis said Williams was in a position to know the communistic nature of the college.

COUNTY TO ASK ICKES TAX SALE IN COURT TODAY

Jacob Shamberg and Gordon Nash, assistant state's attorneys, will appear before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki this morning with a petition asking the court to order the sale of a building owned by Secretary of the Interior Ickes at 231-33 S. State st., for delinquent 1943 taxes.

The petition will ask the court to ignore a reduction of $4,274 granted Ickes by the county board of tax appeals. County Assessor Clark has charged that Ickes obtained the reduction by filing with the board a statement that misrepresented the income from the property and described the five story structure as a three story building.

The petition, drawn on instructions from State's Atty. Tuohy, will allege that County Treasurer Schlaeger has refused to sell the property because of a notation on a warrant for the sale, issued Nov. 13, 1944, of a purported certificate of revision by the board of appeals. The petition also will contend that the board had no authority to set aside the original order of sale.

NEW SPITFIRE 14 FLIES 450 M. P. H., R.A.F. ANNOUNCES

LONDON, Feb. 14 (AP).—Britain's newest fighter plane, the Spitfire 14, has a speed of about 450 miles an hour and a tactical radius of about 300 miles, the royal air force announced tonight.

The plane was described as the fastest orthodox aircraft in the world. It has an elongated nose and rounded wing and tail tips—typical Spitfire design.

Powered by a 2,200 horse power Rolls Royce Griffon engine which drives a five bladed propeller, the plane climbs swiftly and its performance at altitudes above 45,000 feet is unrivaled, the announcement said.

Wed in Waukegan

Jacqueline Helen Roby, 17, of 811 10th st., Waukegan, who was named "Miss Waukegan" in a theater contest last year, was married yesterday to Nolin Dell Dunn, 18, of 615 North av., Waukegan, in the Waukegan Immanuel Lutheran church by the pastor, the Rev. A. C. Bartz.

Dunn was a witness before the Lake county grand jury which indicted Lawrence Eaton, 17, of 216 Franklin st., on charges of assault with intent to commit murder and assault with a deadly weapon, in connection with the shooting of Miss Rita Gibbons, 18, of 912 S. Utica st., Waukegan, early this year.

Eaton also is accused of threatening Dunn and his sister, Rosemarie, 14, with the same weapon with which Miss Gibbons was wounded.

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 14 (AP).—A federal grand jury today indicted six men on charges of white slave traffic in connection with a large scale vice cleanup campaign by the federal bureau of investigation.

Those indicted on charges of transporting women across state lines for immoral purposes were Eli Cupi, 25, tavern owner; Henry C. Hibbs, 49, bartender; Winfield Scott Thomas, 24; James Lewis, 28; Harold L. Hannon, 26, and Nile Samuel Cook, all Peorians.

Two women seized during the vice investigation and held as material witnesses were indicted on perjury charges. They are Laura Jones, Negro maid, and Jacqueline Moon, Houston, Tex.

HEART ATTACK KILLS BRAKEMAN.

James Donovan, 54, of 815 E. 46th st., for 30 years a brakeman for the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad, died on the way to County hospital yesterday after he suffered a heart attack on a street car at 38th st. and Cottage Grove av.

SCATTER METAL ON RAILS; THREE CULPRITS HELD

Three teen aged boys, whose names were not given, are being held by Kankakee county authorities because they scattered pieces of metal across the Illinois Central railroad tracks north of Kankakee Sunday.

An engineer of the New York Central line, which uses the Illinois Central tracks in the Kankakee area, saw the metallic objects and stopped his train. Later he flagged a freight train.

Members of the crews of the two trains picked up the steel and iron pieces along a quarter mile of right of way. Later Sheriff Cecil Duguay rounded up the boys. No charges have been preferred against them.

BANDITS TAKE $50 IN BAKERY.

Mrs. Mary Pauly was held up yesterday in her bakery at 506 W. 59th st. by two young bandits, one armed with a revolver, and robbed of $50.

HOUSE DEBATE ON GEORGE BILL SET FOR TODAY

BY LAURENCE BURD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—The house rules committee cleared the way today for floor consideration of the senate approved George bill which would strip Henry Wallace of the vast federal lending agencies if he is confirmed for secretary of commerce. The bill is scheduled for house debate tomorrow.

The committee granted an "open" rule which would permit further restrictions on the commerce job thru floor amendments relevant to the George measure.

Proposals by Republican members of the rules group to return the bill to the banking committee for further study, or to permit special floor amendments were defeated, however, by the Democratic majority.

Faced with "Red" Movement.

Rules Committee Chairman Sabath [D., Ill.] told reporters today's action will give the house a chance to vote on a Republican sponsored amendment excluding the commerce secretary from membership on the board of the export-import bank.

This bank restriction is authored by Rep. Wolcott [R., Mich.], who warned at today's hearing against giving Wallace power to influence lending policies of the bank during the post-war period. Wolcott charged that congress is faced with a "leftist" movement of which "Henry Wallace is the symbol."

The congressman said the administration is planning to seek an increase in the bank's capital to 3 billion dollars, compared with 700 millions at present, to make way for more loans abroad.

"It is time for congress to reassert itself and take an interest in the bank's organization."

Run by 11 Man Board.

The bank, Wolcott explained, is administered, under Presidential order, by an 11 man board chosen by Foreign Economic Administrator Crowley and including the secretary of commerce. He proposed the George bill be amended to have the bank run by an independent five man board, appointed by the President with senate concurrence. This proposal is expected to be ruled out as irrelevant to the bill, but an alternate amendment ruling the commerce secretary off the bank board would be permissible, Sabath said.

Rep. Halleck [R., Ind.], rules committee member, said he will renew on the floor his proposal to send the George bill back to committee for further study. Halleck said the measure was approved hastily by the banking group without hearings and after only one and one-half hours' consideration in a desperate administration attempt to assure senate confirmation of Wallace by restricting his power.

Given Her Children

Mrs. Ethel Packer, 26, of 1500 E. 61st st. yesterday was given custody of her two children by a former marriage. Herbert Timmler Jr., 7, and Frederick, 5, whose father is an army private in Germany. Mrs. Packer, whose present husband, Glen, is a structural engineer, obtained a divorce in October, 1941, from Timmler, but by agreement he was given custody of the children. Mrs. Packer said she learned her children were placed in a foster home after her former husband entered the army. Her case was heard by Judge John A. Sbarbaro.

Stolen Cigarets' Receiver Gets Suspended Sentence

Suspended sentence of one year was fixed by Federal Judge Walter J. La Buy yesterday on James Monaco, 35, of 510 W. 25th pl., charged with receiving goods stolen from an interstate shipment. Assistant United States Atty. Jack A. Welfeld said that Monaco bought a case of 60 cartons of cigarets from two thieves who had stolen them from a truck loading dock. The thieves were turned over to juvenile authorities.

11 CARTONS OF SHOES STOLEN.

Theft of 11 cartons of shoes, two cartons of men's bathrobes, and a carton of paper cups from the Plaza Express Company, Inc., 1000 W. 21st st., was reported to police Tuesday.

STUDENTS AGREE TO SUPERVISION OF PUBLICATIONS

Williamsburg, Va., Feb. 14 (AP).—The student body of the College of William and Mary tonight announced it would accept the policy of quasi-editorial supervision of college publications as announced this morning by Dr. John E. Pomfret, president, and would resume publication of the Flat Hat under those conditions with its next regular issue.

No intimation was given as to who would be named as successor to Miss Marilyn Kaemmerle, 22, of Jackson Mich., whose editorial on race relations started the controversy which led to her being ousted and the students protesting faculty censorship.

Earlier in the day students of the college had voted to suspend publication of the college weekly after Dr. Pomfret announced there would be faculty supervision of the paper and termination of the services of the editor who wrote that the time would come when Negroes should attend the college and "marry among us."

OPA AID CALLS SWISS WATCH MARKUP ABSURD

Imported Swiss watches sold around the wholesale trade seven times get tagged with fantastic prices before the public gets a chance to buy them, Virgil B. Zimmerman, office of price administration price expert and former jeweler, said in Chicago yesterday.

Chicago OPA officials have 17 cases on file against watch firms. Zimmerman came here to consult with OPA attorneys and members of the trade. He told them that about seven million Swiss watches are being imported yearly, double the pre-war number, while American firms are making timing instruments or limited numbers of watches for the army and navy.

He said a new OPA pricing system will give legitimate wholesalers a 30 per cent markup, instead of prices based on comparative values.

Thru the Looking Glass

For a long time we've been partial to a group of preparations which bear the scent of mountain heather, a translation so delicate and fresh that it gives each item an irrestible charm. Now there's a newcomer to the group, a cake makeup of outstanding quality. We'd be tempted to like it for its fragrance alone, since the makeup is imbued with it in just the right proportion to make it noticeable without being obvious.

However, this new cosmetic has more than that to recommend it. It's a smooth, velvety-textured preparation that imparts a pretty finish to the complexion. Minor flaws are nicely concealed by it, and the overall effect is to give the skin a soft, glowing freshness. There's a special ingredient in the makeup base which makes it moisture retaining and prevents that parched, drawn feeling from overcoming the wearer after it has been on the face for an hour or so.

This is to be applied as other cake-type makeup bases, with a bit of moistened cotton or sponge. Rub the cotton lightly over the cake and apply it in even strokes over the entire surface of the face and neck.

We'd caution users of this or any similar cake makeup to be thoro about spreading the cosmetic over all visible surface. A line of demarcation between the applied color and the natural tint of the skin at the forehead, near the ears, or under the chin is an unlovely sight. There's no answer in giving away the secret of your pretty complexion when you can easily do the job right and make the camouflage undetectable.

The case that holds the makeup is one you'll be proud to carry in your purse. It's of pretty pink plastic, flat and slim, with a raised design of heather bells.

There are five lovely shades to choose from, ranging from a pale pink to a deep, rosy brunette, a selection that is wide enough to match closely almost any complexion tint.

A Short Coat's the Thing for Paris in Spring

BY ANNE BRUYERE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 14.—Spring coats with a new length, four inches above the knees, are being made by Worth, Hermes, and Nina Ricci. Materials used are sheer wools, fibrane, and cotton goods designed by Bianchini, Chantillon, Mouly, and Roussel.

One unbelted model, created by Worth, has square cape shoulders and wide plaited sleeves in Rousel's grass green woolen material, trimmed with figures of tiny, pearl gray dogs.

Chantillon's new blue fibrane covered with small white stars forms Nina Ricci's sports coat with raglan sleeves and foot-wide revers. Another model in Colcombet's red, white, and blue sheer wool, trimmed with the words "je t'aime Paris," has pockets in the cuffs of the roomy sleeves. A two inch wide red leather belt fastened at the waist makes the three plaits in the center back flare out.

Hermes has designed two coats in the new spring length. One, in Bianchini's banana beige cotton striped with blue, green, and pink lines, has a V neck line and is buttoned all the way down the front. Ducharne's tomato red material, decorated with woven dragons of the same color spurting out blue smoke, fashions a belted model with triple pockets on both sides of the bust and hips.

Fashion flashes: Military influence in spring styles appears in white pique lumber jackets worn with variegated culotte skirts. . . . Claude Saint-Cyr has fashioned a high toque in khaki colored straw with a wide slanting ribbon covered with four rows of major's oak leaves. . . . Parisians are wearing pure wool custom tailored suits and coats made of thousands of abandoned German overcoats and uniforms.

Children Often Copy Parents' Behaviorisms

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Whether you want to or not, you are setting an example in considerateness for your children which inevitably will influence them.

"I wouldn't stay with that family," said a fine maid who decided to change her position. "The children treat me like the dirt under their feet."

"She says the most dreadful things to her aunt," said a friend of a certain family. "She's a terrible child. And I've heard her mother scold her for it, too."

"He's simply insolent to his grandmother," observed a visitor to a certain household. "It was shocking to hear a great big boy like that speak so."

Inside information gave me reason not to think quite so badly of all those children.

In the first family, the grownups had a very objectionable attitude toward the maids. They didn't know how to treat them with courtesy and as human beings with feelings and rights.

In the second family, the mother was a woman of emotional outbursts. She and her husband quarreled before the child over the presence of the aunt in the household, and quarreled sometimes with the aunt herself.

In the third family an unwise and unbridled son-in-law responded to the presence of a difficult mother-in-law by retailing her faults "behind her back" but before the grandson, and treating her with discourtesy "to her face" in the boy's presence.

We can't expect children to show respect or to feel it, to have courteous friendly attitudes and manners, if we present the opposite as examples.

Lent's Opening Draws Million to City's Altars

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

At least a million persons gathered for Ash Wednesday devotions before their various altars yesterday thruout the city. The spiritual backdrop was the world's Lent—the present conflict raging on land and sea. Themes of the pulpits were quiet ones, bidding each worshiper to self-immolation and the mortification of the flesh that he might be worthy of Christ's sacrifice and of the sacrifices of his brethren.

This was made plain in sermons such as in Holy Name cathedral, where the Rev. Francis W. Curtin preached to an overflow congregation. "The spirit of Lent, in the life of the Christian, is mortification," he said. "Man must realize, now, more than ever, that he has a supernatural destiny to attain. This demands the raising of the natural activity within himself to a supernatural level."

The present day conflict was likened to the Lenten climax of the garden of Gethsemane by the Rev. Luther A. Schuessler, pastor of Our Redeemer Lutheran church, 6430 Harvard av., who declared the Christian in that garden today faces a cross of suffering before him. "He is asked to drink the bitter vial of separation from absent loved ones because of the world's sin and guilt," he said. "But since Jesus conquered, the Christian can triumph, for Jesus prayed and conquered for him."

The forgiveness implicit in that victory was the theme of the Rev. Adalbert R. Kretzmann as he spoke before the first of the Lutheran Wednesday noonday services in the Central Y. M. C. A. "How great is the contrast between the readiness of Christ to forgive and our own poor efforts in this war torn time," he said. "What would our reactions have been under the circumstances of the Crucifixion. Smarting under the pains and insults we would have screamed for vengeance upon our persecutors."

The Rev. Dr. Bernard Iddings Bell of Providence, R. I., outlined the conflict lying beneath war before the congregation of St. Paul's Episcopal church, Kenwood. He said for the Christian who "tries to live like Jesus, that is to say, like God, it means that he must face the opposition of a world which is convinced that man is only a more shrewd kind of animal."

"Between Christianity, with its teaching that man is to live for truth, beauty, and outgoing love, and the modern world, which thinks that man should live only for food, drink, recreation, sex, and being amused, there is an age-long fight on," said Canon Bell. "The tragedy is that so many who call themselves Christians are content to live only as more respectable animals."

An outstanding mark of Ash Wednesday is the imposition of ashes. This was performed in all Catholic and some Episcopal churches. At the Cathedral shelter, 201 S. Ashland av., the ceremony was performed at all three morning services by Canon David E. Gibson.

Boy Changes Toward Girl; She Worries

BY SHEILA DALY.

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Think it over twice before you put the finger on any boy for wanting to walk out on a moonlight and roses arrangement, especially if the boy is in service. He may think of a girl as his special ever-lovin' gal—while he can see her and be with her four nights a week—but when he gets into service and away from home he may realize what makes the world go round and then realize that he hasn't been around so much himself. Here's a typical letter from a gal who can't understand why her boy has changed:

"Seven months ago I met him. Rather, I should say I had my first date with him—I had known him for several years. I was walking on air because from the beginning we liked the same things and we liked each other. Then he left for service and while he was gone we really kept the postman busy. Everything was still wonderful, then he came home on furlough. The first night we had together was just perfect. The second night he spent with his parents. The third night we had a date and out of the clear sky he told me that now was the time for us to end our friendship 'before we became too serious.'

"The rest of his leave was strained, altho we still saw each other every night. He went back to camp and now the postman finds his way to my mail box once in a blue moon. I'm beginning to believe my boy means to write just once a month and let it go at that. I know that his brother, also in service, was secretly married for some time and I believe his parents are influencing him against me. They are selfish to try to break us up in this behind the back manner. When I like some one I don't want any one to tell me 'now's the time to stop.'

Forget about the boy's parents and concentrate on the fellow himself and his attitude. If he still liked you chances are 10 to 1 that he would still write to you often—whether his mother and dad wanted him to or not. Try to realize that he has gotten over you—and try to get over liking him.

THE MEAT SITUATION

What's ahead?

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb., 1945

The meat needs of the Government for war purposes continue up. They are expected to stay up, regardless of how the fighting goes. Fewer meat animals are coming to market. . . . The Army Quartermaster Corps and the Navy Bureau of Supplies will see that our forces get the meat they need. This means:

At least for the next 90 days civilians will get much less meat than at any time since the war began.

This Home-Mixed Cough Syrup Is Most Effective

Easily Mixed. Needs No Cooking.

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of plain syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. Or use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of wonderful medicine for coughs due to colds. It makes a real saving because it gives you about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and tastes fine.

This is actually a surprisingly effective, quick-acting cough relief. Promptly, you feel it taking hold. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and makes breathing easy. You've never seen anything better for prompt and pleasing results.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Easter Hats to Be Previewed at Fashion Group Style Show

BY JUDITH CASS.

SINCE Easter Sunday and April Fool's day coincide this year, the modern masculine jibe of "Where did you get that hat?" may not be so misplaced, for many husbands no doubt will be wondering whether their wives' Easter chapeaux were not selected with tongue-in-cheek motif. A preview of some of the millinery which will be blooming along Chicago's streets within the next few weeks will be seen next Thursday in the Drake hotel, where the Chicago branch of the Fashion Group will give its eighth annual party and style show, "Fashion Becomes You."

Some of the many who already have made reservations for the 12:30 p. m. luncheon and World War II. fashion show are Mrs. Richard D. Nugent, Mrs. Philip D. Armour Jr., Mrs. Alanson Donald, Mrs. Thomas J. Fleming, Mrs. Louis G. Buss, Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson, Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Adams III.; Mrs. Morris McCormick, Mrs. Edward Morris, Mrs. James C. Thompson, Mrs. Orville J. Taylor, Mrs. Leon Mandel, Mrs. Fred Herendeen, and Mrs. Elliott Donnelley.

This year the show will be a benefit to raise money for Gardiner General hospital. There will be a dress rehearsal and cocktail party from 6 to 8 p. m. Wednesday.

On the Calendar.

Because the name of Dr. Walter Gropius is so widely known among disciples of modern architecture, three organizations — the Institute of Design, the Chicago Association of Commerce, and the Chicago Plan commission—are inviting friends to a lecture on "Rebuilding Our Communities after the War" which he will give at 12:15 p. m., Feb. 23, in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer House.

Dr. Gropius, chairman of the department of architecure in the graduate School of Design at Harvard university, served as founder and director of the Bauhaus, director of the International Congress for Modern Architecture, and an advisor to the senate committee on national defense migration in 1941. He is regarded as one of the world's leading educators and exponents of modern architecture, a subject on which he has written a number of books. One of his designs was submitted in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S competition in 1922 for plans for a new building. Dr. Gropius will arrive in Chicago the morning of the 23d, and during his three day stay he will give one lecture for students at the Institute of Design.

To raise money to carry on its protective work with adolescent girls, the Church Mission of Help will hold a rummage sale next Wednesday at State st. and Chicago av. Mrs. H. Stuart Stone, chairman of the sale committee, is not here for the last few days of sorting and collecting the clothing and other items to be sold, as she is in New York with her husband, Comdr. Stone, who is awaiting new orders. Others helping with the sale are Mrs. George Overton, Mrs. Harry Judd, Mrs. John H. Bemis, and Mrs. Frank P. Hixon. The mission also assists unmarried mothers.

Engagement News.

Prof. and Mrs. Louie Winfield Webb of Evanston announce the engagement of their daughter, Frances, to Maj. Frederick John Leishman of the royal engineers, son of Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Leishman of Barnard Castle, County Durham, England. Miss Webb attended the Roycemore school and was graduated in 1942 from Northwestern university. She and her fiancé met in 1938 when they were students at the University of Grenoble in France. He also attended the Oundle school and the University of Vienna and was graduated from Corpus Christi college, Cambridge.

Miss Webb is doing work for the United States government in London, while her fiancé is stationed with the British army on the European continent. Prof. Webb is a member of the faculty at Northwestern university.

Wedding News.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence H. Dudley of Kenilworth are looking forward to meeting their son's bride as soon as Lt. Marshall Dudley of the army receives a leave from his post in Oklahoma. Lt. Dudley and the former Mary-Elizabeth Richardson Ellis, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John H. Richardson of New York, were married Monday in the First Presbyterian church of Alexandria, La. After the ceremony a reception was given by Mr. and Mrs. William Alexander and Mrs. John Akins in the Alexander home. Because of travel conditions, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley were unable to go south for the wedding. Lt. Dudley was graduated from Brown university in 1934.

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Stevens of Maywood of the marriage Jan. 16 in New York of their daughter, Lt.

Hudson River School's Art Draws Crowd

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

The fact that only 350 persons were waiting patiently for the doors to the Hudson River school art exhibit to open at 8 o'clock last night in the Art institute did not presage a large opening, in the opinion of institute staff members. However, within an hour a crowd approaching 10 per cent of the institute's approximately 15,000 members had filed into the galleries to view the 164 paintings, drawings, and water colors assembled by Frederick Sweet, associate curator of painting and sculpture, in the first large, comprehensive showing of this native American school of the early and middle 19th century.

Many of the eager spectators paused before a large painting of Niagara Falls by John Vanderlyn, 1775-1852, which hung in the first gallery. Some of them had honeymooned there, and one, Mrs. Alfred E. Hamill, had been born "practically on the brink of the falls," she said. Mr. and Mrs. Hamill were among the dinner guests of Chauncey McCormick, president of the institute, and Mrs. McCormick, before the opening. Mr. Hamill came in the double capacity of trustee of the institute and president of the Newberry library, which is showing an exhibit of illustrated books of "Romantic America" of the period 1820-1850 concurrently with the institute show.

While the feminine members of the McCormick dinner party came in formal clothes, only two gentlemen appeared in black tie, Everett Graff, a trustee, and Robert C. Vose of Boston, who was helpful in assembling the collection.

Mrs. Sweet was attired informally in a refreshing wheat colored dress, slightly paler than the mustard yellow walls of the first gallery. All the wall colors had been copied after old cloth in the institute's textile department to provide an authentic touch of parlor colors popular in "grandmother's day" and thus particularly suitable as backgrounds for the paintings.

Mrs. McCormick's cover-up dress of stiff satin had a bit of an old fashioned air to it also in its vertical stripes of lavender, crimson, and pastel green. Mrs. Walter Brewster's short dinner dress of black net and lace with its tiered skirt distracted attention momentarily from the Hudson river painters. Among others in the well filled galleries were Mrs. Louis Leverone and Mrs. Donald Easter.

Vivid Color Plaid Pattern Effective for Contrast

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

Contrast of the vivid color plaid pattern makes this spring coat ideal for slim dresses or simple suits of monotones. It is tailored with snap and precision, boasts the curved but wider shoulders, and reaches a flattering length at the knee line. Both the coat and hat are available in a Chicago shop.

Newest Coats Are Decorative and Practical

BY REA SEEGER.

Your new spring coat will reflect all the newest ideas of the American designers, designers who, with telling effect, have created coats that are decorative, flattering, and practical. Gone are the functional coats, models that were just another coat and nothing more. Enter detailed masterpieces of fine fabrics and sure manner. The soft feminine look is achieved not only with silhouettes but with what's far more important, intricate seaming, details that soften, and colors that are the very breath of spring.

Any number of varying silhouettes are featured, from knee length box coats, to be worn belted or unbelted in a free swinging manner, to the fitted dress length coachman coats with dashing short cape collars. There are still dress parade coats of navy blue or black [second to navy blue] that are cut in a semi-fitted silhouette, then highlighted with gold metal buttons, handsome buttons of silver metal filagree, or huge plastic affairs. There are plenty of "first" coats trimmed lavishly with wide bands of fur, also fitted coats that close and button effectively down the left side, with a row of 24 or more buttons. All the smartest coats have very narrow collars or are deliberately collarless models.

Smartest of all are plaid coats, this spring made of gay infectiously riotous colorings, at least four different contrast colored thread patterns to the fabric. Small plaids for the conservative, medium mixtures in both size and exuberant color, and dashing unusual plaids in both size and vivid colors are ready now for the daring shoppers. These, too, come in a grand variety of models, short or long, fitted or loose, and the classic topcoats to provide effectual contrast for monotone suits or dresses.

White Collar GIRL

The Office Clock.

It's an institution—the office clock. When you are late you look at it furtively as you sneak past, wishing that, like you, it were a little slow. As the morning wears on, you glance at it now and again, wishing it would speed up to bring the lunch hour nearer.

But it has neither accelerator nor brake; it indifferently ticks off the minutes as they run into hours, heeding your desires not at all. Perhaps you punch it as you come and go — it gives you justice but no mercy.

It offers a lesson, however, in reliability. You can count on the office clock to be on the job and to tell the truth. It is no shirker of responsibility, no vendor of questionable quantity, no time waster. You leave the office at night and it ticks on faithfully; when you arrive in the morning it greets you with regularity.

Yet, tho it has this lesson to teach us, most of us watch it merely to see if our day's work is done. Were it a cynic, its face might wear a grin of derision.

—JOSEPHINE GRIFFIN.

Opposites.

Still water runs deep.
—MONSIEUR X.

Passing Comment.

Just a passing comment from a WCG who has three brothers, a husband, and many friends in the service. Couldn't this world do very well without workers in an office who:

Gripe about the tobacco shortage and take every opportunity to hoard when they can?

Complain because they can't get their favorite brand of liquor?

Distribute gasoline coupons among themselves and their friends like theater passes?

Are making more money now than they ever did, yet bemoan pay roll deductions?

Buy black market meat, stock up on everything they hear may be restricted, and are sure they aren't getting the vitamins they need in order to carry on their intensive work of pushing a pencil? —D.

New Assignment.

He's usually calm when there is much to do,
And never gets upset when things go wrong—
Efficiency is one of his demands—
He puts the letter files where they belong!
But now the office isn't quite the same —
"Today," says he, "routine is just a bother!"
His secretary's doing all the work—
Because . . . you see . . . our boss became a father!
—ELSIE M. FARR.

Instruction Dept.

That gal from Blue Island who wrote about the men passengers on the train was so right! If they don't sit next to you and knock out an eye every time they turn a page, they sit back of you and beat you over the head with their paper. I'm all for a class to teach men how to read their papers and not torture the person with whom they are sitting. —SHIRLEE.

R. A. F. Flyers Prove They're Musicians, Too

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

The valor of the Royal Air Force is a proved quantity, but it was somewhat of a surprise to discover at Medinah temple last night that when the blue uniformed lads take a flyer into music they are equally distinguished. The occasion was a concert by the Royal Air Force band, which is making a "bands across the sea tour" of good will, while an American Air Force band pays a similar visit to Britain. The United States treasury was the impresario of the event, and the several thousand people who heard it obtained admission by purchasing war bonds. Mayor Kelly and other civil and military officials were scheduled to take part in the welcoming ceremonies.

Tho the organization calls itself a band, it is in reality both a military band and a symphony orchestra, with the latter borrowing wind and brass players from the former. Such an assemblage of more than 100 musicians might tempt a less discreet leader than Wing Commander R. P. O'Donnell into tasteless extravagance, but perhaps the most impressive feature of the concert was its complete musical seriousness and legitimacy. Mr. O'Donnell is a quiet and unobtrusive conductor, but he is obviously a very capable one.

Beginning with Elgar's "Cockaigne" overture, of which we could catch only the end, the military band played two Eric Coates pieces, "Meditation-Westminster" and the popular "Knightsbridge" march, with a fine quality of tone that not even the inimical acoustics of Medinah Temple's wide open spaces could cover up. Then the string section of the group came forward with performances of the Elegy and Waltz from Tschaikowsky's Serenade for Strings that were of remarkable finish—subtly phrased and exquisite in tone quality. It was the sort of playing that Chicago now sadly hears only from visiting organizations. The first half of the program ended with an able and well balanced reading of Smetana's "The Moldau," in which only the oboes failed to reach the high standards of the rest of the organization.

At Kimball hall last night Florence Korsak gave a debut recital, singing songs in the soprano range that covered a wide variety of composers. She is a straight forward singer, with a healthy, agreeable voice that is for the most part well used. She has been carefully trained and her singing lacks only continuity of interest, ranging from rather dull accounts of some classical arias to a suddenly vivid projection of De Falla's "Nana." William Whitaker was the excellent accompanist and later was scheduled to play two of his own compositions for piano.

On the Aisle By Claudia Cassidy

Better Than Ever.

If Burton Holmes is an institution, he certainly is a lively one. The man who lectures so he can travel came back to Orchestra hall last night to open his 52d season of travel talks in his home town with "The Rainbow Land of Utah." He is almost 76 years old, and a few years ago he had such a serious accident that he was the man who came to lecture in a wheel chair. But last night he strode out on the stage, scorning even a helpful stick, handsome and debonair as ever, to give what happened to be his 107th show of the season. And he is better than ever, because now to match his friendly commentary he has vivid motion pictures in color by Ted Phillips, whom he calls "God's gift to Burton Holmes."

Mr. Phillips photographs a mountain or a cherry with equal skill, and Mr. Holmes tells you about them with equal zest. Between the two you can visit the land of the Mormons from Salt Lake City to the great copper mine at Bingham [really a fabulous sight], and from Zion park thru the north rim of the Grand Canyon to that loveliest of pinnacled wonderlands, Bryce Canyon, which its discoverer called "a hell of a place to catch a cow." There are lots of side trips, as on all Holmes junkets, one of them to the sunny, mountain rimmed meadow where "My Friend Flicka" was filmed. The lecture will be repeated tomorrow night and Saturday afternoon—if you can get in. Next week's journey follows the Colorado river from its source to the sea.

Sorry, Mr. Avery.

Note from Marie Agnes Foley, director of the Jack and Jill Players: "In reading your article in Sunday's Tribune I noted you mentioned the patron saint of actors, Genesius. You may be interested to know St. Genesius is also the patron saint of lawyers. The feast day is Aug. 25. However, you need not regret your interpolation of the fact that Delos Avery named St. Vitus as patron saint of thespians [you may owe Mr. Avery an apology] for St. Vitus is the patron saint of comedians and he is invoked against nervousness and epilepsy. The feast day is June 15." Thank you, Miss Foley, and I apologize to Mr. Avery, tho secretly I think he was hazarding a sardonic guess.

Sailors Ahoy!

Max Gordon reports a seagoing project to be christened out of town in May before invading New York. It is "H. M. S. Pinafore" with the score intact, but with George S. Kaufman handling the book and lyrics in modern style. William Gaxton and Victor Moore will be involved in a Hollywood locale.

Reply to Memo.

A memo from Mrs. Emery Walker wants to know: "Were you just trying to tease us when you said not to miss Rachmaninoff's 12-inch record with the Liszt arrangement of Schubert's Serenade? My good record store couldn't find out anything about it." It's Victor record 11-8728, Mrs. Walker, and the Kreisler-Rachmaninoff "Liebesfreud" is on the other side. But think nothing of the record shop's confusion. I just received two handsome albums from Victor, without a record in either of them.

Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. F. Harold Brasie of River Forest announce the engagement of their daughter, June, to William Calvin Irmis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin E. Irmis of Oak Park.

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Fine of Pine Grove av. of the engagement of their daughter, Rochelle, to Aviation Cadet Julian S. Frank Jr. of the army air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank of N. Ashland av. Miss Fine is a student at Northwestern university, at which her fiance also studied before entering the army. He is stationed at Harlingen, Tex.

Mr. and Mrs. John Evans of Gary, Ind., announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Jill, to Seaman 1st Class Elbert Fife Jr. of the navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fife, also of Gary.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 14.—Jack Benny no longer has to worry about what he'll have for Sunday dinner—it's "Chicken Every Sunday" with Mervyn Leroy. . . . Agnes Moorehead, who most likely will get the academy award going to the best supporting actress of the year, has been added to "The Green Years." . . . "Just can't get away from Hollywood," said Mary Astor in New York as Eddie Goulding gave her the finished script of his new play to read. . . . Alex Korda arranged to take Julien Duvivier over to direct Vivien Leigh in "Lottie Dundas." When Duvivier finishes that, he goes to Paris to do a picture for himself. . . . Margaret O'Brien was welcomed back to Metro. Her prized possession is an autographed photograph of Henry Ford. He gave her a wonderful time in Detroit—and vice versa. . . . Marlin ["Love That Man"] Hurt, who plays Beulah, was mobbed by bobby soxers when he guest starred with Thin Man Frankie [Sinatra].

Wrong Sox? Well, Maybe.

Metro's new discovery, Ray English, was divorced in Boston before coming here. His wife declares he'll be the absolute delight of bobby soxers. "But unfortunately," says she, "I wear stockings." . . . The McLean Nesbits [Metro decorator and boss of modes of the moment] are expecting. They're also studying Chinese like mad. Expect to live in China after war's over. . . . Is it true that after all these years the Charlie Feldmans are getting ready to welcome a blessed event? . . . The Howard Harrises [he's Dinah Shore's writer] expect a little gag writer in two months. . . . When Betty Grable is asked whether she's going to have another baby, she giggles. . . . Eddie Bracken's new radio show is tops. Danny Kaye's getting better weekly. It would be still better if they gave Eve Arden more to do. That gal could be another Joan Davis. . . . Bob Walker's personal appearance at New York Capitol is Metro's way of giving him a holiday. Holiday, with seven performances a day, after all the cash he's clinked for them? . . . From New York comes word it isn't Carole Landis' singing that's bringing customers to see "A Lady Says Yes"—it's her figure. . . . Great excitement in Adrian's household when he was presented with the Coty award in New York. I hear fashion went all out for him.

The President Says No.

Alex Knox, screen's Woodrow Wilson, absolutely refuses to pose for sexy or cute pictures. Declares he's positively not the type. He's positively right. . . . Kay Kyser's Sully Mason, who's been with him 15 years, is forming his own band. . . . Fred, of John Frederics firm, came down with ptomaine poisoning the day after a plush dinner at the home of one of our top agents. . . . Madman Muntz devoted a week to the study of Spanish, then traipsed to Mexico. Asked if he had any trouble with it down there he said, "No, but the Mexicans did." . . . Armand Diaz, Mexican dancer, has been added to cast of "Dishonored Lady." . . . With black-outs over many theaters, who will have lights enough to put star names up over "Duel in the Sun"? There are Jennifer Jones, Grégory Peck, Lionel Barrymore, and now Joseph Cotten.

Chit Chat of Our Industry.

Brynie Foy's 17 year old Mary Jane is down with pneumonia at Stephens college. Mrs. Foy went back to fetch her home when she's able to travel. I wish I had time to stop off at Stephens for a lecture. They've invited me three times now. Not that what I'd give them would be a lecture, but I could sure tell plenty about Hollywood. . . . Frances Farmer hasn't been able to collect money loaned to a well known writer which he borrowed when she was up and he was down. I understand his pay check now is $3,500 weekly. . . . Life magazine is losing its movie editor, Tom Carlisle. He comes here to set up his own picture and news bureau. . . . Both Paul Henreid and Walter Slezak are now rewriting script of "Spanish Main." But when it's finished you'll find Maureen O'Hara is its star. She's so beautiful in color.

Goren on Bridge

By Charles H. Goren

[Copyright: 1945: By Charles H. Goren.]

Both sides vulnerable, South deals.

	NORTH
	♠ A Q 6 5 ♥ K 10 4 ♦ 7 ♣ 10 9 8 6 5
WEST		EAST
♠ J 10 9 ♥ 9 8 7 3 ♦ K Q J 9 4 ♣ 3		♠ K 8 7 3 ♥ A Q J 2 ♦ 10 8 5 2 ♣ 2
	SOUTH ♠ 4 2 ♥ 6 5 ♦ A 6 3 ♣ A K Q J 7 4

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 clubs	Pass	3 clubs	Pass
5 clubs	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of diamonds.

Notice South's very fine restraint in the bidding. He has seven certain playing tricks, but refused to jump the bid immediately for fear that partner might expect a better hand in high cards.

The two club rebid is definitely an underbid, but it is good policy for the opener in all such cases to choose the conservative course, because by the very act of opening the bidding he advertises a good hand. It is sound policy not to jump when length of suit is the only inducement. North also displayed good judgment in making a deliberate underbid of three clubs. This is proper strategy, because it permits partner to bid three no trump, if that contract is desirable.

Against the game contract, West naturally led the king of diamonds, which South won, extracted trumps in one lead and then tried the spade finesse. When this failed East returned a spade. Declarer re-entered his hand and now tried to win a trick with the king of hearts. That failed also. "Hard luck, partner. I tried everything. All the cards were wrong."

Luck was not to be blamed. Declarer had not tried everything. As badly as the cards were laid out against him, after the opening lead there was nothing the defense could do to defeat the contract if declarer availed himself of every opportunity.

His first play should not be the drawing of trump, but the ruffing of a diamond in dummy. His own hand is reëntered with a trump and the last diamond ruffed in dummy. The South hand entered again with a trump and this time a heart is led. West plays low and dummy should play the ten of hearts. East wins with the jack and is unable to make a return which will not cost him a trick. A diamond return permits declarer to discard from his own hand and ruff in dummy. A heart return sets up the king of hearts for a spade discard, and a spade return into the ace-queen obviously loses a trick. If declarer pulls one round of trump before ruffing a diamond the hand is lost.

TOMORROW'S PROBLEM.

As North you hold:

♠ Q J 9 6 ♥ K J 10 9 5 ♦ A 6 2 ♣ 9

The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
1 club	1 spade	Pass	Pass

What do you bid?

Fat, juicy winter pears make the grocer's windows inviting these days. Pears are more plentiful and cheaper than they were last year. Several varieties are available, more d'Anjous and winter Nelis than any other kind. These come from the west coast.

Fresh pears make a fine dessert all by themselves. If a few points can be spared for some cheese—cream, liederkranz, blue, camembert, or another dessert cheese—sliced pears with cheese and toasted crackers may be served following a family or company dinner.

Fresh pear salad is delicious and healthful. The only thing it lacks for appetite appeal is color, and that can be supplied by the greens used [the greener, the better!] and by a garnish, such as a strip of pimiento, a bit of cranberry sauce, or bright colored jelly.

Frozen pear salad takes on a party air. Serve it on watercress, if you can get it, or on curly endive.

Frozen Pear Salad.

[Serves six.]

2 cups diced fresh pears
Juice of ½ lemon or 1 lime
⅓ cup chopped walnuts
⅓ cup sliced fresh dates
¼ cup sliced maraschino cherries
½ cup mayonnaise
½ cup cream cheese
¼ teaspoon salt

Peel and dice pears and sprinkle with lemon juice. Mix with chopped nuts, dates, and cherries. Blend mayonnaise and cream cheese together and add salt. Combine with fruit mixture. Pack into refrigerator tray and freeze until firm. Cut into squares and serve on crisp greens.

Fruit and Onion Salad.

Here's a fruit and onion salad combination including pears. Believe it when you try it, but this is a flavorful quartet: Get together a nice big navel orange, a winter pear, a red-skinned apple, and a sweet onion. Skin the onion and wash the fruit. Do not peel the orange unless the skin is very thick. Slice onion and fruit in paper thin slices crosswise, discarding seeds. Mix gently with a fork. Add a sprinkling of sugar, about 2 tablespoons, and place in a lettuce lined salad bowl. Serve dressing separately.

Winter pears are delicious sautéed in a little hot fat and served as an accompaniment for meat. With pork, ham, or sausage, pears are particularly good. Cook them in the meat drippings, turning them gently so that they do not break.

There are innumerable ways to cook pears for sauce and dessert, but when all is said, there's nothing better to eat than a fresh, raw pear, ungarnished and in its natural packaging.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Fish Supreme.

[Serves four to five.]

1 large fillet of fish, any kind
⅓ cup melted margarine
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Brush fish with margarine and broil 15 to 20 minutes about 2 inches from the heating element. Remove from broiler and sprinkle with parsley. Pour over fish a sauce made as follows: Cook together for a few minutes 1 tablespoon margarine, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 1 tablespoon chopped stuffed olives, 1 tablespoon horseradish, 1 tablespoon flour. Add 1 cup chicken or beef bouillon [made by dissolving 1 bouillon cube in a cup of boiling water]. Simmer 5 minutes. Pour over fish and serve at once.

Here and There.

Mr. and Mrs. James Braddock Hurd [Jean Wescott] are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter, Barbara Wescott, yesterday in the Evanston hospital. The baby's grandparents are the James B. Wescotts of Lake Shore dr. and the Max Hurds of Barrington. Young Mr. Hurd is a senior in the Nothwestern university medical school, at which he is enrolled in the army reserve.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Ratcliffe [Jane Rodgers] of Evanston became the parents of a son, their third child, Feb. 9 in Burrows hospital. The baby has been named Andrew Kennedy Rodgers after his paternal grandfather, who, with Mrs. Rodgers, also lives in Evanston.

The third and last in a series of gin rummy tournaments which Racquet club members and guests have been enjoying this winter will be held tonight. There is particular interest in tonight's event, as James M. Sheldon has finished second twice and will be competing again to try to break the spell. The Andrew Berkeys and the Paul Walkers are among the many who have reservations for dinner before the tournament.

When Lt. Frederick McLaughlin II. left Monday to report to the marine air base at Cherry Point, N. C., for further orders he was accompanied by Mrs. McLaughlin, who will return here shortly. En route they planned to stop in Washington, D. C., for a short visit with her mother, Mrs. Truxton Hare. Lt. McLaughlin has been home on a 30 day leave after more than a year in the South Pacific.

Members of the Russian trio will leave for Palm Beach, Fla., today to play two performances before the Society of the Four Arts next Wednesday and Thursday. While in the south the artists will be the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Davis.

ENRICHED WITH VITAMINS AND MINERALS
Doubly Good
SLO-BAKED FOR LASTING FRESHNESS

How this new energy-charged Wonder Bread can give you the extra energy you want

Contains Vitamins of the B Complex and Iron your body needs to help get all the energy out of it

Thanks to a revolutionary new baking method, you can now get bread with no big holes that leak sandwich fillings on shirts or dresses. Compare a slice from the middle of the loaf of new Wonder Bread with ordinary bread—see the amazing difference!

Energy comes only from the food you eat. Thus, to get more energy—eat more energy food. Nature gets energy out of food with the help of Vitamins B_1 and B_2 and Iron.

This is how: The two vitamins help to oxidize food in the cells; and the Iron in your blood brings oxygen to the cells.

Study the chart. Then eat extra slices of energy-charged Wonder Bread every day to get extra energy.

Get Vitamins, Iron

Ask for Wonder Bread by name because it contains Vitamins B_1 and B_2 and Iron necessary to help Nature properly transform it into energy for your body.

Remember—only Wonder Bread is sold under its famous $1,000 Vitamin B_1 guarantee.

Doubly Fresh

In addition, energy-charged Wonder Bread is doubly fresh—fresh when you buy it, fresh when you eat it.

Because Wonder Bread is slo-baked—13% longer than many ordinary kinds for lasting freshness.

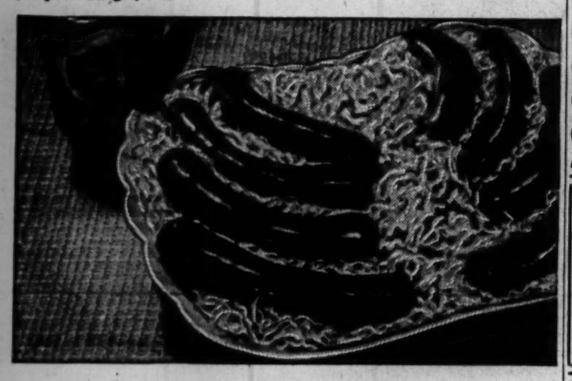
A Low-Point Quickie

"Short order" dishes are what I call those dinner quickies that take very little time from cupboard to table. These "short order" franks and kraut will warm up a hungry family on a wintry day . . . and how good they taste. The thrifty housewife will appreciate the help this low-point meat gives her red-point budget, too.



Frankfurters and Sauerkraut

Drop Certified Frankfurters into boiling water and simmer 5 min. or until hot through. Reheat canned sauerkraut or if raw kraut is used, drain it, cover with boiling water and cook covered, ½ hour. Drain and season to taste with salt and pepper. Dill or celery seed may be added, if desired. Serve "franks" on top of the kraut. One quart of sauerkraut serves 6.

CHILDREN'S SPECIAL

Please the children often by serving tasty, low-point Certified Frankfurters. Easy-to-eat meats like frankfurters, hamburgers, meat loaf and meat patties make eating easier for the young fry, and help assure them of getting their allowance of important body-building proteins. Fortunately, these meats are easy on the red point budget so they can be used often.

Frankfurters and sauerkraut call for a crispy food like French fried potatoes. Add a molded fruit salad and a chocolate pudding, both of which can be made the day before, and you have a quickie menu that's as welcome as an elaborate meal.

A Quick Warmer-Upper

On these cold days, there is always the problem of how to warm up the children who come in from play "half-frozen." The quickest way I know is to give them a cup of hot B-V. Just dissolve ¼ tsp. of Wilson's B-V in a teacup of hot water and you have a nutritious as well as a delicious warmer-upper. Yes, B-V contains a goodly amount of good blood-building iron as well as important B vitamins. So, why not sit down with the children and have a cup yourself?

Pointers on Meat Points

1. Get acquainted with the variety meats such as liver, heart, kidney, tongue and sweetbreads. They're easy on the point budget and they contain the same high quality proteins and B vitamins as the cuts which have a high point value.
2. When purchasing large cuts have a few chops or steaks removed. Freeze these so that they may be used between leftovers to give variety to your menus. It's a point-saving trick, too.
3. Cooking at low temperature saves both meat and points because there is less shrinkage of meat.
4. Be sure to save your waste fats to turn in for more red points.

Sincerely,
George Rector

SUPREME COURT ASKED BY U.S. TO HEAR WARD CASE

Sullivan Ruling Attacked in Move for Writ.

BY ROBERT YOUNG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—The Montgomery Ward & Co. property seizure case reached the United States Supreme court today with the government's filing of a petition for a writ of certiorari.

If the high court grants the writ, it will consent to review and rule upon the decision of the federal District court in Chicago which held illegal the government's seizure of Ward properties in Chicago and six other cities last Dec. 27.

The petition, filed by Solicitor Gen. Charles Fahy, urged the Supreme court to review the Ward case without a decision by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals because the case is the first to come before the Supreme court involving the powers of the government under the war labor disputes act. The case also is the first involving the President's powers of seizure during war time under the Constitution and "raises questions of immediate and large significance in the conduct of the war," the petition stated.

Poses Two Questions.

In asking the Supreme court to review and reverse the judgment of Federal Judge Sullivan which was handed down Jan. 27, the government asserted that the questions to be decided are: 1. Whether the President had authority under either the war labor disputes act or the Constitution, or both, to order the seizure of Ward properties and their operation by the army; 2. If the President has such authority, whether his executive order for the seizure was a valid exercise of that power.

The government petition contended that Judge Sullivan was in error when he ruled that neither the war labor disputes act nor the Constitution authorized the President's action.

After relating the history of the Ward case and the development of war time labor disputes and wage stabilization procedures, the petition declared that unless the District court decision is reversed, the government has no means under existing law of "preventing the consequences apprehended by the President and . . . other responsible officials.

Fears Serious "Crisis."

"The government would stand stripped of power to deal with consequences which might develop into the most serious crisis in the history of the war outside, but connected with, the area of actual military operations in the field," the petition asserted.

The President ordered the properties of the big Chicago mail order house taken over by the army after Ward's refused to recognize orders of the national war labor board directing pay raises, maintenance of union membership, seniority, dues checkoff, and arbitration.

Mr. Roosevelt declared that army seizure and operation of the properties involved in the WLB orders were necessary to prevent an outbreak of labor disturbances which might hinder the war program. On Dec. 28 the government brought action in the District court in Chicago to affirm the seizure and to prevent interference with its operation of the properties, and subsequently appealed Judge Sullivan's ruling upholding the company.

The mail order company has 20 days in which to reply to the government's petition.

UNION'S BOSSES MOVE TO DEFEAT ANTI-RED BOLT

Suspension of five officers of the United Farm Equipment and Metal Workers of America union [CIO] at the Caterpillar Tractor works in Peoria, in an effort to quell a revolt within the Peoria local against communist domination of the farm equipment workers, was upheld by district and local representatives of the union here yesterday.

The suspensions were ordered Sunday by Grant W. Oakes, international president of the union, after inauguration of a move to take the Peoria members into another CIO union—the United Automobile workers. A similar bolt was reported in prospect among various locals in the Chicago area.

In addition, the conference here suspended remaining officers of the local from their positions, but retained them as members in good standing. These included five board members and three trustees.

3 Cops Get New Outlook on Life—From Inside Cell

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 14 (AP).—Three police officers found out today how it feels to be inside a cell looking out. The three failed to appear as witnesses at a trial, so the judge issued bench warrants for them. When they appeared they were locked up until the case was called.

RECALL WOMEN TO GOSS; BOTH SIDES 'WRONG'

Two Interpretations Given Opinion.

Women employes of the Goss Printing Press company, 1535 S. Paulina st., who have been "on vacation" since Jan. 30 during the arbitration of a union dispute over their employment, will be recalled to work as the result of an opinion given yesterday by Circuit Judge William V. Brothers as arbitrator.

The company and the International Association of Machinists [AFL] had debated the meaning of the phrase "for the duration" in a supplemental union contract in which the male machinists permitted the company to hire women in 1942 for navy war work. Five hundred men went on strike Jan. 25 when some men were laid off while 10 women were retained.

Ask for Opinion.

Atty. Emmett J. McCarthy, representing the company, and Atty. Daniel D. Carmell, for the union, asked Judge Brothers yesterday for his informal opinion whether the phrase meant for the duration of the war, as the company contended, or for the duration of the union's annual contract.

Judge Brothers read the contract text, then told McCarthy and Carmell what he thought it meant. Each lawyer left the courtroom thinking the opinion favored his side.

"In my view," said McCarthy, "Judge Brothers found that the phrase means for the duration of the war. I have reported to the company that he found in our favor, and the women soon will return to work."

Judge Is Surprised.

But James McDonald, business representative of district 8 of the union, said Carmell told him the judge ruled in their favor. "The judge said that the phrase does not mean for the duration of the war," McDonald said. "He held that the agreement is no longer effective and that the women workers must step aside."

Judge Brothers said last night that he was surprised that his opinion appeared to favor either side. "I think they were both wrong," he said. "I told them that 'for the duration,' meant for the duration of the man power emergency. That may be over now, or it may not be over until long after the war. I don't know."

WAR PLANT BUS LINES OPERATED AS STRIKE ENDS

Bus service was operated on schedule again yesterday in Aurora and Elgin after a strike by drivers for a pay raise of 6 cents an hour had kept an estimated 8,000 war workers idle since Saturday night.

The 73 drivers voted at a meeting Tuesday night to return to work on a promise by Philip Marshall, vice chairman of the regional war labor board, that their petition for a rehearing of their application for an increase will get "immediate processing."

Factory sirens and whistles sounded in celebration of the news that the drivers had called off the strike. They are members of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railways and of the Motor Coach Employes union [AFL].

UPTOWN GROUP ASKS MODIFIED DIM-OUT IN INTEREST OF SAFETY

Frank W. Bicek, president of the Central Uptown Chicago association, yesterday reported his organization has petitioned the city and war production board for modification of the brown-out order which extinguished the privately owned white way lighting systems on Wilson av., between Clark st. and Hazel av., and on Broadway between Lawrence and Montrose avs.

City owned lights now illuminating these areas, Bicek asserted, are insufficient for protection. To supplement them "in the interest of safety," he advocated that one bulb in each cluster on every other light standard in the privately owned systems be allowed to burn.

Bicek added that, in his opinion, the brown-out order served no useful purpose and appeared to him to have been invoked for the purpose of harassing the civilian front. "Why didn't the government put the regulation into effect three years ago instead of waiting until now when we have the war almost won?" he challenged.

AFL LAUNCHES FIGHT TO TRIM NLRB'S POWERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Feb. 14.—The executive board of the American Federation of Labor announced today that it will press for passage in congress of legislation preventing the national labor relations board from making "arbitrary" decisions in favor of plant-wide or industry-wide bargaining units, a procedure which the AFL contends has favored the CIO.

The legislation drafted by the AFL would allow the workers in the shops of an industry to first decide whether they want a craft unit. Under the present national labor relations act, the NLRB holds the unappealable right of designating the manner in which elections are to be held.

William Green, AFL president, said after the AFL council's session today that he was "momentarily" waiting for a reply to his telegram sent to John L. Lewis last night.

"The character and nature of the reply from Lewis undoubtedly will determine whether the UMW will return to the AFL," Green said.

Limited Service Training at Camp Ellis Postponed

A plan to train men at Camp Ellis, Macomb, McDonough county, for limited military service has been postponed indefinitely, the army 6th service command announced here yesterday. The program had been scheduled to start today. Men drafted under "work or fight" legislation, even tho they were not physically qualified for general military service, were to be trained in the camp.

LIFE SENTENCE OF ERRANT G. I. CUT TO 5 YEARS

Wheeler Says Penalty Still Severe.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14 (AP).—The death sentence once imposed on Pvt. Henry Weber for refusing to drill has been cut down to five years at hard labor.

This was disclosed today by Maj. Gen. Myron C. Cramer, army judge advocate general, in a letter to Chairman Thomas [D., Utah] of the senate military committee.

Thomas became interested in the case after the death sentence was pronounced at Camp Roberts, Cal. Sen. Wheeler [D., Mont.] demanded an investigation, telling the senate: "Whoever sentenced that boy to hanging ought to be discharged from the army."

Weber had been quoted as asking for a noncombat assignment, on the ground that as a member of the Socialist Labor party he was opposed to killing human beings. His superior officer charged him specifically with refusing to join his squad for training, a court martial offense in war time.

Reduced to Life.

Weber was convicted. The trial court, however, rescinded the death penalty and decreed life at hard labor. Cramer wrote to Thomas:

"The record was then returned to the reviewing authority, who reduced the period of confinement to 20 years and forwarded the record of trial to the office of judge advocate general in Washington. . . . The record was examined by a board of review in my office which determined that the evidence was legally sufficient to support the sentence.

Cramer then personally recommended the reduction to five years "in order to equalize the sentence in accordance with war department policy."

Weber is to be dishonorably discharged also and forfeits any army benefits.

Sentenced Before.

Said Cramer:

"On a previous occasion he [Weber] was tried by a special court martial for a similar offense and sentenced to confinement at hard labor for six months. After his release he persisted in his refusal to submit to military discipline and the present trial resulted."

Wheeler commented that the accharged and will forfeit benefits.

However, he added, five years "still seems rather severe."

Hunts 4 Millions in Gold Beneath Florida Sidewalk

Green Cove Springs, Fla., Feb. 14 (AP).—A treasure hunter has excavated a 9 foot hole in the sidewalk before the city office here in an attempt to discover a golden hoard which he vows is concealed in the vicinity. C. B. Mobley, 78, says pirates buried 4 million dollars in gold where he is digging. City council members gave him permission to tear up the sidewalk on condition that he post a $50 bond to guarantee refilling the hole.

Challenging Risks and Countless Opportunities
(A MESSAGE TO CONNECTICUT MUTUAL POLICYHOLDERS FROM PRESIDENT JAMES LEE LOOMIS)
The uncertainties of the years ahead are beyond the powers of any man to appraise or comprehend. We are, however, quite conscious of these: the problem of economy at home; the question of how we shall achieve intelligent and sympathetic cooperation among government, labor and capital; the great uncertainty of conditions abroad.
No one can tell how many years will be required for the peoples ravaged and decimated by this war to recover their economic, mental and spiritual well-being — perhaps a generation. Yet upon such recovery the commerce of the world depends; and upon the flow of commerce the well-being of our own country will largely depend.
Within the unfolding years of the future there will be challenging risks and countless opportunities to those competent, willing and prepared to accept them. That the individual may be prepared at least in one important respect to meet these conditions is the business of life insurance, for it offers the most satisfactory plan yet devised for the security of one's self and family.
An investment in serenity of mind pays large returns.

RAY ROBINSON K. O.'S COSTNER IN 1ST ROUND

IRISH RALLY TO BEAT SEAHAWK QUINTET, 51-38

Score Tied 8 Times During Contest.

Notre Dame, Ind., Feb. 14 [Special].—Notre Dame's basketball team coupled a driving second half rally with strong defensive play to defeat the Iowa Seahawks, 51 to 38, tonight before a crowd of 2,000. The game marked the 13th victory in 17 starts for the Irish.

Trailing 28 to 26 as the second half started, the Irish held the Seahawks to 10 points in the final 20 minutes and won the game in the last 12 minutes when they tallied 13 points while holding the naval quintet scoreless.

Score Tied Eight Times.

Johnny Dee, high point man for Notre Dame with six field goals and two free throws, started Notre Dame off in the first minute of play when he scored on a long shot. The Irish continued to add to its lead until midway in the opening half when Charley Pugsley tallied with a side court shot to tie the score at 11-all, the first of eight times the contest was tied during the course of the evening.

After this stage of the proceedings, the Seahawks pulled away to a six point lead, but Billy Hassett and Dee spearheaded an Irish rally which tied the score at 19 points apiece. The navy quintet again assumed the lead, but with five seconds remaining in the first period the contest was tied once more. Just before the half time gun, Joe Holland drove in under the basket to score and to hand the Seahawks the two point margin at the intermission.

Irish Defense Tightens.

Vince Boryla tied the score again as the second half opened and the teams exchanged shots for the next eight minutes before the score was tied at 34. The Irish then resorted to defensive play, holding the Preflight quintet scoreless as they ran up a 10 point advantage before Jim Klein tallied from the side of the court.

Klein's goal was the only interruption insofar as the Irish were concerned. They continued to maintain a safe lead until the final gun. Lineups:

Big Ten Talks Today About Commissioner

The directors of athletics in the Western conference will meet this afternoon in the Sherman hotel to continue discussion of the parts of the code applicable to the office of commissioner, a position vacant since the death last December of Maj. John L. Griffith.

This is the third meeting of the directors, and while they expect to complete work on the powers and responsibilities of the office of commissioner, there is no assurance that a successor to Maj. Griffith will be named.

Believe Salary to Be $15,000.

Originally the position was believed to have been offered H. O [Fritz] Crisler, Michigan director of athletics and football coach, and he is supposed to have been assured of a contract starting with a $15,000 salary.

Crisler obviously has declined so far to take the job, but his reluctance may stem from dissatisfaction with the authority of the position as well as hesitancy to leave his present post. Michigan also may have given Crisler assurance of an increase in salary.

Expect to Complete Code.

Neither Crisler nor Kenneth L. [Tug] Wilson, Northwestern's director of athletics, whose name has been mentioned in connection with the commissionership, are avowed candidates. Wilson, who with Crisler and L. W. St. John is a member of the executive committee conducting the affairs of the office, said yesterday that the code should be completed today.

"We are not definitely looking for candidates," Wilson added, "and whoever the choice may be, he certainly could not consider the position until his duties are defined."

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

AMONG the lessons the United States learned in the period between World War I. and World War II. was the inadequacy of its physical training program. . . . Various planning committees in Washington undoubtedly will come forth soon with recommendations regarding post-war activities to correct the situation in the hope that if we again are obliged to take up arms the number of rejectees in selective service will be greatly reduced. . . . An effective physical training program must be developed around schools and colleges, which prompts us to suggest that university and scholastic leaders keep their eyes open and be ready to express their opinions when the time comes to decide these matters. . . . If educators could agree upon the mistakes that were made in the program of the last 25 years it would simplify the task of setting up a more satisfactory system. . . . Old conflicts between the so-called athletic leaders and physical education advocates likely will recur. . . . Both sides must recognize that there are values in each program and that their schedules must harmonize if maximum results are to be attained. . . .

You hear many dwell upon the abuses of big time athletics, meaning big time football. . . . They claim if these excesses had been eliminated the mistakes of the '20s and the '30s would have disappeared or been curtailed. . . . They are not in accord on the meaning of abuses. . . . Some refer to post-season games. . . . Others to the money spent in equipping and maintaining varsity squads. . . . The subsidization of athletes comes in for sharp criticism, and rightly, from our point of view. . . . Assuming that one or all of these charges are true, and they will be abolished in the post-war conduct of intercollegiate sport, that still would be no solution to the poor physical condition of American youth. . . . And that is the problem with which army and navy leaders are primarily concerned. . . . For the purpose of this discussion you can divide college students into two groups—those who voluntarily come out for the various teams and those who have no interest in athletics and prefer to sit in the stands. . . . Whatever the evils attending the operation of intercollegiate sport, no one can deny the physical advantages that accrue to participants. . . . Almost any military leader will tell you he prefers men in his command who have experienced the competitive fires of America's playgrounds. . . . The abolishing or curtailment of athletic programs obviously then would not improve the condition of the group the army and navy are trying to reach—those who do not engage in sports. . . .

It is increasingly apparent that compulsory exercise is imperative. . . . When students learn they will be obliged to engage in calisthenics or some other form of mass exercise to obtain a certificate of graduation you will find more of them turning to competitive games. . . . That's why the director of intramural competition will occupy a position of greater importance in the post-war world. . . . The navy in its V-12 program a year or more ago wisely allowed enlisted students who voluntarily engaged in competitive athletics to substitute such participation for the required basic or maintenance physical training programs, provided the commanding officer approved the request. . . . That was a significant ruling. . . . It was evidence the navy recognized that men can get satisfactory physical training in the form of sport as well as in other forms. . . . With that established it is easy to understand why so many see the desirability of sport to a program of calisthenics. . . . Competitive games teach other attributes one never can learn from mass exercise.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 14.—Golden Gloves boxers are a hardy lot, but not any stouter than the institution itself and the thousands of fans who patronize the tournaments in the 27 centers thruout the nation which send their representatives into the Chicago Tribune's annual Tournanment of Champions.

Nashville is a city in point. For 13 years now the morning Tennesseean and its sports editor, Raymond Johnson, have been giving followers of amateur boxing a great annual fistic jamboree. Boys have fought their way into the Nashville tournament from cities in Tennessee, Alabama, Kentucky, and Georgia—from Memphis, Birmingham, Mobile, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Lexington, Bowling Green, Jackson, and a half dozen smaller centers.

Youngsters Carry On.

The war came and with it a gradual curtailment of material as Uncle Sam began to coach the boys in another style of punching. Many of the Golden Glovers with experience gave up their places to the youngsters of 16 and 17, and the outlook for continual matches between good fighters became pretty dull. The sponsors were dejected, to put it mildly—until they began to take stock.

They found to their amazement that Golden Gloves fighters and Golden Gloves fans needed no invitation to stay in there and pitch. The 16 and 17 year old lads, many of them high school boys, accepted the opportunity to carry on and they found the fans not a whit less interested. As a consequence, the Tennessean's finals were run off last night before a capacity crowd of 3,000 in the Hippodrome, only a couple of thousand fewer than used to pack the larger auditorium. All reserved seats were occupied and some 400 had to stand thruout the three hour show.

Chicago's the Next Stop.

The entry list this year numbered 173, whereas in pre-war days as many as 350 aspired to the champions' awards—golden gloves and a trip to Chicago, the capital of amateur boxing.

Some of last night's winners will make their presence felt on the nights of Feb. 26, 27, and 28 in the Chicago Stadium. Others may not go very far, but will be in there swinging and drawing their share of the applause.

One of Nashville's champions, Corp. Jerry Miller, knows his way around Chicago Stadium pretty well. The corporal, who is based at the near-by Smyrna air field, training grounds for B-24 bombers, is a middleweight. He went to the Chicago semi-finals last year before losing to Sampson Powell of Cleveland, who went on to win the title is now is rated a first class professional boxer.

Four of Nashville's champions are high school pupils, Jack Massey, 112 pounds; Billy Tullos, 118; Bobby Branchfield, 126, and James Eleogram, 135. The 147 pound winner was Eddie Birdwell, a shipbuilder. A couple of farmer boys took the 175 pound and heavyweight championships, L. G. Rowlette the light heavyweight, and Brown Dotson, the heavy title.

FENGER JUNIOR GETS 66 POINTS; SENN WINS TITLE

Senn won the north section senior basketball title in the City league race by defeating Von Steuben, 35 to 33, on the Senn floor yesterday. It was the ninth consecutive victory for the Bulldogs, and leaves only Sullivan in the path of an undefeated section record. Senn will meet Sullivan next Tuesday at Senn.

The league scoring record of 61 points which Marvin Beskin of Sullivan's junior team made against Amundsen of Jan. 22, 1943, was broken yesterday by Tony Esposito. The Fenger junior scored 29 field goals and eight free throws for 66 points against Englewood, to lead the junior team to a 78 to 30 victory.

Section Crown Assured.

Even if Senn should lose to Sullivan, it still will be champions because of a league ruling which states that, if one team beats the other, the winning club takes the top position even if both are tied in the standings. By losing to Senn yesterday Von Steuben was shoved into a second place tie with Lane Tech, each having seven triumphs and one loss.

Frank [Bucky] Walters provided the winning margin for Senn in the last ten seconds of play when he scored with a one-handed shot from the free throw line. He also was high point man for the home club with four field goals and two free throws.

Schanbaum Gets Seven Points.

Larry Goldstein starred for the losers with 14 points. Gene Schanbaum of Von Steuben, one of the league's leading scorers, was held to seven points.

Von Steuben led, 7 to 5, in the first quarter, 19 to 10 at the half, and 28 to 22 at the conclusion of the third period. Senn rallied to score 13 points in the final period, while holding the visitors to five.

Hyde Park in First Loss.

In the south section junior division, Hyde Park was removed from the undefeated ranks when Parker triumphed, 29 to 27, on the Parker floor. It was the first loss in eight games for Hyde Park.

Waller's juniors broke a second place tie with Sullivan in the north section with a 56 to 42 victory over Sullivan on the Waller floor. It was Waller's seventh triumph in eight starts.

COSTNER TAKING COUNT IN FIRST ROUND.
[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Costner Finds Out His Best Not Enough Against Robinson

BY FRANK MASTRO.

"I did my best and it wasn't good enough," were the first words George Costner said in the Stadium dressing room after being knocked out in the first round by Ray [Sugar] Robinson last night.

"What happened?" the Cincinnati welterweight was asked.

Costner apparently still was in a daze for the punch that floored him with paralyzing effect was an accurately delivered left hook to the chin.

Robinson confirmed this in an adjoining dressing room. "A left counter did the business," Ray said. "He started a right for my head and I beat him to the punch with my left."

Ray said Costner, who entered the ring in possession of 23 straight victories, 22 by knockouts, punches hard with his right, one of these blows stinging him during the 2 minutes 55 seconds the match lasted.

Robinson donated $4,951 or 20 per cent of his $24,758 purse, to a disabled veterans' fund, the seventh straight time he has done so. His donations thus far total $17,951 and he plans to continue to contribute the same percentage from all future purses as long as the war lasts.

More than 300 service men, including scores of wounded veterans from Vaughan and Gardiner General hospitals, attended the bout as guests of Promoters Irving Schoenwald and Jack Begun. The Gardiner contingent was headed by Col. John R. Hall, commanding officer at the south side army hospital.

The 3,500 seats in the second balcony were filled before the first bout started at 8:30 o'clock.

Four American army officers repatriated from German prison camps saw the show from second row seats. They are Capt. Ragner Barhaug, Casper, Wyo.; Lt. William F. Higgins Jr., New Haven, Conn.; Lt. James N. Groves, Bayfield, Colo., and Lt. Stewart E. Cooper, Cedar Grove, N. J. They were accompanied by Lt. Flint Dupre of army public relations headquarters in Washington, D. C., and a Red Cross volunteer worker. These men, on a prisoner of war next of kin tour, will appear at a meeting in the 122d Field Artillery armory tonight.

An attempt by Ben Becker, a Cincinnati fight manager, to collect a share of Costner's $10,510 purse on the ground he held a minor's contract on George was rejected by Sheldon Clark, Illinois commission chairman. Becker, who displayed an agreement signed by Costner before the lad became of age, returned to Cincinnati without seeing the bout.

Harry Scranton, member of the Illinois athletic commission, was unable to see the show, being confined to his home in Peoria because of an attack of pleurisy.

Forty-three park district and city policemen handled the crowd. Among them were six detectives from the Warren av. station who were on duty inside the arena. The park detail operated under supervision of Lt. Owen Duffy, while the Warren av. police worked under Lt. Thomas Casey.

Fight Decisions

20,193 WATCH QUICK FINISH; GATE $94,120

BY WILFRID SMITH.

George Costner, a lank, likable young colored lad from Cincinnati, now knows he grew up entirely too fast in the tough sport of pugilism. And 20,193 spectators—Chicago's largest professional boxing crowd in 13 years—relearned the lesson many of them, too, had forgotten as they saw the veteran Ray Robinson of New York knock out Costner in 2 minutes and 55 seconds of the first round last night in the Stadium.

Costner's brilliance against mediocre opponents as he won 23 consecutive bouts had induced Chicagoans to pay $94,120 to jam the nation's largest indoor arena. But even this was a bargain compared to money wagered on Costner at 3 to 1 odds.

Actually, last night's one rounder reiterated the age old theme that experience pays off. For once, at least, the hoary cliche, "He didn't know what hit him," applied to Costner.

Bout Starts Slowly.

The two rivals, Robinson, the veteran fighting his 144th amateur and professional bout in six years, and young, inexperienced Costner, jabbed and countered lightly in reconnaissance for two minutes. Once Costner tagged Robinson with medium power to the accompanying roar from the galleries.

Twice the boxers clinched with the customary, ineffectual blows to the body. Then, in midring, came the climax.

Costner and Robinson were erect in center ring. Perhaps Costner's defense was low but he has always carried his arms in that position. Robinson lashed with a right to the jaw. The blow struck full blown and the force started Costner turning to his right.

As Costner pivoted, Ray's left hook flashed to the jaw and his victim dropped to the floor as suddenly as if felled by a hidden machine gun. He rolled doubled up on his right side. Norm McGarity, the referee, picked up the timer's count.

At six seconds, Costner came to his knees and McGarity continued counting. Many must have thought George would get up but those at ringside saw his glazed eyes staring without recognition at his corner. McGarity counted the ultimate 10 and Costner didn't move. He remained in his hunched position until handlers assisted him to the corner, revived him, and led him down the steps he had so confidently ascended a few minutes earlier.

Costner had been confident. He apparently was not fearful of Robinson, and from brief evidence, Costner did his best. But his jauntiness stemmed from inexperience. A boy was sent against the uncrowned champion of professional welterweights. He had only a boy's chance for victory.

Bratton Beats Anest.

In the six rounder which concluded last night's show, and was billed as a secondary attraction, Johnny Bratton, lightweight from Chicago's south side, pounded out a decision over Jimmy Anest of New York. Anest could not defend against Bratton's right but he took Johnny's best pitches and kept trying.

Jerry Pittro, a rugged youngster from the west side who fights like Tony Galento, only faster, overhanded and hooked Chicago's Tommy James for four rounds to win a decision in the opening match. Each weighed 150 pounds.

Hubert Hood, Chicago heavyweight, with a weight advantage over Johnny Clark of New York, had the better of a six rounder. Clark, a light heavyweight stablemate of Robinson and weighing last four rounds.

Charley Parham, Milwaukee welterweight, whipped Mike Bulik of New York in six rounds in the third fight. Bulik, a clever boxer, started fast but fought defensively for the last four rounds.

Altho Collins Brown, Chicago middleweight, was staggered in the sixth and last round, he won an easy decision from Buddy Rose of Cincinnati in the bout which preceded the main event.

HAWKS ATTEMPT TO FLEE CELLAR AGAIN TONIGHT

Oppose 5th Place Rangers in New York.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Chicago Blackhawks, their Stanley cup hopes again chugging on one cylinder, will play the New York Rangers in New York tonight. If the Hawks win from the Rangers they will escape the National Hockey league cellar, their home most of this season, but they will be two and one-half games behind the fourth place Boston Bruins, who jolted them, 3 to 2, Tuesday night.

Tho the Hawks have won more games in league competition than the Rangers, the Rangers lead in the standing because they have played more ties than the Hawks. They also lead the Hawks in team against team competition this season. In Chicago the Hawks beat the New Yorkers, 8 to 3, on Nov. 1 but subsequently lost, 3 to 1 and 4 to 3, and tied 4 to 4. In New York three ties have been played, 1 to 1, 3 to 3, and 0 to 0.

Doug Stevenson May Play.

Tonight the Rangers may use Doug Stevenson, Blackhawk spare goalie, now on loan to the Rangers. Stevenson was stand-in for Goalie Ken McAuley last Sunday night in New York. McAuley has been suffering from an attack of tonsilitis and may not be able to play tonight. At any rate Stevenson is lingering with the Rangers but may come back to Chicago with the Hawks tonight.

Meet Canadiens Three Times.

The Hawks have five games to play against the teams they must pass to enter the Stanley cup playoffs—the Rangers and the Bruins, which is not a particularly dismal outlook. Things begin to get sad, however, when it is realized that the Hawks still must face the world champion Montreal Canadiens three times—beginning with a match in Chicago Stadium Sunday night—and they also have three coming up with the second place Detroit Red Wings. They have whipped the Red Wings twice, but only the oldest settlers can remember when they beat the Canadiens.

The game with the Canadiens here Sunday night will be the first of the final six home games of the season. The remainder of the schedule is: Boston, Feb. 21; Detroit, Feb. 25; Montreal, March 4; New York, March 7, and Boston, March 15.

IT TAKES A LOT OF KHAKI, TOO!

BLUEJACKETS TO BATTLE DE PAUL FIVE TOMORROW

The Chicago Stadium schedule of basketball double headers, which has broken total attendance records for the comparable portion of any previous season, will reach another peak in interest tomorrow night with the contest between De Paul and Great Lakes. This game will be preceded at 8:15 o'clock by a Western conference engagement between Michigan and Northwestern in which the Wolverines conclude their season.

De Paul enters its last important game of the year, barring possible tournament competition, with a record of 17 victories and one defeat.

Bluejackets Have Won 28.

The Bluejackets, coached by Chief Specialist Forrest Anderson, an alumnus of the naval training center's basketball teams, now have won 28 games and lost four. Marquette university was Great Lakes' 28th victim Tuesday night. Illinois holds two decisions over Great Lakes which also has divided series with Notre Dame and Valparaiso.

As usual, George Mikan, De Paul's great center, is the pivot for the Demons' attack. The 6 foot 9 inch star has outdistanced all rivals for national honors as he has scored 375 points this season to bring his total for three years to 1,132.

Three Ready for Mikan.

Walter Budko, rugged Bluejacket center, who set an eastern scoring record last year while attending Columbia university, will get first call to play against Mikan tomorrow night. Anderson has indicated he also expects to use Jim Ove, Lawrence college, and Bill Downey, former Marquette center, against Mikan.

RED WINGS BEAT RANGERS, 4 TO 2; HOLLETT STARS

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 14 (AP).—Defenseman Bill Hollett's two first period goals tonight started the Detroit Red Wings to their fifth victory over the New York Rangers, 4 to 2, before a small crow of 7,997.

The victory boosted Detroit's second place edge over Toronto to six full games and insured the Red Wings of a berth in the Stanley Cup playoffs. By losing tonight the Rangers remained a half game out of last place and gave Chicago a chance to move out of the cellar to-4 to 2, before a small crowd of 7,997.

Exempt Rodeo from Ban on Trade Shows

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14 (AP).—All animal shows—from dogs to breeding cattle sales—now are regarded as trade shows by the war committee on conventions. Trade shows involving intercity travel and housing accommodations, if to be attended by more than 50 persons, must have a permit from the committee.

However, rodeos are not trade shows, an official of the committee said today, altho he added that a rodeo would come under the convention ban if held in conjunction with a trade exhibition, such as a cattle or horse show.

Entertainment Is Exempt.

A rodeo, not held in conjunction with a trade show, is regarded as entertainment, and entertainment does not come within the Byrnes directive designed to curtail travel and relieve burdened housing accommodations.

The directive specifically mentions conventions, trade shows, and group meetings, but not entertainment. Asked specifically whether the ruling on dog shows would apply to the Eastern Dog show, scheduled for Boston Feb. 22, the committee official replied that it did.

No action, however, will be taken against dog shows held since Feb. 1, including those now under way. This, it was explained, is because the directive only recently has been interpreted as specifically applying to these events.

Cattle Sales Called Shows.

Asked about breeding cattle sales, the official said the committee regarded them as basically trade shows and that a permit would be required.

Purely local affairs, which do not require intercity travel, do not require a permit. Likewise no permit is required for any event with attendance limited to 50.

QUINN TO RETIRE AS PRESIDENT OF BOSTON BRAVES

Boston, Mass., Feb. 14 (AP).—Bob Quinn, president of the Boston Braves, announced tonight on his 75th birthday anniversary that he would retire from that post to devote his time to development of an extensive farm system for the National league baseball club.

His son, John, secretary of the Braves, will succeed him as general manager, a position the father has filled while serving as president.

Bob Quinn told newsmen at a birthday party in his honor that he believed one of the owners—Joseph Maney, Guido Rugo, and Louis Perini—should be named president.

He said that the club owners planned to either buy or obtain a working agreement with a Class AA club. The organization now has a Class A club in Hartford, Conn., and a Class B club in Evansville, Ind.

MOSCONI TOUCH STILL EVIDENT; WINS 2 BLOCKS

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 14 (AP).—Willie Mosconi of Toledo, O., scored a 92 point victory over Ralph Greenleaf of Detroit tonight to increase to 972 his lead in their match for the world pocket billiard championship.

Mosconi, defending champion, took the 32d block of the 50 block match with ease, having a high run of 50 as compared to Greenleaf's 19. The pair will play eight more blocks in Detroit before moving to New York next week for the final 10. Mosconi also won the afternoon block, 125 to 17.

Fort Custer Defeats Kalamazoo Five, 47-31

Kalamazoo, Mich., Feb. 14 [Special].—Fort Custer defeated Kalamazoo college tonight in the latter's final home game, 47 to 31. The soldiers never were behind, altho Kalamazoo managed to tie the score several times. Custer led at the half, 19 to 17. Charles Castle, forward, led the winners with 13 points.

Primas Win 2; Take 3 Game Classic Lead

The Prima Beers increased their lead to three full games after last night's Classic league session in Congress arcade, 2047 N. Milwaukee av. They captured the first two against Art Butler's Washington Shirts, but lost the final.

Keeley Half and Half lost ground in the second half season struggle as the runner-ups by dropping the odd game to Congress Arcade and barely averted a shutout by winning the middle game by 12 sticks.

The highlight match of the evening was the battle between Bill Flesch's Monarch Beers and the first half winners, Thompson Restaurants, with the latter taking two of the three, sparked by Jules Sowa's final 246 game and Rudy Habetler's high 658 series, which was tied by the anchor man, Jake Lenzen. The Thompsons also rolled the high team series with 2,934 and also the high team game with their final effort on a 1,047 total.

In the other matches Chapin & Gore swept their series against the Du Bouchetts, dropping the latter into the cellar and elevating themselves into a four way tie for fifth position, and the defending champion Meister Braus lost two to Sunkist Pies.

Gears Defeat Fort Wayne Quintet, 57-55

Bob McDermott of the Fort Wayne Zollners may lead Stan Patrick of the American Gears in the National league scoring, but it was Patrick who scored 26 points in the Coliseum last night to give the Chicago team a 57 to 55 victory over Fort Wayne.

Fort Wayne had a two point lead with but two minutes of the game remaining when Stan broke thru for a close-up shot to tie the score at 55 all. In the final 30 seconds Patrick repeated his performance for the winning basket.

The White Lines girls' team defeated Allis Chalmers of Milwaukee, 31 to 14, in the first game on the double header card.

MAJORS STAND PAT ON LINEUPS AND SCHEDULES

New York, Feb. 14 (AP).—Major league baseball schedules calling for 154 games and the routine alignment of teams are in the hands of the printers, it was learned today, with only minor changes from the 1944 playing charts.

The three trip plan adopted by the sport after a conference in January, 1943, between the late Commissioner K. M. Landis and Joseph B. Eastman, then director of the ODT, will be continued.

Delay of some western club owners in selecting their night game dates held up the National league schedule until today and the American calendar may be altered further to take care of an increase in night activity.

Discounts Merger Talk.

President Ford Frick of the National league said there had been no talk of merging the circuits on an east and west basis and added there was no indication the ODT would make any such request, according to his recent conversation with Col. J. Monroe Johnson, director of the transportation bureau.

"Such a plan might make traffic more complicated in some places," commented Frick. "It is on the short trips from New York to Boston and Washington that facilities are overjammed."

Frick parried queries about the commissioner situation by saying no club owner had requested him to call a joint meeting to discuss the matter and added he did not expect any such move.

No More Conferences.

"I expect one of these days the word will go out to the 16 owners and some candidate to just happen to meet in a certain place," the National league president said, adding the qualification that it was merely his personal idea on what might happen.

Altho War Mobilization Director Byrnes has returned to Washington, Frick said Will Harridge, American league president, and he had no plans for any conference with government officials in the immediate future.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

WORLD MONEY PLANS 'SYMBOL OF U.S. CHANGE'

Step Toward Peace, Says Morgenthau.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 14 (AP).—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau said in a radio broadcast tonight that the Bretton Woods international monetary agreements stand before the world "as a symbol of the end of economic isolationism in the United States."

Sec. Morgenthau.

Addressing the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, Morgenthau asserted that America is emerging from this war in a position of world leadership. Its willingness to take a clear and firm position on the problem of international economic coöperation "is the first step in meeting the greatest challenge of all history—the challenge of a lasting peace," he said.

Admits Lack of Perfection.

The Bretton Woods agreements reached by representatives of 44 nations for creation of an international monetary fund and an international bank for reconstruction admittedly do not represent perfection, Morgenthau said, but they "do represent a concrete avenue toward international coöperation on the economic front."

The underlying cause of failure to stabilize currencies after World War I. was the view of each country that this was a problem of exclusive concern to it, he said.

"Informal attempts were made to stabilize currencies, but they failed," said the treasury secretary. "When a country altered the exchange value of its currency—whether as an honest attempt to maintain stability or as a surreptitious grab for somebody else's markets—other countries were inclined to regard the change as an act of economic aggression.

Recalls Varied Values.

"Competitive currency depreciation led to other forms of economic warfare. New controls were put on exchange between countries. The blocked balance was developed. Currencies were introduced which had different values, depending on who owned them, how they were used, and to whom they were paid. Germany alone before the war had more than 20 different types of marks which she used in foreign trade. Almost all of the new currency tricks restricted and burdened trade."

Morgenthau said the Bretton Woods agreements "would reduce artificial barriers against making payments across international boundaries" and "stabilize the value of all member currencies relative to each other."

Not a Lending Scheme.

"Let me make this clear—the fund is not a scheme of lending money to debtor nations—and those who see it in that light are missing its entire meaning," he asserted. "Essentially, it is an instrument to prevent the disastrous outbreak of economic warfare.

"Each member country will have the strongest of inducements to keep its currency in line so that its credit and foreign trade may be preserved and expanded."

BANKERS OPPOSE FUND

New York, Feb. 14 (AP).—The New York State Bankers association entered the debate over the Bretton Woods monetary program today with a report condemning the international monetary fund but approving the international bank.

The report, issued by a committee appointed several months ago to study the proposals, was similar in its conclusions to that which the American Bankers association made last week.

"The purposes of the monetary fund are desirable," the report said, "but we doubt whether they would be realized by its adoption. We cannot escape the conclusion that the fund is not a suitable instrumentality for dealing with the tasks that lie immediately ahead in hastening the favorable environment necessary for monetary stability. Until substantial progress has been made in dealing with fundamentals, real monetary stability cannot be attained."

MORGENTHAU COMES OUT FOR TAX CUTS AS POST-WAR NECESSITY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14 [Special].—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau in his annual report to congress today for the first time advocated selective tax reductions and adjustment after the war to encourage private expenditures for consumption and investment. Such measures "are essential to the realization of full employment in a peace time economy of free enterprise and competition," he said.

An important factor in the difficult process of timing the downward adjustments will involve the possible continuance of inflationary pressures into the transition and immediate post-war periods, he said, and the point at which these will disappear.

Premature relaxation of heavy taxation might jeopardize the sustained success of the economic stabilization program. Conversely, too great a delay might imperil the post-war maintenance of high levels of employment and business activity. Morgenthau said.

Little if any tax reduction should be expected, he warned, until after major hositlities cease on all fronts.

Bare Army's '22 Report on Surplus Seller

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—The senate war investigating committee disclosed today that Herbert Bayard Swope, consultant to Secretary of War Stimson, recommended Jacob Goldberg as an auctioner of government surplus property notwithstanding a report in the war department files that Goldberg in 1922 had been suspected of bribing a government auctioneer selling surplus from World War I.

It was Swope's letter of introduction that led to Goldberg's firm using the names of Jesse Jones and Bernard Baruch, as well as Swope, in soliciting auctioneering business from various bureaus. He obtained contracts for two sales for the Defense Plant corporation, which supposedly had investigated his background without looking into war department records. Swope's daughter is married to a son of Goldberg's partner, Herbert Brandt.

Closes Public Hearings.

The committee today closed its public hearings on these two sales, the juggling of price figures, and the testimony of one DPC employe that Goldberg had attempted to bribe him last December. The chairman, Sen. Mead [D., N. Y.] said a report will be made to the senate after an audit is completed.

Earlier in the session Goldberg replied, "I don't remember" to questions about a war department investigation of him in 1922. Ferguson then read into the record from war department files a report by Quartermaster General H. H. Rogers to the then Secretary of War Weeks on a hearing into charges that Goldberg had offered a government auctioneer, Charles Gerth, $25,000 as a bribe in connection with Goldberg's bid of $110,000 for surplus property being sold at Camp Funston.

"I am not entirely satisfied," wrote Gen. Rogers, "as to the intent with which young Goldberg [now white haired and fat] made the offer to Gerth. That he made it is, of course, not doubted, but it is not clear that the offer was a corrupt one.

Offer Held Irregular.

"It was undoubtedly irregular and improper. The evidence [Goldberg later at auction paid $138,000 for 60 per cent of the property he had sought to buy by negotiation for $110,000 to the government and $25,000 to Gerth] tends to indicate that the $25,000 offer to Gerth may have been made to induce him to recommend the acceptance of an unfavorable offer."

Goldberg was suspended by the war department as a qualified bidder on surplus property but was reinstated with the late James A. Reed, Democratic United States senator from Missouri, acting as his attorney, it was disclosed this afternoon.

Goldberg, saying his memory had been refreshed, declared he was persecuted for exposing government errors in selling millions of dollars worth of property "for peanuts." This was also his only explanation for a second charge of attempted bribery last December.

EAGLE-PICHER'S PLANT SOLD TO TEXTILE MAKER

Sale of the Eagle-Picher Lead company plant at 4401 S. Western av. to Twin Cities Textile Mills, Inc., the deed of which was recorded yesterday, disclosed extensive post-war plans by both companies, involving the erection of a new million dollar plant by Eagle-Picher and eventual removal of the textile firm's manufacturing activities from St. Paul to Chicago.

As soon as war conditions permit Eagle-Picher will erect a new Chicago manufacturing plant on a site to be announced. Its six story south side plant, sold for $100,000 thru Winston & Co., contains 70,000 square feet of floor space.

Midwest Textile By-Products, Inc., a subsidiary of Twin Cities Textile Mills, maker of wiping wastes and journal box packing, occupies leased quarters at 4556 W. Grand av. The company expects to be in full operation at the Western av. building by March 1.

BAR U. S. TRUST PROSECUTIONS OF INSURANCE

House Votes 3 Year Delay, 315 to 57.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—The house by an overwhelming vote of 315 to 57 today approved legislation granting insurance companies a three year moratorium from application of federal anti-trust laws and holding the public interest calls for state, rather than federal, regulation of insurance.

The unusual measure, if it becomes law, would nullify until January, 1948, a United States Supreme court decision of last June which was denounced in today's floor debate as establishing novel and "shocking" legal doctrines. A bill differing only in minor details was approved by the senate last month.

Upset Long Precedent.

The high court, dividing 4 to 3 and overturning a 75 year precedent in favor of exclusive state regulation, held that a group of southeastern fire insurance companies charged with collusion in rate making were subject to indictment under federal anti-trust statutes. The decision reversed a lower court ruling in upholding the stand of Atty. Gen. Biddle who brought the suit.

The house approved bill would set aside this decision for three years to permit the various states to enact regulatory laws over insurance companies in harmony with federal anti-trust laws.

After January, 1948, the insurance business would be subject to the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust laws in conformity with the high court decision, but not to any other federal statutes unless they include specific provisions as to insurance. The moratorium does not exempt the insurance business from Sherman act restrictions against boycott, coercion, or intimidation.

Has Two Fold Purpose.

Rep. Walter [D., Pa.], sponsoring the bill, told the house that the high court decision had thrown insurance companies and state insurance officials into confusion, because of its implication that insurance regulation was a federal and not a state function.

Walter said the bill has a two-fold purpose: To declare state regulation of insurance to be in the public interest, and to assure more adequate state regulation of insurance by giving states three years to consider additional legislation before the court decision becomes operative.

During the debate Walter recalled that the four justices rendering the opinion constituted less than an actual majority of the court's nine justices. Two did not participate in the decision. The famed jurist, chief justice Marshall, declared more than 100 years ago that new conceptions of law should not be set forth by less than a majority of the full court, Walter remarked.

GRAIN FUTURES CLOSE UNEVEN IN SLOW TRADE

Grain futures prices were uneven in slow trade yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Favorable weather in the middle west and reports that needed empty grain cars were coming back from the east in volume restricted buying. Professional traders were cautious pending developments abroad and in the car supply.

Wheat closed unchanged to ¼ cent a bushel higher. Corn and rye each declined ¼ to ⅜, oats finished ¼ lower to ¼ higher, and barley ⅛ to ¼ higher.

SEC Will Hear Utility Plea on Integration March 14

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 14 (AP).—The securities and exchange commission today set March 14 for a hearing on an application by the Middle West corporation, Central and South West Utilities company, and American Public Service company for a year's extension of time in which to comply with an integration order of Jan. 24, 1944.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

PERSONAL INCOME TAX.

[This is the first of a series of articles on how to prepare your personal income tax return. The articles will present general information. Specific questions will be answered by mail.]

By midnight March 15, every person whose 1944 gross income was $500 or more must file a federal tax return. An estimated 50 million individuals are required to make returns.

If the taxpayer is in the military or naval services and is on sea duty or outside continental United States on the filing date, he is permitted to delay the filing of his return.

For the first time, regardless of state laws, minors are required to report their wages and pay the tax, the requirements being the same as for adults. Formerly a parent was considered to own his child's earnings and was required to include them in his taxable income, unless the laws of state of residence specifically provided that they belonged to the minor. Under the new rule the parent remains liable for any unpaid tax of his child. Minors formerly were required to report and pay tax on unearned income only, except in those states where their earnings were considered as belonging to them.

Part or all of the tax liability of most employes was withheld from their wages during 1944 by their employers and turned over to the treasury [with certain exceptions including farm labor, domestics, and casual employes].

Many other taxpayers have kept up to date with their tax liabilities thru payments of estimated tax. Both these payments, however, are only approximate. Moreover, because of amendments to the revenue law, tax rates and personal exemptions in many cases differ from those on which the withholding tax and estimated tax for 1944 were based.

Any remaining tax due must be paid when the return is filed, if it is on form 1040. If you use the new simplified form W-2 [revised], which is the employer's withholding tax receipt, for making your return, no payment is due until you receive a bill from the collector.

Your return will show the amount of taxes paid by you during 1944. If there has been an overpayment, you may designate on form 1040 whether you desire a refund or wish the credit applied against 1945 estimated tax, if any.

Many employes have overpaid their 1944 tax, partly because of the increase in the exemption for each dependent, now $500 compared with $350 allowed against the withholding tax last year. Part time workers whose income was not more than $550 [personal exemption plus the 10 per cent standard deduction credit] will have claims for refund of any taxes deducted from their wages. To obtain a refund it is necessary to file a tax return even tho income was less than $500. Claims for refunds may be made on form W-2 by taxpayers who meet the required income tests, or on form 1040.

[Friday's article will discuss more fully the forms used in filing income tax returns.]

Group Denies Vitamin Price Fixing Charge

Answering a government suit charging monopoly, price fixing, and other violations in connection with the marketing of patented vitamin D products, the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation filed in United States District court yesterday a reply denying all accusations of illegality and asserting that all actions were designed to safeguard the public interest and preserve legitimate royalty income.

The Foundation, a business organization formed to develop commercially on behalf of the University of Wisconsin the research results of its staff, denied monopolizing the manufacture or sale of vitamin D or vitamin D products. It asserted that there are many competitive forms of the vitamin, including that in or extracted from a variety of fish liver oils, and synthetic preparations processed under patents which do not conflict with those the Foundation licenses to various food and medicinal products companies.

Refused to License Some.

The Foundation admitted exercising two forms of control, but asserted both were to protect the consumer.

First, the Foundation regulated the potency of vitamin D food products "for the reason, among others, that in the opinion of the plaintiff it is contrary to the public interest for food products to be fortified with vitamin D in therapeutic rather than prophylactic amounts with the result that foods so fortified would be sold as medicines."

Second, the Foundation said, it has refused from time to time to issue licenses to some companies "to protect the public from having foisted upon it inferior, fraudulent or spurious vitamin D products."

Foundation Started Litigation.

The patents involved in the suit were obtained by Dr. Harry Steenbock of the University of Wisconsin and cover a process of producing vitamin D by irradiation of various foods and medicinal preparations with ultra-violet ray light. Subsequently the patents were turned over to the Foundation, which licenses them commercially.

The litigation started about 18 months ago when the Foundation sued Douglas laboratories, manufacturing chemist, for patent infringement. The government intervened with a counter-claim against the Foundation, and last October amended the counter-claim to include 17 other defendants, naming one individual and the 16 drug and food companies.

The case has been scheduled for trial before Judge Barnes on Sept. 11.

NEEDS SHIFT SO FAST WAR OUTPUT PLAN IS OUT OF DATE IN MONTH

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14 (AP).—The war is traveling at such a fast pace that production goals of only a month ago are too low now, the army said today. The WPB in a separate action also called for pumped up output with emphasis on a new secret fighter plane, heavy bombers, trucks, and engine parts.

The army's 1945 procurement schedule was raised 1.6 billion dollars from amounts fixed in January to a total of 37.8 billion, 18.9 per cent above 1944 deliveries. Undersecretary Patterson said this meant a heavy load on American industry and labor.

Beside air force increases, ground troops were booked to get 21.9 per cent more ammunition, heavy artillery, and tanks. The schedule for tanks was up 70 per cent.

WPB has undertaken an overhaul and 50 million dollar expansion of the engine parts industry to meet a "critical emergency" in battle zones. It has installed three man panels in each of the seven major engine plants with overriding priority power. WPB also is installing its own men in 36 parts plants.

Manufacturers were said to be "coöperating enthusiastically," with an end of critical shortages expected by June 1.

OFFER NEW U. S. CERTIFICATE FOR MATURING NOTES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14 (AP).—The treasury said today it will offer next Monday 1 year ⅞ per cent certificates of indebtedness in exchange for $4,451,111,700 of treasury notes which mature March 1 and March 15.

The maturing notes are $2,126,896,000 of 0.09 per cent series D-1945, $1,606,204,500 of 1¼ per cent series C-1945, and $718,011,200 of ⅞ per cent series A-1945.

The exchange will be on a par for par basis with an adjustment of interest to March 1.

STOCKS EXTEND RISE IN BIGGER, BROADER TRADE

Transfers Exceed 2 Million Shares.

New York, Feb. 14 (AP).—Investment rated industrials and selected rails scored new advances in the stock market today, altho closing prices were below the top levels. The improvement ranged from fractions to more than a point in the broadest market since May, 1940.

Transfers climbed to 2,060,000 shares, largest since Jan. 9, and involved 1,015 issues of which 580 closed higher and 219 lower. The Associated Press 60 stock average rose 0.2 to 60.7, the highest since Sept. 9, 1937.

Chemical Shares Soar.

Biggest gains were made by munitions issues with Union Carbide up 3¼ at 84½, du Pont up 1½ at 163, both new 1944-'45 highs, and Dow Chemical up 1¼ at 128. Chrysler topped 100 to set a new high, but slipped back to close at 99½, up ½.

Smaller gains were registered by United States Steel, Youngstown, General Motors, Willys-Overland, Western Union, Santa Fe, New York Central, Canadian Pacific, and Illinois Central. The last two also set new highs.

American Telephone, closing down ½ at 161¾, was lower most of the day, and toward the last was joined by Southern Railway and Texas company.

RAIL BONDS ADVANCE.

New York, Feb. 14 (AP).—A slow advance in rails tipped the scales in favor of generally higher prices in today's bond market. Gains were smaller than yesterday's. Scattered industrials and utilities gave up some ground but investment rated issues continued in favor. Sales were $10,830,000, compared with $10,340,000 yesterday.

United States government obligations turned lower after publication of details of a refunding offer for $4,451,111,700 of maturing certificates with new one year ⅞ per cent paper.

CHICAGO LIST HIGHER.

Prices rose yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange in turnover of 66,000 shares. Actively traded issues included Chicago corporation and Sinclair Oil, each up ⅛; Asbestos Manufacturing and Miller and Hart, each unchanged, and Admiral corporation, up ¾ to a new 1944-'45 high of 12. Nineteen others set peaks.

ILLINOIS POWER REVENUE HIGHER, NET PROFIT OFF

The Illinois Power company last year had the largest operating revenue in its history, but net income decreased, Allen Van Wyck, president, reported to stockholders yesterday. Operating revenue was $28,384,606, up $1,673,743 from the previous record in 1943. Net income was $2,690,305 against $3,276,019.

During 1944 the company completed a major bond refunding program that reduced interest charges about 2 million dollars. Despite this and the higher revenue, the company's net income was cut thru the 1943 sale of Iowa subsidiaries and federal income and excess profits taxes, Van Wyck said.

Canada Stand Balks SEC Aid to Investors

Enforcement of United States securities laws applicable to Canadian issues, particularly gold mine stocks, is difficult because Canada does not consider violations of these regulations by its citizens extraditable offenses, Edward H. Cashion, counsel for the securities and exchange commission, said yesterday.

"The Canadian courts have held that the present extradition treaty between the United States and Canada does not cover violations of the securities laws," Cashion said. "Consequently, altho such offerings are illegal, we have been unable to reach the violators in Canada.

New Treaty Not Ratified.

"We have been aware of this situation and have been seriously concerned about it for some time. More than three years ago the commission brought the situation to the attention of the state department which prepared with Canadian authorities a new treaty to cover such offenses. That treaty was ratified by the United States senate in June, 1942, but up to the present time the treaty has not been ratified by the parliament for the Dominion of Canada."

This situation forestalls any immediate or effective action in regard to the numerous issues of gold mining shares now being offered Chicagoans thru the mails and by telephone. One such issue is the Scarab Yellowknife Prospecting syndicate, Toronto.

The commission said the group has not filed a registration statements as required by law.

Ask Federal Indictments.

"When we ascertain that any Canadian issuer, underwriter, or dealer illegally offers or sells a security from Canada into the United States, we notify him that he is violating our laws and we send a copy of the letter to the securities commissioner in the province from which the illegal offering is made," Cashion said.

"Where sales continue to be made in violation of our laws, we refer the matter to the department of justice with the recommendation that indictments be filed against the prospective defendants so that when they later enter the United States we may apprehend them and bring them to trial."

PRIME CATTLE AT PEAK, OTHERS STEADY TO WEAK

Competition for the dwindling supply drove prices of prime steers and heifers in the Chicago stock yards to higher levels yesterday despite a steady to weak market in most other classes of cattle.

Long-fed steers in prime condition reached $17.50 per hundred pounds, the highest cattle price in a month tho 50 cents below the ceiling of $18. Heifers rose to $17.25, a peak since November, and second highest on record in February.

Receipts of cattle were the smallest for a Wednesday in three weeks, but remained well above the mid-week average this year. Short-fed steers and heifers again made up the largest part of the run and were barely steady.

A small increase lifted hog receipts to the largest on a Wednesday in three weeks, but demand far exceeded supply and ceiling prices were paid for all but sick. Lambs were mostly steady, with some 15 to 25 cents lower.

Wabash Railroad Calls 4 Pct. Bonds Due in 1971

The Wabash railroad has called for redemption on April 1 at 101½ and interest all its outstanding 4 per cent bonds of series "A" due in 1971. Funds for the redemption were provided by the recent sale of a similar amount of new 3¼s due in 1971.

APPRAISAL

In regard to newspapers, this is how the people of Washington appraise the leader and the runner-up.

The circulation of the Times-Herald exceeds that of the second paper by more than 34,000 daily, 77,000 Sunday.

That is one subject on which there is no argument in Washington.

AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE

Don't You Believe It? We're Selling 'Em and Cheap, Too! Save $100 to $1,000
"AS GOOD AS GOLD"
We'll go out of "Our Way" to give YOU an honest square deal.
BECAUSE (1) We're out of the high rent district.
BECAUSE (2) We don't need fancy trimmings or high pressure salesmen.
BECAUSE (3) You don't pay for silk curtains, marble floors.
